State Named Acute Danger Area For Rabies

Dr. J. E. Dolan, District Health Officer, states that North Carolina has been designated as an acute danger area for rabies. Figures recently released by the North Carolina State Board of Health revealed over 250 positive laboratory-confirmed cases of animal rabies and over 700 people took the antirabic treatment in 1951. When clinical cases are considered, there would be several hundred positive cases of animal rabies. The term "Clinical cases" refers to live animals observed showing symptoms of rabies but whose heads were not sent to the State Laboratory of Hygiene upon death.

He pointed out that rabies control is a state-wide and national problem, but these problems are only as successful as the local programs carried out in the various counties.

The North Carolina State Board of Health recently established a Veterinary Public Health Section to assist the county health department toward organizing adequate rabies programs which will be uniform and which have one objective: the eradication of rabies. Dr. Dolan went on to stress that Cherokee County cannot be free from constant danger unless rabies is eradicated and unless the neighboring counties do the same.

In conclusion, he said that the County Health Department campaign to control rabies would depend entirely on the cooperation of the citizens toward this public health problem.

Mingus Succumbs To Long Illness

Byrum G. Mingus, 77, a farmer, died at 3 a. m. Thursday at the home of a niece, Mrs. Willard Headrick of Marble, after a long illness.

Funeral services were held Friday at 10 a. m. in Rogers Chapel with the Rev. Fred Stiles officiating. Burial was in the church cemetery with Townson Funeral Home in charge.

Surviving besides the niece is one brother, the Rev. S. C. Mingus of Murphy, Route 3.

More traffic accidents occurred on Saturdays last year in North Carolina than on any other day of the week.

"Better Get the Vet on the Phone"

Pure-bred cattle—sign of the South's new, balanced agriculture—mean more money for stockmen, better standards of living on the farm, a growing demand for telephones.

Farm telephone expansion has been one of Southern Bell's biggest and most important jobs for years—and today is more important than ever. It is a job that takes a lot of money, materials, experience, know-how—and time.

In just the past 6 years we have tripled our rural telephones. We're building more and more rural lines as fast as scarce materials and defense needs permit.
