minute visit in the death house. Hauptmann, he said, has been apprised that Governor Harold G. Hoffman's 90-day legal reprieve powers have expired, but he feels that something will turn up to save him.

Two Courses for Defense.

Fisher said two courses are open to the defense: A direct appeal to Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, trial judge, for a new trial, and a new appeal to the court of pardons, which turned down Hauptmann's request for clemency on January 11.

The lawyer, who has fought Hauptmann's battle for the past 17 months, said he has not decided upon the first step he will take. He inclines to appeal for a new trial he said.

"On what grounds?" he was asked. "On everything we have turned up about the state witnesses, Mildard White, Amandus Hochmuth and Joseph Perrone," Fisher answered promptly.

"If we can show," Fisher went on, "that the state's conviction was based on evidence that is faulty, that's enough. If we can show that Hochmuth and Whited did not see Hauptmann that would be extremely important."

Whited, the Saurlands logger, and Hochmuth, Hopewell octogenarian, placed Hauptmann near the Lindbergh estate about the time of the kidnapping. Perrone was the taxicab driver who swore Hauptmann was the man who paid him $1 to deliver to Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon the note bearing instructions how to meet the kidnaper.

Testimony Questioned.

The testimony of the three has been questioned by Governor Hoffman, who after a secret visit to Hauptmann on the night of October 17, interested himself in the case, granted a 30-day reprieve on January 16, started an investigation of his own and ordered the state police to reopen theirs.

Of Whited the Governor said the records appeared to show he "was lying."

Hochmuth's testimony, he said, "was open to suspicion." And Perrone, he said, had identified other men as the sender of the note before he saw Hauptmann and identified him.

Fisher said he had not been informed of a report that an investigator from Governor Hoffman's office would take plane Tuesday for Cuba to investigate an "Isidor Fisch" angle in Havana. The Governor's office denied the report.

The investigator, the report said, was going to see Cuban police and Dr. Arturo Gonzalez Alfonso, Havana lawyer, who said recently he had seen a letter signed "Isidor Fisch," asking a person to cash "some marked money."

Labor Sees Groundwork For Another Depression

Washington.—The American Federation of Labor accused industry today of "laying the groundwork" for another depression by pushing production ahead of purchasing power.

At the same time, however, the federation predicted that "high profits" in the last half of 1935 would lead to expanded production and increased employment in the immediate future.

In its monthly business survey, the federation found that the nation was experiencing "the beginning of unbalance" between production and purchasing power "which lays the groundwork for the next depression."

"When production outstrips buying power, sooner or later the increase in production must stop for want of a market," it said.

"When this happens, men are laid off, profits decline and depression follows. It is important for labor to realize that the next depression begins here and now, while we are recovering from the last."

"It is significant also that while industry operated under NRA, the balance between production and buying power was kept."

"The end of NRA was followed by significant gains in profits, losses to workers. Business no longer assumes any responsibility for absorbing the unemployed."

"In the last half of 1935 profits of 120 large corporations increased 141 per cent. Increased earnings of industry made possible a substantial lifting of wages, but actually average wage rates were reduced by one cent per hour between July and December, 1935; hours of work were lengthened so that the average work week was three hours longer in December than in July, and by this increase more than 1,500,000 jobs were denied to the unemployed."

"High profits have strengthened business confidence so that we may expect industry to expand production and increase employment."

"But employment gains last year were only half what they could have been if work hours had not been lengthened and even these gains were bought at the price of an unbalance between production and workers' buying power which denies to workers their share in recovery, limits the market for industry's product and must, if not corrected, cut down production and prepare the way for another depression."

Industry is so equipped to produce but is some better at this writing. Mr. M. T. Raper was the guest of Mr. A. A. Williamson Sunday morning.

TAX PROBLEM BARRING MAY 1 ADJOURNMENT

Washington.—The knotty problem of writing a $792,000,000 tax bill for President Roosevelt virtually has scuttled congressional hopes for May 1 adjournment.

Word to this effect circulated on Capitol Hill Saturday even as the administration's relief program for the next fiscal year—another potential source of delay—began to take form with the President preparing his recommendations for submission to Congress before heading for southern fishing grounds Thursday.

Even Speaker Byrns conceded Saturday that adjournment by May 1 looked less promising than it did before a House ways and means subcommittee ran into difficulties over the tax program. But he added that he was not yet ready to revise the goal fixed earlier.

"I'm trying to spur them on," he said.

June 1 was the date which Representative Martin, of Massachusetts, assistant House minority leader, considered likely for winding up congressional business.

June 1 Earliest Expected.

Both Democrats and Republicans on the ways and means committee privately expressed the thought that he might be right.

today, the federation maintained, that the worker who could spend $1,500 in 1929 should have $1,740 in 1936

Trout Season Opens In County On Monday

Anglers will be whipping the old rod and reel around this week in search of the most elusive of the aquatic species—old Mr. Trout himself—for the season opened Monday.

Trout fishing is one of the favorite sports of this section, many lakes and streams being well-stocked with the prince of prizes in the fisherman's category.

Debereaux Birchfield, county game warden, announced at the same time that the season closes on all coarse fish from April 1 to May 10.

ALLOTMENT FOR A'R-MARKING IN STATE APPROVED

Washington.—An allotment of $14,730 for state-wide air marking in North Carolina was approved Monday by the Bureau of Air Commerce.

The funds will come from the Works Progress administration money allotted to the bureau for airport and air marking programs.

The bureau's approval means that the projects are satisfactory from the technical viewpoint, insofar as aeronautics is concerned. This approval is required by the WPA before any project can be listed as eligible for a federal allotment.

The project includes the marking of air routes, painting of names and signs on roofs of buildings, and making similar landmarks visible and intelligible from the air.
