

Beerkins Tells NCEA Differences In Educations

The vitality and practical sense applied to American schools and universities may be of far greater value than all the traditions surrounding European institutions of learning. Arnold Beerkins of Holland and local lumber businessman, told the Murphy Chapter of the North Carolina Education Association.

Mr. Beerkins spoke during a meeting of NCEA last Thursday night at the Regal Hotel.

He asserted that the American schools are not necessarily better than the ones in Europe but the vitality and practical sense had more value than tradition.

Mr. Beerkins pointed out that although Europeans boast of the oldest universities and classic schools, all Nobel prizes went this year to Americans except the prize for literature.

Last year, he said, the literature prize award went to an American, William Faulkner.

Mr. Beerkins pointed out the differences in the education systems in Holland and America. However, he asserted, the differences are in detail only. In America the student gets more practical knowledge while the European student is given a more basic knowledge, he concluded.

Extension Service Says Order Chicks Early

"A hen that lays just two eggs more than another hen is worth 10 cents more as a baby chick," T. B. Morris, poultry specialist for the State College Extension Service, said.

Morris pointed out that poultry raisers should place chick orders now to insure getting the kind of chicks they want.

"Breeding is the most important factor in buying chicks," the specialist asserted. "The best care and the best feeding will not make good layers out of poor breeding stock. On the other hand the very best layers will not show a profit under poor management."

"The market egg producer should always buy chicks that have been bred for egg production."

Under present condition, a hen must lay about 150 eggs to pay the feed bill, housing cost, equipment and other expenses. It takes at least 100 eggs just to pay the feed bill for the average laying hen.

"Good labor returns can be expected from flocks that lay 200 or more eggs per bird," according to Morris.

Because of rapid picking and ginning, cotton is turning out much better than expected.

Prices received by farmers in 1952 are averaging 3 per cent below those received in 1951.

County HD Council Plans Bazaar Sale

The County Home Demonstration Council will sponsor a Christmas bazaar Friday and Saturday, Dec. 19-20 in Moore's Dodge showroom. This bazaar will take the place of the Harvest Sale which was called off because of inclement weather last month.

Sales will begin at noon Friday, Dec. 19.

A number of handmade articles which were made for the Harvest Sale will be available and will make ideal Christmas gifts.

There will also be a section for homemade cookies and candies.

At the executive board meeting Dec. 5, the responsibilities were divided as follows: Murphy Club, furnish five card tables; Midway Club, Friday morning 8 o'clock until noon, receive and arrange baked products, produce and crafts; Sales, Friday afternoon, noon until 2:30, Mrs. Dallis McKown; 2:30-5 p. m., Mrs. J. F. Smith, Sunny Point; Saturday morning, 8 until 10, Bellview Club; 10-12, Ranger Club; Saturday afternoon, noon until 5 o'clock, Peachtree Club.

One goal for the proceeds is to buy a record player and PA system for the county agency.

Mrs. Foard Gives Christmas Music

Mrs. R. H. Foard presented a Christmas Musical program at the meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary at the Presbyterian Church Monday evening.

The program opened with Christmas carols sung by the group, followed by "O, Holy Night", by Adam, sung by Mrs. Hadley Dickey; a quartet, "Silent Night" sung by Mrs. Bob White, Gene Denning, Mrs. Bob Rector and Bob Rector; solo, Santa Claus is Coming to Town, by Sue Miller; and carols sung by seven girls from the Baptist Church, Nancy Mills, Judy Davis, Ann Gladson, Sue Miller, Ruth and Carolyn Bates and Annette White, directed by Mrs. Hadley Dickey with Mrs. Margaret Akin at the piano.

The auxiliary voted to give six Christmas baskets to veterans' families at Christmas.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. John Bayless, Mrs. Edna Phillips and Mrs. Bob Cheney.

Mrs. Bessie Deweese and Mrs. Ruth Carringer will be co-hostesses for the January meeting.

North Carolina had nine national winners in 4-H Club projects this year. Only two states had more.
