Mrs. Holton Talks On Flowers At Andrews

Mrs. A. L. Holton of Big Stone Gap, Va., give a demonstration-lecture on flower arrangements last week at the home of Mrs. G. W. Cover in Andrews.

The demonstration followed a tea hour with members of the Valley Rived Garden Club as hostesses.

Guests were present from garden clubs in Murphy and Franklin, including presidents of visiting clubs, Mrs. J. Ward Long, president of the Franklin Garden Club; Mrs. W. E. Howell, president of the Cherokee Rose Garden Club of Murphy; and Mrs. W. V. Costello, president of the Murphy Garden Club.

Miss Frances Cover is president of the Andrews club.

The Cover living room, dining room and music room were decorated with flower arrangements for the occasion. The lecture-demonstration was held on the side porch, with guests seated on the lawn.

Mrs. Holton said that first, to arrange flowers well, one must "grow good flowers". She said that among qualities needed in a good arrangement are balance, line, pattern, voids. She said all materials used must be fresh.

The demonstration arrangements included a dried arrangement, Japanese arrangement, period (French) arrangement, and modern arrangements. She stressed the importance of the background to the arrangement.

Assisting in serving and entertaining were Mrs. Wade Reece, Mrs. C. O. Van Gorder, Mrs. R. A. Dewar, Mrs. F. E. Blalock, Miss Frances Cover, Mrs. Jeck Herbert and Mrs. A. B. Chandler, Sr.

The refreshments committee was made up of Mrs. W. T. Holland, Miss Gladys Christy, Mrs. Zeb Conley, Mrs. Frank Swan, Mrs. W. T. Forsyth and Mrs. John Christy.

Flowers for the occasion came from the gardens of Mrs. Chandler, Mrs. Jacw Herbert, Mrs. Joe Sur-savage, Mrs. Forsyth and Miss Cover.

Miss Lucy Welch Claytor Is Bride Of Whitaker Davis In S. C. Rites

Miss Lucy Welch Claytor, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Edward McCrady Claytor of Charleston Heights, S. C., was married to Daniel Whitaker Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Ewart Davis of Andrews, in the Episcopal Church of St. Peter's-by-the-Sea, Charleston Heights. The Rev. Mr. Claytor, father of the bride performed the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her brother, Samuel Barton Claytor, the bride wore a gown of white tulle over satin. The bodice was covered with imported Chantilly lace and the long sleeves ended in points over the wrists. The skirt featured panels of lace and ended in a Chapel train. Her fingertip veil was attached to a tiara of seed pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of white fujimums and lilies-of-the-valley, centered with an orchid.

Mrs. Robert Tolhurst, sister of the bride, of Dayton, Ohio was matron of honor. Miss Mary Walker of North Charleston, S. C. was maid of honor. They wore identical gowns of maize net over taffeta with fitted bodices and matching stoles and featuring a side puff of blue net. They wore tiaras of yellow iridescent sequins and carried bouquets of blue fujimums.

Bridesmaids were: Mrs. G. G. E. Manning, sister of the bride of Hopkins, S. C.; Mrs. Samuel Barton Claytor of Mount Pleasant, S. C.; Mrs. Samuel Miller Meyer of Augusta, Ga.; and Mrs. Thomas T. Galt of Charleston, S. C. They wore gowns fashioned like those of the honor attendants of blue net over taffeta with a side puff of maize net and tiaras of blue iridescent sequins. They carried crescent bouquets of yellow fujimums.

Flower girls were Miss Marguerite Manning, niece of the bride, of Hopkins, S. C.; and Miss Cynthia Mellard of Charleston Heights, S. C. They wore gowns like those of the honor attendants and carried nosegays of blue fujimums.

John Henry Davis of Franklin served as his brother's best man. Ushers were: Capt. A. G. Swan of Falls Church, Va.; the Rev. John Christy of High Point; Lt. (Jg) Braxton R. King of Stearns, Ky.; Lt. (Jg.) John M. Fleming Lawrence, Mass.; Lt. (Jg) George E. Lewis of Watertown, Conn.

The mother of the bride wore a dress of pale pink lace with matching hat and a corsage of sweetheart roses. The groom's mother wore a dress of blue lace with matching hat and a corsage of sweetheart roses.

A reception was held following the ceremony at Park Circle Community Building in North Charleston.

After a wedding trip the couple will be at home at 212 E. Rosemary Street in Chapel Hill, N. C.

The bride is a graduate of Tubman High School of Augusta and attended the Junior College of Augusta, Ga. and Louisburg College, Louisburg, N. C. Mr. Davis is a graduate of the University of North Carolina where he was a member of Phi Kappa honorary society.

He completed three years of duty in the U. S. Navy and is returning to the University of North Carolina where he will enter the Medical School in the fall.

The fish fry was an inter-club event with Kiwanians from N. C., Ga., Tenn. and Fla. in attendance.

SPEAKING & CARDS

FOR OLD CARDS

To many of us, an old deck of cards presents a minor problem. We hate to throw it out after the hours of pleasure it has provided and at the same time we don't want it cluttering up the desk drawer.

You might like to know of the ingenious uses some people have found for these venerable packs. For one thing, old cards can be made into attractive, useful and unusual presents. All you need, in addition to the old decks, are a pot of glue, some clear shellac and a pair of scissors. Just add a bit of your own ingenuity and you have the right formula. What's more, you can let the whole family in on the fun by gathering the children around the table to help you.

For example, colorful paper matchbooks, for use at your next Bridge or Canasta party, are among the easiest to make. Buy plain matchbooks at a stationery store and paste half of a face card on the front of each. If you cut just inside the black line around the court card and then straight across the middle, you'll find that the trimmed half-card will just fit the standard matchbook cover.

A handsome serving tray is another useful gift that can be made from an old deck of cards. You can purchase an inexpensive, standard-size tin or composition tray at your local ten cent or variety store. For decorating the surface of the tray, it is best to use a deck with plain backs, alternating the face cards and backs in a sort of checkerboard pattern. As a finishing touch, give the whole tray two coats of clear shellac to protect the surface from damage by cold drinks or spilled food.

The ordinary spiral pocketbook notebook may be dressed up for desk use by pasting a card with a monogram or decorative back neatly on the cover. This makes an attractive addition to a desk or telephone stand for quick notes and phone numbers. A blotter trimmed to the size of a standard playing card and pasted to the card makes a useful addition to your checkbook or purse. And you can complete a matching desk set by cutting the cards to fit the sides of a square ink bottle and gluing them there on all four sides.

If you just don't feel like cutting up the deck, there's still a good use for your old pack of cards. Your local hospital, orphanage, boy's club or veteran's home might welcome just this kind of contribution.
