LEE ALLEN SOLOIST WITH SHOW TO APPEAR IN MURPHY

LEE ALLEN

A GOOD SHOW

A truly remarkable not to say wonderful performance on the violin was given Monday night by Lee Allen of Missouri in the tent of the Williams Stock Company. This artist took for his number one so to speak of his program the beautiful song "Listen to the Mocking Bird," which originated over sixty years ago and is a never imitation of the notes of the South's incomparable songster. To be added many other notes, particularly the low warblings and whistlings of the numerous birds of the South, which he produced with wonderful exactness. No one familiar with the mocking bird imagination that the violin could be made to produce the bird's song with such wonderful fidelity but Mr. Allen has accomplished the feat thereby proving that he is a master of the violin. The audience with which the tent was filled to capacity was simply delighted and gave the artist a rousing applause.—St. Petersburg, Fla. Times.
