VALLEY VIEWS

By Evelyn Baker

CLASS OF 1954 BY VIRGINIA HUFFMAN

School will be ending soon and the Senior Class is looking back over the year at the many and varied activities they have participated in. At the first of the school year they ran the concession stand at the home football games.

Then they started to work on a school annual which turned out very well. After that they had a bake sale which was followed by the Senior Play of "Seven Keys to Baldpate." Most of the above activities were to raise money for the Senior trip to Washington.

They made enough money for this educational and entertaining trip and had some left over.

Throughout the year they have had several parties and are planning to have more before the next two weeks come to an end.

In some ways they are glad to graduate, but in others they are sad. There are many things they will remember about their school life and look back on in the future.

FASHION SHOW

The Home Economics Department under the direction of Miss Meredith Whitaker presented a fashion show Thursday in the High School Auditorium. All four classes participated in the show, modeling spring, summer and formal clothes. The theme of the show was a typical high school girl, portrayed by Lyla Ferguson, shopping in a Dress Shop for the dress of her choice. Each model wore the dress that she had made in class. Background music and songs were presented by Ardith Hay, Janice Lunsford, Jill Thorton, Frances Brooks, Maxwell Lee Lominae, Lillian West, Nina Brown and Aline Burnett.

The Grabbers

Lesson for May 16, 1954

ONCE there was a little boy who went to a party. His sister Annie was invited but she was sick and couldn't go. When the party was over the lady of the house gave each little guest a sack of chocolates. The little boy got two, one for himself and one for his sister, just alike. On the way home he stumbled his toe, fell down, and when he fell one of the paper sacks broke and the chocolates spilled into the road. "Poor Annie!" he said. We are all like that little boy. There is something in each of us that wants more than half of everything. If anybody is going to take a loss, let it be some one else! One car will pass another and perhaps the driver of the car being passed (if he has no manners) will Dr. Foreman yell out of the window: "Road Hog!" As a matter of fact, isn't a road hog just a person who takes the wide share of the road you'd like to have yourself?

Greed and Deceit

You might think the little boy in the story would be less of a grabber when he grows up; but he may be worse by that time. You might think people could be cured of being greedy by giving everybody just exactly the same; but there would be any number of schemers figuring how to get their share increased. You might think people could be cured of the grab-habit by letting them have all they want; but that seldom works, because some of the greediest people in history have been people who had more than any of their neighbors. The Bible story of Ahab and the vineyard of Naboth is a case in point. It isn't a story of the poor stealing from the rich, it is the story of the rich stealing from the poor, which after all is a rather common occurrence. The story of Ahab also illustrates some notable facts about this thing called Greed. One is that greed and deceit go hand in hand. Ahab told some terrific lies, and got others to do the same, all because he wanted Naboth's vineyard. When Hitler was on the rise, he made the solemn statement that all he wanted was the little area of the Sudetenland; what he really wanted was all of Europe, only it would never have suited his schemes to say so. When a poor man gets into the clutches of a loan shark, he is never told at first what the rate of interest is. When the St. Louis Post-Dispatch back in 1898 justly accused some prominent citizens of having accepted a quarter of a million dollars in bribes, of course those gentlemen denied the whole thing. Your greedy man—or for that matter the greedy corporation—all the way from the simple robber who pretends to be the night watchman, up to the monopoly that overcharges the public—never likes the light of truth on the operation.

Greed and Murder

When a murder has been committed, almost the first question the police ask is: "Who stands to make money by this crime?" Murders are about as common in the courts as in the city, in proportion to the population. What is the story back of killings in the farmlands? Very often it is some quarrel about a boundary line, about some stock, about the price of land or produce. Not all murders are for the sake of gain; but if a man is greedy enough, he will not stop at murder. Penitentiaries contain many a "lifer" who would not be there today if he had not been a greedy man.

The Prophetic Spirit

There must have been thousands of Israelite citizens who knew Ahab was a greedy murderous scoundrel. But it took the prophet Elijah to come out with the truth in plain language. Prophets are not always wild figures in hair-cloth robes. They are not always even preachers. A newspaper can have the prophetic spirit. That St. Louis paper, for instance, broke the Teapot Dome scandal; it exposed a half-million dollar "slush fund" spent by a utility company to bribe a legislature; it defeated a Democrat for governor who had tried to steal the election; and it defeated a Republican by showing that his party was tied up with those number-one Grabbers, the big-time gamblers. The spirit of Elijah is not dead; otherwise the grabbers might inherit the earth.
