Old Folks Day Is Observed At School July 4

On July Fourth the John C. Campbell Folk School of Brasstown, N. C., held its annual Old Folks Day in honor of the older members of the community. The festivities were attended by many both old and young, who braved the inclement weather to come.

Following the dinner in the dining room of the John C. Campbell Folk School, the older men went to the School Museum, in lock of which they helped to erect the log-barn that had stood for many years on the hill across the road. The Museum now stands completely equipped with various pieces of old furniture donated by members of the community and presents a living picture of an old-time mountain home. The newly erected log-barn complements it.

After the barn-raising ceremony the men returned to the Community Room, where all heard Mr. W. J. Martin of Martin's Creek, give the welcoming address. Mr. Landess, Assistant Agricultural Director of the TVA, spoke on the importance of soil conservation and erosion control. Mr. Landess illustrated his most interesting talk with colored slides showing soil conditions both in this country and abroad.

John Jacob Niles, collector and singer of folk songs and member of the School staff, sang a number of songs to dulcimer accompaniment.

Among outside visitors were the guest speaker, Mr. Landess, and Mrs. Landess; Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Loeffler of "Allanstand", Asheville, N. C., and their daughter, Mrs. Kathryn Kniesche, of Baltimore, Md.

EPISCOPAL

MARBLE BEATS JASPER TEAM AT MURPHY SUNDAY

Blues Wallop Georgians 8 to 3 In Impressive Home Victory

By Marion Doss

The Marble Blues displayed a great deal of baseball prowess on the Murphy field Sunday afternoon to defeat Jasper, Ga., by an 8 to 3 score.

The attack was led by the hitting of E. Tatham, Kirkland, Pleško and Trull.

H. Chastain, Wood and Hambrick put in the best performances for the Georgians.

Fast fielding by the Marble team and the pitching of Lefty Barnett kept the score down.

Mother of Dionne Quints Gives Birth to 12th Child

Callander, Ont., July 9.—Mrs. Oliva Dionne, mother of the quintuplets, gave birth to her 12th child early today. It was a boy, weighing eight pounds. Mother and baby were reported doing well.

Dr. J. E. L. Joyal, who attended the birth of the child, said it arrived "in the early part of the morning." Later it was learned the baby was born at 3 A. M.

"Both mother and child are doing well. That's all I care to say," he said.

The birth was anticipated several weeks ago but the family shrouded the event in mystery. No one, except closest friends, was allowed to see Mrs. Dionne.

Last midnight Dionne called Dr. Joyal who has attended his family since the break with Mr. Allan Roy Daffoe, the quintuplets' doctor, and asked him to hurry out.

A nurse, Dr. Joyal and Papa Dionne were present when the baby was born. The doctor, who had seen Mrs. Dionne once previously since her latest confinement and made arrangements, said the birth was normal in every respect. The nurse had been in the barricaded Dionne home since Sunday night, attending Mrs. Dionne.

The five older Dionne children were all asleep. Mrs. Dionne was ailed in a room downstairs in the seven-room farm house where the quintuplets also were born.

The doctor stayed an hour after the baby was born, then left. He said he might return late today to visit the mother and baby.

Dionne made his usual daily trip to North Bay in the morning, chatted with a few townspeople, but told them nothing about his new baby.

The Dionne home presented its usual quiet appearance all day. Neighbors displayed only casual interest in the event. The birth had been rumored so many times that when the baby finally came, it seemed like an anti-climax.

The Dionnes were an obscure French-Canadian farm family, unknown beyond their own rural community, until May 28, 1934, when five baby girls were born within 30 minutes time to the 24-year-old mother.

Be Careful In Feeding Minerals To Livestock

Feeding minerals to livestock, without due consideration of the animals' needs, often does more harm than good.

Animals do need minerals, however said R. H. Ruffner, head of the animal husbandry department at State College, and one of the most important is salt.

He recommended that grain mixtures fed dairy cows should contain one per cent salt, but no more. Salt blocks in a box should also be kept before the animals so they can lick up any salt they need in addition to that in their feed.

Next in importance are phosphorus and calcium. But if the feed crops are grown on land well fertilized with superphosphate or other phosphorus fertilizer, and well supplied with lime, the feed will contain enough of these minerals to supply the animal's needs.

When there seems to a need for phosphorus in the ration, it can be supplied in steamed bone meal by adding a pound of meal to every 100 pounds of grain.

Calcium may be added to the ration at the same ratio in the form of ground limestone ground oyster shells or clam shells, or food ashes. Wood ash contains only about two-thirds as much calcium as ground limestone. Never feed unslacked or water-slaked lime.

There are ten to 15 other mineral elements necessary for dairy cows but most of these are furnished in adequate amounts in the average ration made up of feeds grown in North Carolina, Ruffner pointed out.

To attempt to supply minerals other than salt, phosphorus, and calcium is expensive and sometimes dangerous, he warned.
