

The County office personnel are issuing approvals and purchase orders for conservation materials. Farmers planning to sow seed this fall should visit the office and request assistance by Oct. 15th. We will give approvals for lime and fertilizer to new farmers, we mean farmers that have failed to get assistance so far this year, so long as funds are available. Now is the time, pretty soon it will begin to rain and it will be over for 1959.

Approvals are being issued for planting forest trees. Order blanks are available at the ASC office. The ACP pay $12.00 per acre for planting forest trees.

LIMESTONE
Now is the time to use limestone. Our vendors will give delivery within 48 hours after they receive your purchase order.

Limestone is not a fertilizer, but it is a plant food. It contains calcium and magnesium which are very necessary if you want to grow grasses and legumes. We are told that 80 million tons of limestone is needed for our country's farm land. During 1958 only 22.7 million tons were actually applied. We are informed that approximately 19 million of the 22.7 million tons applied were through services by the ACP program. Now is the ideal time to take soil tests.

CATHOLIC INFORMATION

By Rev. Joseph Dean
Lutherans And Catholics

Ever since the war, the Lutheran people and the Catholic people have been appreciating each other and have been working together more and more. In Germany, especially, the home of Lutheranism, regular conferences have been taking place between Lutheran ministers and Catholic pastors.

Both sides have come closer to each other's view-point through mutual services in time of crisis and through better understanding even on doctrinal points. For instance, Lutheran clergymen have re-introduced confession and are bringing the liturgy of the Mass to their members in many parishes. And Lutherans have been quick to notice the new Catholic emphasis on the language of the people in the use of the sacraments and the blessings of the Church, rather than a continued use of Latin. They also approve of the recent favorable appraisal on the part of Catholics of good points in Martin Luther's character and influence. Two Lutheran ministers who joined the Catholic church recently were even permitted to remain married, and still be ordained Catholic priests. The Augsburg Confession, the chief standard of faith in Lutheran groups, can well serve as the starting point for a re-unification of the Christian denominations.

When Luther approved the Augsburg Confession in 1530, he never meant to break away from Mother Church, but only to correct what he believed to be abuses and to bring about reforms within the Catholic Church.

It is fitting and appropriate that Germany, the setting for the division 400 years ago, now is becoming the scene of successful efforts for fundamental Church unity.

We pray daily that Christ's wish come true: Jesus promised, "There shall be one flock and one Shepherd."
