OPS Sets Up Local Advisory Groups

Consumer advisory groups to co-operate with the Office of Price Stabilization in its campaign to stabilize prices and thereby guard the nation's economy are being set up throughout the territory served by the Charlotte district office. District Director J. Ray Shute of Monroe revealed recently.

People appointed for Andrews are: Mrs. Ruth Sursavage, sec'y; Mrs. John Christy, Mrs. Luke Ellis, Mrs. Ruth Starr Pullum and Mrs. L. B. Nichols.

People on the advisory group in Cherokee County are Mrs. B. B. Sates, secretary; Unaka, Mrs. Roberta Davis, Unaka; Mrs. P. Roberts, Unaka; Mrs. G. H. Butler, Hiwassee Dam; Mrs. Gay Murphy, Violet Rt., Unaka; Mrs. Dallas McKnown, Oak Park; Mrs. Paschal Hughes, Rt. 2, Murphy; Mrs. E. Roach, Rt. 2, Culberson; Mrs. Edith Cooke, Rt. 1, Copperhill, Tenn.; Mrs. Clyde McNabb, Rt. 2, Murphy; Mrs. Grady Smith, Rt. 2, Murphy; Mrs. B. E. Warner, Rt. 2, Murphy; Mrs. C. M. Hendrix, Rt. 1, Murphy; Mrs. Paul Suddeth, Rt. 1, Murphy; Mrs. Lucy Davis, Rt. 3, Murphy; Miss Maurine Gaddis, Rt. 3, Murphy; Virginia Abernathy, Rt. 3, Murphy.

Mr. Shute, who supervised the organization of 251 OPS volunteer committees in the 51 counties of the Charlotte district, foresees the organization within the next few weeks of scores of other consumer committees composed in the main of housewives. These women will aid the volunteer committees in their respective communities in carrying on locally the work supplementing that of the Charlotte District OPS staff members. Included those workers who regularly run the OPS field service offices being operated in 60 communities within the district.

Director Shute and his associates are confident that the consumer advisory committees will be of immense aid in taking the OPS program directly to the citizenship, and he realizes that without the support of the citizenship the campaign of the stabilization forces will be ineffective.

Finish Survey Of State Metal Working Industry

Jerome Silverman, a member of the North Carolina Small Business Committee said recently that the committee had completed classifying data obtained from a survey of the metal working industry in the State, and these data have been mailed to Defense Procurement Officers and Prime Contractors.

Mr. Silverman stated it was interesting to note how close the North Carolina Metal Working group parallels the everyday life of the average citizen. They can produce cribs for the infant, artificial limbs, and caskets; in fact, they can produce any item made of metal, but do not attempt to produce heavy items requiring mass production lines.

He also said that their record during World War II was something toward which all may point with pride—they made surgical instruments, artificial limbs, aircraft assemblies and parts, bombs and parts, guns and parts, land mines, shells and crafts, propellers and shafts, barges and hundreds of other components and tools necessary for the successful prosecution of the war.

Mr. Silverman said the committee was created to serve all small business concerns in the State regardless of what they produce and suggested that all firms with 500 employees or less file their name and address, number of employees and type of business with Small Business office in the Department of Conservation and Development at Raleigh. The committee will aid and advise in any problems facing small business.

He said that in case of an all-out emergency, the committee office would be in a position to assist the small business concerns of the State in shifting to defense production and conditions almost overnight.
