Completely remove every smidge of lipstick before washing face or taking a shower. Rub lips with cold cream and wipe clean with facial tissue. Keep a box of facial tissue in bathroom for quick lipstick removal.

Remove all lipstick before getting into bed or stretching out on any pillow or sofa in the house.

Keep those pretty white shorty gloves away from your mouth! Lipstick often stains white cotton. The well-groomed person never allows this to happen.

Never remove lipstick with a towel or washcloth while visiting, and be as careful and thoughtful in your own home. (Carry several tissues in your purse for this purpose.)

Avoid staining dress and sweaters with lipstick while dressing. Press tissue against mouth, bite down with lips—neat protection while slipping garment over head. Use same lipstick-shield technique while trying on garments in store.

Checks totaling $26,740.10 have been issued for distribution to the North Carolina counties having land within the Nantahala National Forest. This is their one-fourth share of the national forest receipts for fiscal year 1949 according to Forest Supervisor E. W. Denshaw, of Franklin. The money is for road and school purposes and is in lieu of taxes on the federally owned national forests.

The Cobb Memorial Hospital at Royston, Ga., which was made possible by a contribution of more than $100,000 by Tyrus R. Cobb, baseball immortal and son of Hershel Cobb, native of Cherokee County, was dedicated Sunday at 2:30 p.m. Mr. Cobb and his wife were present for the celebration.

The Unaka school building was destroyed by fire Monday between 9 and 10 p.m. No cause for the fire is known unless it was set on fire by loafers in the building or someone else, according to report from the county superintendent's office. About 275 free text books were destroyed.

Snowshoes would have been in demand throughout Cherokee County this week, if any could have been secured. As it was there was a push to buy overshoes and boots, while the countryside was covered with a snow fall that varied in depth from ten inches to more than one foot.

The weather may seem cold to some; but not to "Shorty" Holder. Tuesday morning, when most of Murphy was shivering, Shorty donned a bathing suit and took a bath in the snow in front of his plumbing shop near the Southern Depot.

First word from Charles Mayfield, President of the Murphy Chamber of Commerce, and one man delegation sent to Washington to try and persuade the TVA authorities to give Murphy an auxiliary dam came Tuesday in a telegram to the editor of the Scout.

"Feel sure our wants will be taken care of. A tax bill is being worked out this week. The sympathy and consideration our wants receive in our national capital bring a glow of pride and confidence as I lay them upon the shoulders of the statesmen who represent us here."

DMV. In North Carolina there's scarcely a person whose affairs one way or the other are not affected by the State Department of Motor Vehicles.

If he owns a car it must be registered annually and tagged, he can't drive (legally) without securing a driver's license. If his car is stolen the agency's theft bureau helps find it, if he's an auto dealer there are certain permits he must have, if he's a trucker franchise taxes must be paid and his trucks weighed periodically, if he violates a traffic law he gets a ticket, if he has an accident his name goes on file, and every day he sees and hears news published by the vehicle department.

Who is behind this mass of activity?

Here's a look at the career men and women who direct the ten major divisions of the Department of Motor Vehicles, their names and responsibilities.

The Commissioner of Motor Vehicles is Edward Scheidt, retired special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation who was appointed in 1953 by the late Governor William B. Umstead. Principal duties are to formulate policies; administer and coordinate the work of the various divisions.

Assistant commissioner is Joe W. Garrett, attorney from Rockingham County, and former member of the General Assembly. Assistant commissioner devotes most of time to personnel and budget matters. Holds frequent conferences with division heads and individual employees. Assists commissioner in policy and administrative planning.

Commander of the State Highway Patrol is Col. David T. Lambert, 52, a charter member of the organization. He directs the activities of the 607-man patrol from headquarters in the Motor Vehicles Building, Raleigh.

Highway weight restrictions, theft investigations and also dealer regulation are handled by the License and Theft Enforcement Division, headed by Archie M. Gilbert. Commonly called the Theft Bureau, its members operate truck weighing stations scattered throughout the state, assist law officers in tracing stolen cars and supervise a licensing system of used car dealers.

The Registration Division is directed by Miss Foy Ingram, a career employee with more than 30 years service with DMV. Her division compiles an official "history" on every motor vehicle in North Carolina, issues license tags, collects various fees related to motor vehicle usage and handles details of the compulsory liability insurance law.

The Driver License Division and its chief, Elton R. Peele, issue driver license and keep a record on every Tar Heel driver in its immense files in Raleigh. Also is empowered to revoke driver licenses and keeps tabs on "points" assessed against traffic violators.

The Division of Accounts audits all collections received in the agency's name and accounts for all departmental expenditures. Headed by J. M. Penny.

The reports Audit Unit is headed by another veteran DMV worker, He is precise Shelton Morris. Mr. Morris's accountants audit all collections made by state troopers, vehicle inspectors, weight station operator and license examiners. He further checks employee expense accounts.

The Common Carrier Tax Division maintains records on common carriers operating within the state, of which there are some 620. The Division is headed by Mrs. Mabel Hatch.

A sort of "general store" or, more properly, the Service Supply and Expense Division is directed by W. D. Cox. It operates internally to keep the divisions supplied with office needs and other services.

The Driver Education and Accident Records Division is presently without a director. The job is being filled temporarily by Ollis D. Griffin. This division maintains accident statistics, conducts driver improvement clinics and training school bus drivers.

Public relations for the entire department comes under the office of the Public Relations Director, Bill Crowell.

Words of Life

Rev. Alex B. Hanson, Methodist Episcopal Church, Murphy, N. C.

TEXT: If there arise a matter too hard for thee in judgement, between blood and blood, between plea and plea, and between stroke and stroke, being matters of controversy within thy gates; then shall thou arise, and get thee up into the place which the Lord thy God shall choose.

Deut. 17: 8-11; especially the words, "If there arise a matter too hard for thee — get thee up into the place which the Lord thy God shall choose."

SUPPLEMENTARY SCRIPTURE READINGS: Deut. 16: 18-20; Deut. 17: 8-11; St. James, 2: 1-13; and St. John, 1: 4-12.

Man needs God, and God needs man, the very fact that YOU are reading this message is a witness to the fact that within his soul man has an instinct to seek, — an instinct based on his kinship through creation with God. Man needs God, because apart from coming to God, there can be no end but retribution for man. God needs man, because it is man obeying God who, in this world, exercises the saving grace of God in the bringing of others to Him.

In our text, as in our scripture references, and in the entire Bible, a concise picture is given of what a man shall do if so be he looks forward to salvation. "If there arise a matter too hard for thee" — Who does not stand in that position? How can we hold our own in friendships and in business? How shall we raise our children? What is "truth"? Life is too big for us; and God has showed us what to do. Go to the place God has chosen. (Your church).

Listen to the man God has arranged to put in front of you (Your minister). And, having done these things, put your trust in God. The light is shining in the darkness. God is shedding his light into the darkness of your needs. In your case, let the darkness "comprehend" the light. Then indeed, there will be light. Your first great stumbling block is the forks in the road. You set your face toward "success" for now and for eternity. Then you come to the forks of the road. One sign reads, "Walk this way, — wealth will give you everything." Another sign reads, "Get yourself into this exclusive little clique, — get your daughter into that little clique, — Look down on mankind." Still another sign reads, — "This way to success, — science offers everything man needs". And, last of all, you see another sign. Your eyes are puzzled, but your heart responds, and finally you read "This way, — the way of the cross to salvation". Which road at the fork can you take, and get what you want? Can wealth give you purity of desire? Can being in an exclusive group give you brotherhood with all mankind? Can the wonders of science give you obedience to the cross? No! Only the place which the Lord thy God has chosen, only the words spoken and respoken from the Lord thy God, can lead to heaven. Each road leads to A PLACE. Which place will we make OUR place? Deep engraven in the human soul that comes to God are the words, "thou shall do". Thou shalt DO the things of salvation! If you are devout in reading the Bible, but figure how to put some other person "in his place", what good has your "religion" done you? To miss heaven by a mile is, — to miss. If you are devout in your church membership and gifts, then throw a monkey wrench into the operation, as did Judas (who did it with honest intentions), then what good was your religion? If you pray earnestly to God, then get up from your knees and think in pure thoughts about some other human being, — of what good is your "religion" to you? Again, to miss heaven by a mile, or by a hundredth part of an inch is, — to MISS. One of our modern expressions could very well be written over the gate of heaven, — "DO IT YOURSELF". There is no other way to walk to the gate of heaven, and through it into heaven but to "do it yourself".

Yes, life is hard, — too hard, if we do not let God help us. I Can't, I'll try, and I will, are each before us always. I can't say, "I can't get what I want and follow the Bible too, so I'll take the position, Bible people are stuffy". He never gets off the "I want impurity and superiority, and I'll be true to God too." He does some good and some harm to others, but never arrives at salvation. I will drop everything, every act, every opinion, which interferes with his loyalty and obedience to God; and puts all the acts and force of his life into doing God's work and will in submission. He reaches heaven.

And we are back at our beginning. You need God: Or else. And God needs you: you are his hands, — his voice. If the Bible benefits you, it will be because you obey it. If the church benefits you, it will be because you use it as a channel to listen and serve. If your feet lead to the gate of heaven, it will be because your acts and thoughts are coined in heaven. God needs man; and man needs God.

ASC NEWS

Noah Hembree of Peachtree is typical of the Cherokee County farmers who used conservation practices offered under the Agricultural Conservation Program to conserve and improve their land.

As part of his conservation program for this year, he plans to use two ACP practices.

Mr. Hembree's 150-acre farm is in the Peachtree section of the county. Under cultivation and in permanent pasture are 32 acres.

"ACP cost-sharing helps me carry out practices I need to protect soil and water on my farm. Mr. Hembree explains. "I participated in the ACP 6 out of the last 6 years. Last year, I found the conservation practices of pasture and meadow, for hay, helpful in carrying out steps in my conservation program," he adds.

Prior to 1959 Mr. Hembree performed the permanent pasture and lime practices to help meet his conservation needs. The Cherokee Soil Conservation District helped him develop his farm conservation program. He expects in 1960 to use tile drainage and new pasture practices.

T. L. Marton, chairman of the Cherokee Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation county chairman committee, says that last year 807 farmers in the county used ACP cost-sharing (largely) for the following practices: planting trees, new pasture, improving old pasture, lime for a farmland and cover crop. The program nationally pays about half the cost of approved practices. Farmers pay their half in cash, labor, materials or use of equipment.

According to Mr. Marton, the Cherokee County ACP for 1960 includes the following practices: permanent pasture, improving old soil, lime for farmland and cover crops, tile drainage and open ditch drainage.

Farmers who wish to carry out one or more of these practices under the 1960 ACP may file requests for cost-sharing in the ASC county office at the courthouse.
