C. B. MALLONEE DIES OF PARALYSIS LAST SATURDAY

Funeral Services Held at M. E. Church
Sunday Afternoon; Interment in Sunset Cemetery

Commodore Danney Mallonee, 76 years old, prominent and well known Murphy citizen, died of paralysis at his home in East Murphy Saturday afternoon. Mr. Mallonee had been in failing health for the past several years. Last November he suffered a stroke of paralysis, and since then had been confined to his bed. Again last Wednesday night he suffered a second stroke, which left him totally paralyzed. All that loving hands and the science of medicine could do was done, but in vain. The end came quietly Saturday afternoon at five minutes till 1 o'clock, and he crossed the Great Divide without regaining consciousness.

Mr. Mallonee was born in Franklin N. C., and moved with his family to Murphy and Cherokee county about twenty-eight years ago. He was a member of the Methodist Church, having been converted early in life, and on a number of occasions before losing consciousness, he expressed hope in Christ.

He was well known throughout this entire section, and lived to see his children occupying responsible positions in the social and business life of the community and county.

Funeral services were conducted by his pastor, Rev. D. H. Rhinehart, at the Methodist Church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, assisted by Rev. E. G. Glazy, of the Presbyterian Church and Rev. T. L. Sasser, of the Baptist Church. Interment was in Sunset cemetery. The following were the pallbearers: active: Sid Pendley, T. W. Axley, H. D. Barnett, J. W. Davidson, Harve Elkins, Elton Christopher, Neil Davidson and C. W. Bailey; honorary: R. B. Ferguson, Will Bryson, J. M. Barnett, and Fred More, C. B. Hill, local funeral director, was in charge.

The large number of sorrowing relatives and friends who gathered to pay their last respects, and the many beautiful floral offerings were tributes to the high esteem in which Mr. Mallonee was held.

He is survived by his wife, two sons and five daughters: E. C. Mallonee, of Murphy, and J. A. Mallonee, of Peachtree; Mrs. J. M. McGuire, of Peachtree; Mrs. J. G. Greene, and Misses Carrie, Lyda and Bessie Mallonee, of Murphy. One brother and one sister: E. S. Mallonee and Mrs. Lizzie Shields, of Franklin; and a number of grandchildren.

Moving Of Scout Office Is Delayed

Due to the non-arrival of the new cylinder press the moving of the Scout office to the John E. Fain building, over Davidson & Carriger's store on Valley River Avenue, has been delayed. The press was not shipped until Wednesday of this week and it will be Monday or Tuesday before it arrives.

Plans are being made to keep the job department going with as little interruption as possible, so that customers will not be delayed in their companies the first of each month.

Dr. Durham Thanks Mrs. Nettie Dickey

Atlanta, May 24, 1926.
Mrs. Dickey, The Dickey House,
Murphy, North Carolina.

Dear Madam:

I feel that I must express to you my deep appreciation of your hospitable treatment of me while a guest under your roof and in breaking your schedule of hours to give me early breakfast and speed me on my way to Young Harris.

Wishing you a long life in the good work of entertaining strangers, I am

Sincerely,

PLATO T. DURHAM.

Dr. Durham preached the commencement sermon at Young Harris, Ga., on May 23rd. He is Dean of Emory University, Candler School of Theology, Atlanta.

Memorial Day

Three Hurt, Car Demolished in Plunge Over Embankment

Misses Maurine Fain and Della Meroney, and J. E. Ledford were severely injured in an automobile wreck Sunday night on the Appalachian Scenic Highway when the car in which they were riding plunged over the embankment, near Bellevue.

They were brought to Murphy and given medical attention, and it is believed that their injuries are not serious. Mr. Ledford has recovered sufficiently to be out again.

The car was a new Chevrolet coupe and was completely demolished.

Hall Buys Cooper's Stock Of Goods

Mr. J. L. Hall, former water superintendent for the city, last week bought the stock of goods of W. T. Coopers on Peachtree Street next to the Regal Hotel and will continue to do a general merchandise business.

BOOKS PLACED IN H. S. LIBRARY

Some recent additions of books to the high school library included one entitled "Gypsy Trails," donated by Mr. R. R. Reynolds of Asheville, who is the author. Mr. Reynolds gives in this little book a history of his trip around the world in a Ford two years ago.

DeHart Sells Bakery To Quinn & Campbell

Mr. J. H. Dehart has sold the Murphy Bakery to S. E. Quinn and A. C. Campbell, who took charge on Wednesday the 26th. Quinn & Campbell will discontinue the restaurant they have been operating next door and give their entire attention to the Bakery and restaurant in connection with the Murphy Bakery.

J. M. Stoner Has Fine Demonstration Patch of Alfalfa

Will Graze Cow On It All Summer and Make Two Tons of Hay
First Year

J. M. Stoner prominent citizen of Murphy, believes that Alfalfa will solve the roughage feed question of the farmers of this section. To prove his theory, Mr. Stoner planted a small corner of his garden to Alfalfa. The patch is 120 by 120 feet, and was sown last October. The first cutting was made the first of May, and it is now ready for cutting again.

Mr. Stoner says he will graze his cow on it all summer and gather two tons of hay besides. He brought a stalk into the Scout office the latter part of last week that measured 33 inches. He says the patch now, less than a month after the first cutting, will average 15 inches high all over.

On a plot 120 by 120 he put 300 pounds of lime, six loads of manure and planted ten pounds of seed. He stated that a rich, deep, loam will grow from three to four crops of alfalfa hay a year for seven years without replanting.

"The farmers of this section are buying thousands of dollars worth of rough feed a year," Mr. Stoner stated "and if they would prepare the land and plant it to alfalfa with a few years they could be shipping thousands of dollars worth of rough feed out of the county each year, besides having enough to tide their stock over the winter."

Mr. Stoner invites anyone interested in growing alfalfa to visit his place on Dillard Street and see his patch of alfalfa.

Strong Endorsement Received By Alley In Congressional Race

The friends of Hon. Felix E. Alley present for the favorable consideration of the voters of the Tenth Congressional District his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Congress.

A native of Jackson county, but for the past twelve years a citizen of Haywood County, both as a public man and a private citizen, he is well known by the people of North Carolina.

Mr. Alley is, in the truest sense a self-educated and self-made man.

Handicapped in his early life by the lack of educational opportunities yet, despite all obstacles and by force of character, studious habits, untiring industry, unflagging courage and incessant endeavor, he has won his way to a position in the front ranks of his chosen profession, and is recognized by all as the equal of the ablest lawyers in North Carolina;

Andrews Girl Marries Mr. Richard Patton

Andrews, May 25.—A wedding of simple beauty took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Bristol when Miss Helen Bristol became the bride of Mr. Richard M. Patton, of Canton, and Spruce Pine.

The impressive ring ceremony was performed by Rev. J. R. Church, pastor of the Andrews Methodist church, before a small group of members of the families of the bride and groom and a few intimate friends.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Raymond Andrews, accompanied by Miss Maybel Fisher at the piano sang "O Promise Me." The wedding march from Lohengrin was played while the party approached the improvised altar. Little Miss Mary Dell Davis daintily dressed in peach voile over satin was ring bearer, she carried the ring in a beautiful white rose. Mrs. W. T. Forsythe, was her sister's only attendant. Mrs. Forsythe escorted with Mr. Robert Patton who was his brother's best man.

Mrs. Forsythe was handsome in rose crepe with rose picture hat. Her corsage was of pink rosebuds.

The bride and groom entered together. She was never lovelier than in her girlish frock of white crepe and lace, her tulle veil was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of rose buds. Her only ornament was a string of pearls.

During the ceremony, Miss Fisher softly played "To A Wild Rose," by MacDowell, and Mendelssohn's wedding march was used as a recessional.

For the wedding the marriage room was beautifully decorated with white roses, ferns and palms.

Shortly after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Patton left by motor for Spruce Pine, where they will reside. The bride's going away suit was of blue and grey with accessories to match.

The Great Smoky Mt. National Park

Extension of remarks of Hon. Zebulon Weaver, of North Carolina in the House of Representatives, Friday, May 14, 1926. On the bill (H. R. 11287) to provide for the establishment of the Shenandoah National Park, in the State of Virginia, and the Great Smoky Mountain National Park, in the States of North Carolina and Tennessee, as taken from the congressional Record:

MR. WEAVER. Mr. Speaker, for many years the subject of the creation of one or more national parks in eastern America has been more or less discussed. It remained, however, for the present Secretary of the Interior, Hon. Hubert Work, actively to project the present effort looking to the consummation of this purpose. This bill, H. R. 11287, introduced by Representative Henry W. Temple of Pennsylvania, provides for the establishment of two great parks in the eastern Appalachian Mountains, one in the State of Virginia, known as the Shenandoah National Park, and the other in the mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee, to be known as the Great Smoky Mountain National Park. Another bill introduced by Congressman Thatcher, of Kentucky seeks to convert that great natural phenomenon, the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky, together with numerous other caverns of wondrous beauty and interest, into a third national park.

I am more familiar with the area sought to be included in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park than with either of the others. I have no doubt that the Shenandoah Valley Park is of superb and commanding beauty. I know that the natural wonders of the great caverns of Kentucky are most worthy of preservation by the National Government. But it is my purpose to call the attention of my colleagues particularly to the Great Smoky Mountains area.

The 18 national parks are situated west of the Mississippi, where there is only about 24 per cent of the population of the United States. It is now desired to establish these three areas in the eastern United States, within easy reach of its vast and growing populations where more than 80 per cent of the people reside. The Great Smoky Mountain area, the greatest mountain wilderness east of the Mississippi, massive in its proportions, and covered with primeval forest, instead of being in some remote part of the Nation, is, in fact, very near to the center of population of the United States. The center of the population of the United States is in Bloomington, Ind., a comparatively short distance from the Great Smoky Mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee. This area can be reached by rail and automobile from every Eastern State, from every Southern State, and from every State east of the Mississippi without any long and enduring journey. To visit the great national parks of the West now requires days and weeks of travel, and while their beauties and grandeur are superb there are comparatively few people of the United States who can undertake this journey, from lack of time or want of means. With these great parks established in the East they would be open to her teeming population. It would be the Mecca for her millions of people in quest of health and pleasure and recreation.

But how few there are who know or have the slightest conception of the area that is embraced in the territory to be acquired on the Smoky Mountain area. Its very remoteness and lack of roads has preserved it in its primitive grandeur, but now with the coming of roads and means of transportation, unless steps shall be taken to keep it as God gave it to us, its glory, its wonders, and its attractive beauties, its primeval forests and wonderland of flower and shrub and tree will not survive the attack and the inroads which will be made upon them.

Concretely it is proposed to set aside in the Great Smoky Mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee some 400,000 acres so as to preserve for posterity a typical and primitive area of the great Appalachian. The Appalachian range of
