Sgt. Frank H. Stalcup Training At Motor Transport School

The Cherokee Scout has been advised by Maj. Gen. George Grunert, commanding general of the Sixth Corps Area, with headquarters in Chicago, that Sgt. Frank H. Stalcup has been appointed to a special three months' course of instruction in general Army mechanics at the Quartermaster Motor Transport School, Fort Sheridan, Ill. Sgt. Stalcup is 23 years of age and is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Stalcup, whose home is at 417 Hiwassee street, Murphy. He enlisted as a private in March, 1941, while employed in Washington, D. C.

Commenting on the appointment of Sgt. Stalcup, Maj. Gen. Grunert said: "Sgt. Stalcup and his fellow-students will have highly important tasks awaiting them when their schooling is at an end. They are the men who must give reality to the slogan 'keep 'em rolling,' and that means both combat vehicles and the supply trucks of the Quartermaster."

"So that these men may be thoroughly prepared to meet the problems of mobile warfare, the officers and civilian automotive experts of the Quartermaster Corps who compose the school faculty, are emphasizing practical bench work with the tools of the mechanics trade. Before they can win diplomas as first-class soldier-mechanics, they must prove their ability by doing actual repair and maintenance work on vehicles that are in daily operation throughout the Sixth Corps Area."

Successful completion of the course will mean that Sgt. Stalcup is eligible for promotion and appointment to a post as supervising mechanic or motor transport administrative assistant.

A mechanic and service station attendant before entering the Army, Sgt. Stalcup said in a statement for The Cherokee Scout: "The training at the Quartermaster school is something I have always desired and know the knowledge I am acquiring here will not only make me a more efficient soldier but also be of great help when I return to my old job."
