Three glamorous new roses are ready for 1958. All of them are All-American Award winners and many of you will wish to add them to your collection.

The first is "White Knight." This is a Mybrid Tea variety and the only white Hybrid Tea ever to win an All-American Award. It is a pure satiny white, which, in the bud stage, is nicely pointed and about five inches across when opened. The flowers come freely and continuously and the petals do not fade in bad weather. Good whites have been difficult to produce in roses and this is also true of many of our other flower varieties. It appears that "White Knight" is the white we have been waiting for.

The plant is free growing, bushy, upright and well branched. The leaves are a lively green contrasting well with the purity of the white flowers. The stems are long and strong, and the blooms last well, making a high degree of resistance to the common rose diseases and to frost.

Now for two All-America Award winning Floribundas. The first, Fusilier. Fusilier is a brilliant rich red. The flowers are about three inches across, with frilled edges, and come in heavy clusters. The plants grow full and bushy and to medium height. The leaves are dark green when mature but are a reddish color when young.

The second Floribunda, Gold Cup. This variety is a beautiful fragrant golden yellow. The flowers last well and the leaves are exceptionally ornamental. The plant reaches a height of about two and one half feet and blooms profusely. It is disease resistant with

FOR A BRIGHT, COMFORTABLE WINTER INDOORS

Making your home bright and comfortable when it's cold and drab outside sometimes takes all the imagination and ingenuity you have, plus full use of your modern appliances. But it can be done.

Assuming that you have an automatic heating system that is adequate, lighting is your next most important element for taking some of the sting out of winter. Nor does lighting just make for a brighter atmosphere. It adds to your comfort by reducing strain on the eyes and fatigue generally.

To achieve cheery brightness for both nighttime and gloomy days, you'll light up all dark corners and give special attention to areas where your family will be working or playing. If this means new lamps, you'll search for the many vigorously sprouting basal shoots.

If you have difficulty locating a source of supply of plants of these new roses, drop me a line and I will help you. It is not appropriate for me to give names and addresses in this column.

ones that give good lighting and are also attractive with your furnishings.

Even with gloom dispelled, winter's extra dirt can be a joy-killer if not dealt with immediately and firmly. And this is where your worksaving appliances can help you most.

Your vacuum cleaner whisks up tracked-in dirt and dust, reaching to corners and crevices to do a spotless job. Your automatic laundry equipment takes over the heavy cleaning of shag rugs, draperies, slipcovers and curtains.

There—your home is warm, bright with light and spotless clean. But something is lacking—a bit of greenery or splash of color from house plants perhaps.

When days are gray and dull outside, house plants add rewarding beauty with their fresh green tips and unfolding buds. They're a delight to the eye that you can keep thriving all winter long by following the rules for growing your favorite kinds. And there's no need to guess at the rules. They're to be found in any book on house plants.

Nor need you worry about water marks on furniture or floors if you take a bit of precaution by using protectors. A glass plate, aluminum foil around the bottoms of pots, a large tray holding several pots, a special platform, or varnished clay saucers give your floors, furniture, and rugs protection.

With a few of your favorite plants, plenty of light, a clean house, warmth—who can dread a few short months of winter?

SATISFY KEEN FALL APETITES WITH PEPPER STEAK

Brisk fall days sharpen appetites for heartier meat dishes. And, though there's nothing more delicious than a big juicy steak broiled to perfection there are other less expensive meats just as palate-pleasing. One of these is pepper steak described below in which you use round or flank.

To prepare this flavorful dish, you'll need 1 pound round or flank steak; 1 teaspoon salt; pepper; 2 tablespoons oil; 1 medium onion, chopped; 1 clove garlic, minced; 2 green peppers, diced; 1 cup bouillon; 1 cup drained canned tomatoes; 1½ tablespoons cornstarch; 2 teaspoons soy sauce; and ¼ cup water.

Cut steak in slices one-eighth-inch thick and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Heat oil in a ten-inch skillet, add steak, onion and garlic, and cook, stirring almost constantly till meat is brown.

Add green peppers and bouillon. Cover and simmer ten minutes. Add tomatoes and simmer five minutes.

Mix cornstarch, soy sauce and water. Add, stirring to meat mixture. Cook till mixture has thickened. Serve with hot boiled rice.

QUESTION: Why is it necessary to apply lime to some North Carolina soil?

ANSWER: Lime contains one of the essential elements for plant growth—calcium. Calcium is lost from the soil by leaching and is also removed by plants. Thus, during years of cropping and weathering, the lime content of our soil.
