Letters To Editor

February 8, 1955

Dear Editor:
We, the members of the Nantahala Regional Library Board, wish to pay tribute and respect to the memory of our esteemed and faithful members W. A. Adams, who passed away on Nov. 4, 1954.

Although he was born in the Ducktown area that is now part of Tennessee, he considered himself a native of Cherokee County and was devoted to its welfare. When a small child, his family moved to the Hanging Dog section where established life-long ties, serving as Sunday School teacher and deacon of the Hanging Dog Baptist Church even after moving to Murphy.

By profession, he was a surveyor whose work took him to all parts of the county. His love of people and interest in their welfare and their respect for his character and integrity, led him into responsible public service as County Surveyor and County Commissioner.

A great reader who had found in books the opportunity to extend his own limited educational background, Mr. Adams worked tirelessly to bring free public library service to the rural portions of the county. His outstanding achievement was the part he played in the campaign for the Cherokee County library tax vote which made possible the organization of the Nantahala Regional Library. He served on the Board of the Region from the date of its organization and his vision of the potential of the program was an important factor in regional planning and development. Numbers of times, also, he was called to Raleigh by the Secretary and Director of the

Navy Has Plan For High School Grads

Chief Charlie Holcombe, the traveling Navy Recruiter for Cherokee County, stated today that the Navy Department has authorized the reopening of the High School graduate training program wherein high school graduates may be assured of an opportunity to attend one of fifty-three basic vocational navy trade schools.

The programs thrown open to the high school graduate cover the fields of electronics, hospital and dental corps, aviation, and specialized schools for general service.

Good physical condition, between the ages of 17 and 31, with no prior military service, and good moral character were described as the basic requirements for enlistment under the program. Candidates must also attain a qualifying score on the Navy's enlistment examination, and present documentary evidence of graduation from high school.

This newly reinstated program was discontinued about 18 months ago, according to Chief Holcombe. Application can be made by contacting the Traveling Navy Recruiter, who will be in Murphy 2:00 to 4:00 p. m. on Tuesday at the Court House.

GEE RETURNING TO BASE

Airman second class, Leon Gee, has been home visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Gee.

He left Sunday after a six day day leave. He has returned to Clarksdale Air Force Base, Louisiana.

YOUTH FOR CHRIST

The West Liberty Youth for Christ will meet at Friendship Baptist Church Friday at 7:30 p. m.

North Carolina Library Commission to help arouse interest in county library service and support for the State Aid appropriation requests.

In recognition of these achievements of the dedicated man who was our associate, we do hereby offer the following resolutions:

First, that to his family we express our deepest sympathy.

Second, that we acknowledge our sincere appreciation for his contribution to the development of library service in the Region.

Third, that we cherish his memory and pray that the influence of his life and thinking live on in the hearts and minds of those who knew him and inspire them to the fulfillment of his vision.

Fourth, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to his family, that a copy be permanently recorded in the minutes of the Regional Board, that a copy be forwarded to the North Carolina Library Commission at Raleigh, and that copies be sent to the local paper and to the Asheville Citizen-Times.

Mrs. Tom Case, Committee Chairman.

Free Booklet
Covers N. C.
Fishing Spots

A new booklet covering sports fishing in North Carolina from the Gulf Stream to the Great Smokies is just off the press and available free from the Department of Conservation and Development, Raleigh, Director Ben E. Douglas announced.

The new booklet, with 30 double size pages in handy folder size, contains the latest information about salt water fishing, including such hot spots as Cape Hatteras, Nags Head, Oregon Inlet, Ocracoke Morehead-Beaufort, Wrightsville and Carolina beaches and Wilmington and Southport areas.

Covering fresh water fishing, it contains a brand new map of 100 top fishing spots in Western North Carolina.

The booklet was published by the State Advertising Division. It was produced by the Bennett Advertising Agency of High Point and was printed by the Washburn Printing Co. of Charlotte.

Jan. Egg Production
Makes N. C. Record

Egg production in N. C. during January of this year was estimated at 113 million. This was the highest January output on record, exceeding the same month last year by 1 million eggs.

The average number of layers on hand in the State during January 1955 at 9,016,000 was 184 thousand and below January 1954. Thus, an increase from 12.2 to 12.5 eggs laid per layer accounted for the increase in total egg production.
