

Gordon L. Butler Speaks In Shelby

Gordon L. Butler, Andrews Rotarian, received the honor of being called upon to be on the program of the Rotary International 280th District Convention held in Shelby last week.

Below are excerpts from Mr. Butler's talk entitled "Is It Fair To All Concerned?" The talk dealt with the subject of attendance.

"I consider it an honor to speak to a group of community leaders such as you are . . . If you were not a leader in your profession or trade, you would not be a Rotary, and you cannot be a leader in your profession or trade without being a leader in your community.

"As we think about attendance, let's remember that attendance is not an end within itself, it is only an means to an end.

"It is my intention to ask you a few questions that might start you to thinking . . . Is it fair to all concerned?

"We are referring to our rules on attendance. In the Andrews Club, not being to good at interpreting complicated rules . . . our one rule is this: Be at every meeting and stay for the entire meeting.

"Due to circumstances beyond our control, we occasionally have a member who missed a meeting. We decided that if that member would drive to a nearby club in the prescribed time, and stay for the entire meeting of that club, that we would give him credit for attendance . . . attendance to a nearby club involved the negotiating of not more than 100 miles of good straight mountain road.

"With these simple rules the Andrews Club has had about seven consecutive months of 100% attendance.

"Let us examine—is it fair to all concerned—1. For a club to give attendance credit to a Rotarian who drops into the weekly meeting just long enough to record his attendance, then leaves immediately?

2. For a club to ignore a member's absence when computing the attendance average, when that member has been granted a leave of absence?

3. For a club to give attendance credit to a Rotarian when a group of members, following a regular meeting, visit that Rotarian at his bedside during an illness?

"Are these, and other practices fair to the other club members who have made a sincere effort to maintain regular attendance?

"Let's select one week—so that we will all be working together, let's take the week of May 9th through May 16th—and have a 100% attendance meeting in that week, strictly according to the rules . . . and have someone give a brief explanation of the attendance rules and the "whys" behind them.

"The attendance rule is our rule—Let's keep it or change it. . . . Ask ourselves: Is it fair to all concerned?"
