New Chevrolet
Prices Announced

New York, Nov. 12—Prices for the new Chevrolet passenger cars for 1937 were announced here today by W. E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager, upon his arrival for the National Automobile Show.

It was revealed that for 1937 Chevrolet would have a completely new line of cars, incorporating one wheelbase and with identically the same appearance. Heretofore, there have been two distinctly different lines of cars with two lengths of wheelbase and quite a wide variance of specifications.

Prices of the Master Deluxe models remain approximately the same as those of the 1936 cars. The popular coach and town sedan models have been reduced $5, while the four-door sedan and the sport sedan prices remain unchanged. The coupe and sport coupe are the only models to be increased in price and these only $5 over the 1936 levels.

Prices of the Master Chevrolet now cover features formerly offered as optional at extra cost, including knee-action, safety plate glass all around fenders in color matching the body, and larger tires. The individual model prices are as follows:

Coach, $595; sedan, $660; town sedan, with trunk, $620; sport sedan, with trunk, $685; business coupe, $585, sport coupe, with rumble seat, $615.

The list prices of the Master Chevrolet, which also include the added equipment except knee-action, are uniformly $60 under the Master Deluxe prices.

Body models in the Master Deluxe and Master lines are the same except that the Master cabriolet with rumble seat takes the place of a sport coupe in the Deluxe line. The Master wheelbase is 3 3-4 inches longer than that of the 1936 models and this model also includes as standard equipment synco-mesh transmission, larger tires, safety plate glass and fenders in color to match the body.

Both models are completely new in engine, chassis and bodies, and are identical in design with the exception of knee-action and special features of equipment and interior trim supplied only in the Deluxe models.

Millions of times, every day, events occur which are small or great in the lives of individuals or the nation—and in which some phase of the telephone industry plays its part.

Maybe Mrs. Jones is ordering that loaf of bread delivered. Someone is frantically summoning a doctor. An American salesman is selling an order to a client across the ocean. A stockholder is opening an envelope containing the dividend on his investment in the telephone business. A telephone man is taking an order for service with pride in himself at the service he has sold. The foreign minister of one great nation is speaking with the foreign secretary of another world power.

These voice-to-voice contacts between human beings, separated by a few blocks or by the spans of oceans and continents, are possible today because the Bell System from the beginning has recognized and accepted its definite responsibility to all groups of people.

There is an obligation to telephone employees, whose noted loyalty would not exist if it were not deserved. There is an obligation to users of the service, and the United States has over half the world's telephones because good service at a reasonable cost is the rule. There is an obligation to the people who have invested their savings in the Bell System, and their confidence has been justified. There is an obligation to the people of the nation as an organized whole, expressed in the payment of taxes, and in this the Bell System has carried its share. There is an obligation to the future of telephony, and the Bell Laboratories have been a conspicuous success in meeting this duty to the future communication needs of this nation and the world.

All of these obligations have been summed up in the guiding policy of the Bell System, "the most service, and the best, at the lowest possible cost."

Worth about 90 cents — and also $27,500

Some pegs and strings... A few pieces of wood worth about 90 cents. Simple materials available to other violin makers... But only the master — Stradivari — had the skill and the artistry to create a violin that generations later would be bought for such a fortune.

Brewing ingredients, too, — even the finest — are available to anybody. But today, as in the days of the old masters, only skill can make a product recognized for its connoisseur quality and character.
