Mr. T. S. Evans is happy—in a few days he will be "tickled pink." Mr. Evans is happy because of the host of people who have visited the attractive show rooms of his garage during the last few days and have lingered over the large lithographs of the new Ford car. He will be tickled pink when his first new Ford arrives so that he may demonstrate that it is not a mere refinement of the former model T Ford, but that it is a new car from radiator cap to rear axle.

Wherever the new Ford has been on display multitudes of people have flocked to inspect it and, according to the newspapers, have gone away enthusiastically acclaiming it.

Besides the beautiful new body lines and color harmonies, its better hardware and upholstery, and its greater seat space and leg room, the new Ford embodies so many radical mechanical changes and improvements that it is hardly recognized as even a remote relative of the model T.

VIOLIN RECITAL GIVEN BY ARTIST AT ANDREWS

"Plays Like a Kreisler", says Atlanta Constitution — Varied Program, Popular Prices — Adventurous Life.

A Russian violinist, more concerned about the gift of God than the gift of music, will give a violin recital in the school auditorium Friday night, December 9, at 7:30 P. M., in an effort to educate himself in a Christian country for missionary service in his far-off homeland. The violinist, who, according to The Atlanta Constitution, "plays the violin like a Kreisler", will render a varied program consisting of religious selections, classical numbers, American and Russian national and popular music, and a reading in the Russian tongue. The program will be interspersed with a piano solo by Miss Anderson, of Murphy, and a reading by Mrs. J. W. S. Davis. Admission will be 15 and 25 cents.

Half Around Globe

During the World War this Russian belonged to the white army and after its defeat by the reds fled to northern China. While a fugitive there he found it impossible to continue his instruction upon the piano and began work upon the violin under the tutelage of a noted Russian violinist, himself also a fugitive from the reds. While in China he was converted to Christianity at a Methodist mission, which he persuaded to furnish him transportation to America in order that he might prepare himself here to spread in Russia a religion of love and understanding. From China he made his way to Japan, thence to Honolulu, across to San Francisco, and finally landed in the Georgia mountains, where he is a student at Young Harris college.

Merits Support

The fact that the Russian referred to is Mr. V. G. Oseppoff, well known to many Andrews people, should not lessen our interest in his adventurous life nor weaken our impulse to Christian helpfulness nor our otherwise great desire to demonstrate by our patronage our enthusiasm in thus helping a foreigner who has traveled half way around the globe to cast his lot among us for a time and carry back to his native land the brand of Christian zeal he finds here.

A fugitive from the land of his birth, without citizenship in the United States, and refraining from subscribing to Russian papers for fear of being misunderstood by the American government, Mr. Oseppoff says he sometimes feels himself "a man without a country." He finds much consolation, however, in his American friendships and in the violin he loves and plays so well, and we wish for him a large audience Friday night.—Andrews Outlook.
