

LUNCHEON DISH FIT FOR A KING

SALMON FLORENTINE — Creamed salmon on a bed of cooked spinach is only one of the exciting dishes in a new Government booklet entitled "Take a Can of Salmon."

"Salmon has been nourishing the human race, and delighting the human palate, since prehistoric times. Its delicious flavor and convenience of the easy-to-store, easy-to-use can are two good reasons for cooking and serving salmon frequently. But there are even better reasons. Salmon is a complete protein. In the same food group as meat and poultry, cheese and eggs. When you serve salmon, you're serving the kind of food that your family needs every day."

These wise words are from the latest Government booklet, "Take a Can of Salmon," just published by the U. S. Department of the Interior, Fish and Wildlife Service. Compact, complete and informative, you'll find each of its sixteen pages offers easy, economical ways to serving canned salmon in an exciting variety of dishes. There are beautiful full page color photographs to illustrate many of the special salmon recipes which run the gamut from delicious dips on through chowders, luncheon dishes, dinner dishes, casseroles, salmon curry and such novelties as "salmonburgers" for the youngster set.

A request addressed to the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C. with fifteen cents enclosed with your name and address will bring you a copy of the new booklet. Meanwhile you might like to try this recipe.

SALMON FLORENTINE

- 1 pound can salmon
- 1 cup cooked, drained spinach
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 Dash nutmeg
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- 1 clove garlic, finely chopped
- 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 cup salmon liquid and milk
- 2 tablespoons sherry
- 1/2 cup grated cheese
- 3 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
- Water cress

Drain salmon, reserving liquid. Mash salmon. Chop spinach, season with butter, pepper and nutmeg. Spread seasoned spinach in a well-greased round baking dish, 8 x 2 inches. Cook onion and garlic in butter until tender. Blend in flour and salt. Add salmon liquid, gradually and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add sherry and salmon. Blend thoroughly. Place over spinach. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake in a moderate oven, 350° F. for 20 to 25 minutes. Garnish with egg slices and water cress. Serves 6.

THE LONGEST DAY; June 6, 1944

Cornelius Ryan
Lt. General James Gavin said, "If you have read all the accounts of D Day or none of them, if you were in the fighting or on the sidelines, you will be spellbound, as I was, by this magnificent telling of a glorious and tragic story."

Mr. Ryan has written a breathtaking narrative of the hours that preceded and followed H Hour of D Day — "the day the battle began that ended Hitler's insane gamble to dominate the world."

Some 700 survivors of that historic day were interviewed and some 383 accounts are blended into the text. Actual experiences of the Allied forces, the enemy and the civilians who were caught up in the confusion of battle are told.

The German soldiers could not believe what they saw off the coast of Normandy — "the greatest armada the world has ever known almost five thousand ships carrying more than two hundred thousand men." The Allies could not have picked a better D Day — General Rommel left France on June 4th for his first leave in months. This factor alone contributed greatly to the success of June 6th, however, the Allies were unaware of this.

The Longest Day, a best seller, will be of special interest to former service men and to all others who remember the tense moments of that fateful day.

FUEL FOR THE FLAME

Alec Waugh

On the island of Karak in the South China Sea there was a feeling of unrest and tension. Colonel Forrester of the police feared that the Nationalists were plotting to take over the government. The indications of Communist activities became more apparent each day in spite of constant vigilance to keep their agitators from landing on the island.

At Kassaya where Pearl Oil Company had a huge refinery, Basil Hallett found himself involved with a mysterious Indian who lent him money to cover his betting losses. Hallett's "benefactor" demanded information concerning Pearl's employees and activities. Try as he might the Englishman could not extricate himself from this trap and as the Indian applied more and more pressure on him Hallett sought desperately to find a way out of his dilemma.

Events in the island kingdom were building toward a climax when the King's son and heir, Prince Rhya, was ordered home from England where he had been educated and then remained to enjoy life in Europe. When he obeyed his father's summons home, the Prince took with him the promise of an English girl, Annetta Marsh, to become his wife.

Annetta's arrival in Karak triggered the explosive situation on the island and amid a background of espionage and intrigue she began her life as a princess. In masterly fashion Mr. Waugh creates his characters and tensions. The reader figuratively sits on the edge of his chair waiting for the final explosion that will clarify the plots and counterplots.

If you read "Island in the Sun" or saw the film, you won't want to miss this thriller by the same author.

5 Burn To Death

FRANKLIN, Ind. (AP) — A mother and her four children burned to death and the father was burned critically Tuesday when a motorist crashed into their panel truck.

The family of Francis H. Rogers, 41, Indianapolis, Ind., was trapped inside the flaming panel truck after it overturned south of Franklin.

Dead were Edith Rogers, 33, and her four children, Sharrey Gail, 4, Leonard Lee, 2, Donna Marie, 1, and Linda Laverne, 3 months.

The father suffered third degree burns over most of his body and was taken to a Franklin hospital in critical condition.

HUNTING CAN BE EASY

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Three hours of unsuccessful pheasant hunting on the game preserve at Louckbourne Air Force Base left George Fares hungry, so he started to drive to the Non-Commissioned Officers' Club for lunch.

Suddenly, a large cock pheasant crossed the road in front of Fares' car, took off, slammed into one of the base buildings and fell dead with a broken neck. Fares walked over, picked up his "bag" and called it a day.

COACH SOLVES PROBLEM

GRAND FORKS, N. D. — The freshman hockey coach at the University of North Dakota, Richard Bouchard, had a problem: two players named Don White.

Both were from Winnipeg. Bouchard finally came up with an idea for designating the White he wanted during practice sessions and games.

New Members Named To Cattle Club

PETERBOROUGH, N. H.—Kenneth Mills and Carolyn Dockery have been accepted for Junior Membership in The American Guernsey Cattle Club.

By qualifying as a Junior Member of the AGCC, Kenneth and Carolyn will receive a membership certificate and have the privilege of registering their Guernseys at the low member rate. This junior membership will be in effect until the new member reaches 21 years of age.

Nearly 900 young people from all over the United States have been accepted for junior membership in the American Guernsey Cattle Club since this program started in June.

Requirements for junior membership in the AGCC are simple. Young people must be individual owners of one or more purebred Guernseys, and at least one of the animals must be registered or become registered at the time the youngster's application for membership is processed. Applications for membership must be endorsed by a State 4-H Club Leader, County 4-H Club Agent, County Agricultural Agent, Vocational Agricultural Supervisor, or an adult member of the AGCC.

Full details on the new Junior Membership Program may be obtained from The American Guernsey Cattle Club, Peterborough, New Hampshire.

Xmas Gets Boost

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The official publication of the Roman Catholic diocese of Pittsburgh has endorsed the use of the abbreviation "XMAS" for Christmas.

"It is an abbreviation that goes all the way back to the time of Christ," said the Pittsburgh Catholic. "The adaptation is from the Greek, specifically from the Greek letter for our CH, which is X."

The abbreviation, said the publication, "long preceded newspapers, department stores, Santa Claus and any worry about the secularization of Christmas."

"There is therefore no reason for Catholics to fret or object about the use of the 'X' for Christ and its application to words like 'Xmas.'"

Mrs. Beerkins Speaks To Sixth Grade

By KNOX SINGLETON

On Monday, Feb. 1, Miss Byer's sixth grade was fortunate to have Mrs. Arnold Beerkins to come and give them a lecture on Holland.

Mrs. Beerkins was born and reared in Holland and came to live in the United States several years ago. She can speak four languages: Dutch, English, French and German. She told us that they had to speak those languages to be able to trade and travel. Holland is one fourth the size of North Carolina. It is one small country surrounded by large ones. It is bordered by Belgium to the North, France to the South, Germany to the West and England to the East. Holland has always had to fight for its freedom.

Mrs. Beerkins showed us her native costume. She said that each section had a different costume. She let a girl from our room try it on and let us see it. One part was especially interesting. That was the wooden shoes. She said that farmers wore wooden shoes in the field to keep their feet dry. Inside the shoes a person wore thin slippers so that wooden shoes were taken off out side, the slippers would serve as house shoes.

Holland is now ruled by Queen Juliana. She has three daughters. The oldest one is nineteen, and when she becomes twenty-one, she will probably be Queen. There has not been a boy in the royal family for three generations. One saying is that God made the ocean and the Dutch made their country. Around Holland are many dikes that hold out sea water that would ruin crops in half of Holland because that part is 12 feet below sea level. There is a 24 hour watch on the dike because if a break comes, it means disaster. Every time enough land washes up outside the dikes, new ones are thrown up and wind-mills start pumping the water out. That is how Holland grows.

Recorder's Court Record For January 25 Session

The following cases were heard in Recorder's court Jan. 25 according to James C. Howse, clerk of court.

Mary Jo Bryant was charged with no operator's licenses. The defendant plead guilty at a previous term of court and prayer for judgment was continued to this term. It was the judgment of the court that the defendant pay the cost of the court.

William Boyd Jones was charged with assault. The defendant was called and failed. Judgment was nisi sci fa and capias.

John P. Morrell was charged with speeding 70 miles per hour. Defendant plead guilty and was charged with the cost of the court.

Lax C. Phillips was charged with driving automobile while intoxicated. Case continued until Feb. 23 term of court.

Harold Maurice Starnes plead guilty to the charge of speeding 72 miles per hour. The defendant was charged with the cost of the court.

Willie Ray Simonds was charged with speeding 65 miles per hour. He plead guilty and was charged with cost of the action.

Lester Newton plead not guilty to the charge of assault and profane language. The court found the defendant guilty. Prayer for judgment continued to Feb. 8 term of court.

James R. Gerringer plead guilty to the charge of speeding 65 miles per hour. It was the judgment of the court that the defendant pay the cost of the action.

Porter McClure was charged with assault. After hearing state evidence, it appeared and the court found as a fact that the offense occurred in the state of Georgia and not in the state of North Carolina. It was therefore ordered that the action be dismissed and the defendant discharged.

Carl D. Brooks plead guilty to the charge of speeding 55 miles per hour in a 45 mile per hour zone. He was charged with the cost of the action.

M. F. Kilby was charged with reckless driving. State takes no action.

VERSATILE MATERIAL

Glass fiber, now one of the most versatile manufacturing materials, was unknown commercially until the 1930s. From it now are made air filters for furnaces; heat, cold and noise insulation; battery separators; insect screening and fine curtains and draperies. In combination with plastics, it is used in furniture, bathtubs, sports car bodies and luggage.

Adequate Wiring Is Asset

Full horsepower — or adequate wiring — is definitely an asset in any home, old or new. With it, you'll find that your appliances work faster. You'll save steps. Long, trailing electric cords—the kind that trip you up—disappear.

And you'll get the full value of the electricity you buy because losses in circuit wiring are held to a minimum.

But, what is full horsepower? It's enough wiring to permit electricity, the most flexible of servants, to serve you well. It's something that you have to figure out for your self, starting with the ways that you now use electricity and adding to them the ways that you hope to use it in the future.

In your figuring, you'll allow for three kinds of branch circuits: general purpose, small appliances, and individual appliance.

OLDEST DOLLS?

Perhaps the oldest dolls are the paddle dolls made by the Egyptians 3,000 years ago. They were called paddle dolls because they were made from thin pieces of board carved in the shape of canoe paddles. Never used as playthings, they were put in the tombs of the dead to keep them company.

and convenience outlets for your radio, vacuum cleaner, and other similar equipment. In general, you'll need one such circuit for each 500 square feet of floor area in your home.

The small appliance circuits supply electricity to the outlets in your kitchen, laundry, and dining areas. As their name implies, they serve small appliances only.

Individual circuits serve such appliances as the range, dishwasher, automatic washer, clothes drier, room air conditioner, food freezer, and other major appliances. Homes which had one such circuit a few years ago — usually for an electric range — now have a dozen or more of them.

After you've counted up the number and types of circuits that you need, it's no trouble to figure the size of your service entrance which will be large enough to furnish electricity to the circuits that you'll be using, plus at least two to grow on.

Now add switch controls to "Light your way" ahead where on the grounds — and you've got housepower.

All over the country new houses are going up. Homes are being remodeled and refurbished. One of these may be yours. Make sure it has full housepower. It will repay you in savings and satisfactions.

Families are happier in a home of their own!
