Dr. Rufus Morgan of Macon County Named "Rural Minister of the Year"

Dr. A. Rufus Morgan of Macon County, N. C. is named North Carolina "Rural Minister of the Year" in the July issue of The Progressive Farmer magazine.

A native of Macon County, Dr. Morgan is a brother to Mrs. Ben Warner, Sr., of Murphy, and served in a number of Episcopal pastorates in North Carolina and South Carolina before returning to his home county in 1946.

He has had charge of from three to eleven churches there since that and has established several new churches, including one on the Cherokee Indian Reservation.

The newly honored minister has served on the Town and Country Committee of the North Carolina Council of Churches and for several years has been a member of the Southern Advisory Committee of the National Council of Churches.

This is the ninth year that Rural Minister awards have been presented in Southern states by Em-

HELICOPTER MAKES FORCED LANDING — This is the big Air Force helicopter that made a forced landing in the vacant field across from the Health Center Sunday afternoon after developing a leak in an oil line. It was repaired and flown out about noon Monday.

Air Force Cargo Helicopter Makes Forced Landing In Murphy Sunday

An Air Force cargo-type H-21 helicopter made an emergency landing here about 4:45 Sunday afternoon in a vacant field across from the Health Center.

None of the three-man crew of the 'copter were injured in the landing and after repairs were made the 'copter was flown out about noon Monday.

The trouble developed from a leaking oil line in the central transmission which synchronizes the ship's two big rotors.

Capt. William L. Garner, pilot, said the landing was "not particularly difficult" despite the fact that it was made on a soggy field in waist-high weeds.

Little Folk School Presents Program Friday at Brasstown

Han Christian Anderson "Night-gale" came to Brasstown at the John C. Campbell Folk School last Friday evening, amidst a Chinese woodland setting.

Over two hundred persons came from Brasstown, Murphy, Andrews and Hayesville to participate, see and listen.

The occasion was the close of the "Little Folk School", an annual two-weeks summer school for young neighborhood children. They learn freely and naturally through singing, folk-games, story-telling and delightful forms of handwork.

It was fitting that a Danish teacher in residence at the school for part of this year, Miss Solvejg Bording, should introduce North Carolinians to the masterpiece of Denmark's greatest story-teller.

Georg Bidsrup, Director of the Folk School, was the pompous Chinese Emperor. Philip Merrill and Miss May Gadd of the Country Dance Society of New York took prominent parts. Lynn Gault, local dramatist, unseen, read the script, while Mrs. Gault imitated the song of the nightingale on the flute.

The children of the "Little Folk School" appeared in Chinese costumes at court assemblies and in the woodland search for the nightingale whose song had brought tears to the eyes of the lofty Emperor and again restored his health when he was at the point of death.

World War I Vets Group Names First Officers Here

Murphy Barracks No. 905, Veterans of World I, USA, Inc. met at the courthouse Monday night at 7:30 with ninety-two members present.

Principal speaker for the evening was Dr. Philip Malone, Department Junior Vice Commander.

The following officers were elected at the meeting: Commander, F. O. Christopher; Senior vice-commander, W. D. Whitaker of Andrews; Junior vice-commander, J. G. Green; Quarter Master Adj., John O'Dell; Chaplain, the Rev. Fred Stiles; Judge Advocate, Ed Mauney of Blairsville, Georgia; Trustees, chairman, Clarence Hendrix one year; Claude Angle of Andrews two years and Q. W. Pruitt of Blairsville three years.

In the address by Dr. Malone, many of the important points in legislative program now on the docket of the House of Representatives and Senate were explained in detail to the large assembled group.

Dr. Malone stressed the fact that World War I Veterans were the forgotten men of 1917-18, and that they are dying at the rate of 236 veterans per day or approximately 70,000 a year.

Dr. Malone found no fault with the present or past administration or the president or past presidents. He emphasized the fact that the veterans alone were responsible for not having received recognition over the years in attaining their objectives, because they were too complacent by not exercising their franchise at the polls.

He stressed the fact that every veteran of World War I controls six votes in his immediate family and relatives, and should they band together in one concerted effort they could demand of Congress to give them their pension and not plead for same as they have been doing over the years.

A native of Cherokee County, having been born outside of Ranger, Dr. Malone complimented the Murphy Barracks on the marvelous growth they have made "membership wise" in the short time of two and one-half months.

Dr. Malone stressed the fact that only through the concerted efforts of the individual members writing their Congressman and Senators, personally, asking them to support their legislative program would they be able to attain their objectives.

North Carolina is number two on a national scale in the number of barracks in any given state, only being surpassed by California, and it is their intention to be number one come September.

Pastor Of Murphy First Methodist Receives Appointment To Sylva Church

The Rev. A. L. Maxwell, pastor of the First Methodist Church here for the past four years, has received an appointment to the First Methodist Church in Sylva.

The Rev. R. T. Houts, Jr., of Highlands, will be the new Murphy Church pastor. He will arrive here June 27.

"Murphy and the Murphy church is considered one of the most co-operative and enjoyable pastorates in the Western North Carolina Conference," the Rev. Maxwell said. "We will miss the life-long friends and close associations that we have formed here."

The Maxwells will go to Sylva on June 27.

The Rev. Maxwell's wife is the former Miss Helen Gates of Artesia, N. M. and they have four children; Susan, 13; Peter, 11; Jonathan 8; and David 7.

A minister for the past 16 years, this is his sixth appointment. He came here from the Morning Star Methodist Church in Canton.

The REV. A. L. MAXWELL

A native of Elberton, Georgia, he received his AB degree from Emory University and holds a Bachelor's degree in Systematic Theology from Boston University.

Frank Forsyth Attending Third Session At School Of Banking

Frank Forsyth, Executive Vice President of the consolidated banks of Murphy, Andrews, Hayesville, Robbinsville and Manager of the Murphy Bank, left last week to attend the Graduate School Banking at Rutgers—the State University, for his third session, which will be held on the University's campus in New Brunswick, New Jersey, June 10-27, he will complete his course at the school.

Mr. Forsyth is one of over 1,050 bank officers who will attend the two-week session of the School, which is sponsored by the American Bankers Association. This student body — from 46 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and Cuba — represents a capacity enrolment.

The Graduate School was founded in 1935 by the A. B. A. to provide an opportunity for advanced study for experienced bankers. The faculty for the 1957 session, numbers 109 outstanding bankers, lawyers, educators, bank supervisors, and government officials. During the session, they will cover all phases of banking, economics, law, government, and related subjects. Four major subjects are offered by the School — commercial banking, trusts, investments and savings management and real estate financing.

In addition to his three resident sessions at Rutgers, to qualify for graduation, he has completed three years of extension study at home and written a thesis based on original research in some phase of finance. Mr. Forsyth's thesis is entitled, "A Banker Looks At The Forests of Western North Carolina". He tells of the lumber industry which has always played an important part in the economic life of Western North Carolina. In his thesis he has endeavored to develop the history of the lumber industry in this section, bringing it up to the present date, as well as to discuss the various aspects of reforestation and tree farming. It is hoped through this thesis, that some of the various problems such as forest management, financing, legislative and tax policies will be developed. Mr. Forsyth has tried to show in this paper that managed timber as a long-range crop is economically sound from a Banker's standpoint.
