SYMBOLIC of Southern Bell's tremendous importance to the vital communication system of the South is its Seal—an emblem of proven service to industry and the public and now to defense. The national emergency is making unprecedented demands upon every resource at our disposal in men, women, materials and money. Recruits are daily swelling the ranks of our trained army of workers. Our reserves of basic equipment are being taxed to the utmost to keep pace with the ever growing demands for more and more telephone service. The more than 51,000,000 dollars required this year for constructing, reconstructing and adapting telephone facilities to meet government and other telephone needs is being willingly invested to insure the expansion and protection of telephone service throughout the nine southern states we serve—Southern Bell is geared to serve the South.
