

Board Approves Street Program

The mayor and Andrews Town Board have approved a street improvement program which has used 1800 tons of gravel for improvements on the following streets: 650 feet on Walker Street; 250 feet on Tatham Street; 250 feet on Chestnut Street; 425 feet on First Street; 1100 feet on Valley Street; 950 feet on Graham Street and 300 feet on Laurel Street.

The cost of the program was approximately $3500. However, the expense to the town was considerably less since all expenditure for material was paid for by the State Aid Powell Bill funds. The town paid only for the labor.

Plans are underway for the future paving of 300 feet of Locust Street, from Second to Third.

Hiwassee Grange To Elect, Install Officer Tuesday

The people of Shoal Creek Township will meet Tuesday evening at 7:30 p. m. to elect and install officers for the Grange that is being established in that community.

Tom Ferguson, extension worker for the North Carolina Grange, will be assisted by members of the Peachtree and Marble Granges in the initiation ceremonies of the new unit.

Persons living in Shoal Creek Township who wish to join the Grange should be at the meeting Tuesday evening prepared to pay their initiation fee, says James Osborne, Hiwassee Dam School principal. Once the charter is passed, new members will be elected to membership. The purpose of the Grange is to make the community of rural people a healthier, happier, more beautiful place in which to live and rear children.

The North Carolina Little Symphony Orchestra made its seventh consecutive visit to Cherokee County Thursday. During the morning hours students helped in getting ready for the concert and light a ter lunch, the little folks gathered their chairs under their arms and proceeded to the gymnasium. The children, plus several hundred visitors from other schools in the county waited almost unbelievably quietly for the orchestra to assemble. An estimated assembly of some 2,000 children listened attentively to the concert and to the fascinating stories told by Mrs. Swalin.

The evening concert was given in the Andrews School auditorium. Evidence of the interest of the people of Andrews and neighboring communities, in the symphony music was shown by an attendance of between four and five hundred.

A special concert was played for the Andrews audience as Mrs. Bristol had requested several "light" selections.

The success of the concert was due largely to the enormous number of hours spent in preparation by Mrs. Edwin Bristol, chairman, and by Mrs. Tom Hay, children's worker, and the other county workers.
