PMA Committeemen Mercury Falls, Minimum Is 44 To Contact Farmers

tures of the 1953 Agricultural Conservation Program will be the Boy Scouts Hold contact of individual farmers by their elected PMA community committeemen during the month of October, says H. B. McNabb, Chairman of the Cherokee County PMA Committee

The soil and water conservation practice, or conservation measure, to be carried out by Cherokee County Farmers under the 1953 ACP will be those which the individual farmer and his community committeeman determine are the most needed for the farm.

In the chairman's opinion, this important step in program development can be expected to result in reaching more acres with needed conservation practices and in using Agricultural Conservation Program assistance for the most urgently needed practices.

The chairman explains that when the community committeeman visits an individual farm, he will be prepared to go over the farm with the farmer and help determine what practices or conservation measures are most needed. A year-by-year schedule of conservation operations worked out for each farm will enable the farmer to use program assistance most efficiently.

Mr. McNabb urges farmers to take advantage of this opportunity their pictures taken riding the to get the most effective help from the program, from the committeeman and from the agencies available in the county to help him Ella Jean Wells with his conservation problems. It will be a test of the committee system and a test of the Nation's efforts to assure the needed continued production, he says.
