Murphy's new Chamber of Com-| merce-with sights set at $6,000this week had two-thirds of its expected membership signed up.

Frank Forsyth, temporary chairman and member of the steering committee, said five categories for membership in the organization were established at a recent meetership ranges are $25, $50, $75 and $100. A $10 membership established for individuals was who wish to make a donation to the Chamber.

The new organization must have at least $6,000 to operat this year, Mr. Forsyth said. He pointed out that investigations are being made on prospective candidates for the secretary positon.

Several colleges in both Carolinas are being contacted, he said, and job applicants will be asked to come to Murphy for an interview.

Business men who have not joined the organzation yet will be contacted by members of a membership committe, the chairman asbes of the congregation worshiped in the schoolhouse. A site for the new church was purchased in 1888 and the building was begun, under the leadership of Rev. Z. V. Cordell in 1892. In the summer of 1896 the church was dedicated. The Rev. J. T. Stover was pastor then.

In the following years, the congregation grew strong and the ing was sold and removed from the gallons.

FRANKLIN SMITH

Franklin Smith is shown with what was left of a cement wall and a Luscombe 65 plane after the plane crashed into the wall at Smith mont Farm Service in Peachtree last week. The wall was part of an addition Smith was putting onto his store, some 32 feet from the store proper. The plane sailed through a window in the wall, probably accounting for the fact that the pilot and one other passenger in the plane escaped unhurt. (Scout Photo)
