Thousands Attracted To 'Singing Grave'

Cleveland, Nov. 19.—Thousands of persons in recent months have visited the "Singing Grave" of Heln Pelczar listening for "miraculous music" said to filter from beneath the trampled sod.

Catholic church officials said Wednesday that a "thorough investigation" was being made of the reported miracle.

"I have been all afternoon and heard nothing," said one shivering woman as the chill autumn wind whistled through the trees and bushes of Calvary Cemetery, where the Polish woman was buried ten years ago.

"But no doubt I am not good enough to be allowed to hear it. I guess only certain ones can hear it."

Another woman said she could hear plainly a woman's voice singing "Ave Maria." A third said she could hear a sound but it was like muttering or mumbling.

Men came, too. One spread a newspaper and knelt. Wide-eyed children watched expectantly. Some pilgrims brought little bunches of chrysanthemums, holy medals, rosaries, to place by the stone which read:

Helen Pelczar
Ave Maria

Msgr. Eugene P. Duffy, director of cemeteries, said he knew nothing of Helen Pelczar except that she belonged to the Third Order of St. Francis, Catholic lay organization, and that she was buried in the robes of the order.

"So far as I know Helen Pelczar may have been a very holy woman, but, well, I visited the grave and I heard no voice", he said.

"I wish people would stop ruining the grass. There have been claims of cures. One woman said she was cured of heart ailment. My own heart is none too good. It helps me to go to the cemetery where the air is pure. It would help anyone."

Pilgrimages to the grave continued. Some scooped up earth, wrapped it in their handkerchiefs and put it away in pocket or purse. Their faith was unshaken.

Regional Teachers Meeting At WCTC

The Regional Conference sponsored by the State Department of Public Instruction with Miss Juanita McDougald as representative will hold session at Western Carolina Teachers College on Saturday, November 21st. This is an "Open House" day for teachers throughout Western North Carolina to study a school in action. The schedule will emphasize the course of study in action and functional language arts. Visiting teachers will have an opportunity to observe work done directly with the children and young people of the various grades of the Elementary and High School departments of the Training School by the regular members of the faculty and also by the student-teachers of the College.

The schedule for the morning has been planned as follows: 8:45, Registration and Informal Visiting; 9:30, Determining Reading Readiness (using the Betts Testing Plan and other means)—Miss Bryan of Asheville, Miss Redding of Bryson City, Miss Brown of Bryson City, and Miss Black of Cullowhee; 10:20, Outdoor Play and Recreation—Student Teachers in charge; 1:30, grade one—Miss Black—Using the Sense of Rhythm to produce Pleasure and to Arouse Creative Responses; Grade Two—Mrs. Coward—Dramatic Reading; Grade Three—Miss Walker—Reading to Secure Directions for Carrying Out Activities Based upon a Unit on the Life of Primitive Man; Grades Four and Five—Miss Jenkins—Reading in the Content Fields for Information to Develop, and to Provide Materials for, Thinking; Grade Six—Miss Murphy—Choral Reading (Verse Choir) Techniques in Developing Individual Discrimination in Literary Appreciation.

At 10:40 three High School groups of Brasstown held a joint supper meeting at the Folk School Saturday night. A delicious meal, provided by members of the Women's club, was enjoyed by all. The program for the evening was a talk by Mrs. Campbell about her recent visit to Japan. Movies of that interesting country were shown, and several articles brought back by Mrs. Campbell were exhibited.

The next meeting of the Women's Club of Brasstown is to be held Wednesday, Nov. 25, at the home of Mrs. Frank Ghiringhelli.

Timely Farm Questions

QUESTION: Are minerals necessary in the ration of a dairy cow?

ANSWER: Yes. The minerals that are used most by the dairy cow and therefore most likely to be lacking in the ration are calcium, phosphorus, and common salt. Legume hays, when grown on soils not deficient in lime will usually supply sufficient calcium. An adequate supply of phosphorus can be secured from the grain ration if it contains as much as thirty percent of feeds rich in this material such as wheat bran or cottonseed meal. The salt should be supplied by adding one pound to each 100 pounds of the grain mixture and also allowing the animal free access to it in the pasture or exercise lot.

QUESTION: Is it necessary to treat the wounds made on apple trees when they are pruned?

ANSWER: Where the wounds are two inches or less it is not necessary to use any protective material. Pruning wounds heal more rapidly when made close, but it is always advisable to avoid leaving stubs that will necessitate the new bark growing up over the wound. When the wounds are larger than two inches it is advisable to cover them with a preparation of pure white lead and will meet as follows:

English II—Miss Hooper — Silas Marner; English III—Principal Hoyle—Poetry from Unit entitled Understanding Human nature; Economics IV—Miss Hines—Unit on Money.

At 11:30 the College Literature Class under the leadership of Miss Camp, teacher, will consider the topic "Preparing One's Self to Enjoy and to Teach Literature. Following this there will be a Round Table discussion on the subject "Are We Doing a Better Job Than Heretofore in Language Arts" with Miss McDougald in charge.

Luncheon will be served in the College Dining Room at 12:30.

CCC Boy Is Dead Of Pneumonia Thursday

The body of Wilbert Couch, 19-year-old CCC boy who was stationed at the Robbinsville camp, and who lived on linsed oil. Grafting wax, Tree Tangle Foot, or a Bordeaux Mixture linsed oil preparation may be used with good results.

Question: How can I prevent my flock of purebred White Leghorns from producing eggs that have yellow tinted shells?

Answer: These tinted shelled eggs is the result of a breeding factor either on the male or female side or, in some cases, both sides. There is nothing that can be done to prevent the production of such eggs this year, but if none of the tinted shelled eggs are used for hatching and new males secured for breeding next year from a source that does not show tinted shells, the trouble should be eliminated. The yellow tint in the shell is not related to the number of eggs produced nor to the food value, but it is well to breed it out of the flock as soon as possible.

I. E. S. BETTER SIGHT LAMPS
reduce danger of eyestrain

THESE amazing new I.E.S. Better Sight Lamps... that cost only a cent or two an evening to operate... are scientifically designed to help prevent eyestrain. They come in a wide range of attractive styles in both floor and table models.

The lamp shown is a direct-indirect lamp. It throws light directly on your book and at the same time floods the room with a generous quantity of indirect light—free from harmful shadows and annoying glare. See these direct-indirect lamps— as well as other I.E.S. Better Sight Lamps—in our show room. Cost little to buy and little to operate.

DIRECT-INDIRECT LAMP
New models of the direct-indirect lamp have a glass reflector especially adapted for a MAZDA Indirect Three-Lite lamp which gives three levels of illumination from the same bulb. Besides throwing light against the ceiling for general illumination, the glass reflector permits ample direct, downward light. For more severe visual tasks, add the light from three candles beneath the shade, taking 40 or 60 watt MAZDA lamps.

IMPORTANT—Be sure to look for the authorized certification tag on the lamp you buy. It isn't an I. E. S. Better Sight Lamp if it doesn't have this tag.

When measured with the light meter, this I. E. S. Better Light Lamp gives 20 footcandles of light at 30 inches from the lamp... the minimum amount science prescribes for eye tasks.
