

Dental Assistant Course Offered

CHAPEL HILL—For the fourth consecutive year, the University of North Carolina School of Dentistry is offering a one-year course for dental assistants, without charge, for qualified high school graduates.

This training program is open to women between the ages of 18 and 40, but is not open to women who have been employed in a dental office.

This special training program is financed by the U. S. Public Health Service. Under this plan a student will not be required to pay for books, tuition or laboratory fees.

Inquiries must be received by the School of Dentistry not later than March 15. Those who are interested in the program should write to the General Supervisor, Dental Assistant Program, UNC School of Dentistry, Chapel Hill, N. C.

This training program is to determine how dental assistants may best be trained by a School of Dentistry. Also, a second aim of the program is to train dental students how to use effectively the services of a dental assistant.

The one-year training program will consist of two parts. The first part of the program will be three months of lectures, laboratory procedures and demonstrations, with limited clinical work at the UNC School of Dentistry.

After the basic three-month educational period, the remainder of the nine-month program will be devoted to on-the-job training. This will be given at the Clinic of the School of Dentistry or in offices of private dentists.

The student will receive a salary during the last nine months of the training program. This will be paid by the U. S. Public Health Service for those who remain at the School of Dentistry and by private dentists for those who work in such offices.

At the end of one year's training, all students successfully completing the course will receive a certificate through the UNC Extension Division indicating the completion of the course.

Those applicants who have satisfactory high school or college records will be requested to take several entrance examinations at Chapel Hill. Applicants will be notified later regarding these examinations. Women who are accepted for this program will be notified not later than May 15.

High school and college records should be mailed direct from the school to the same address as the application is sent.

The program will begin on June 9. During the three summer months, each girl will be required to live under the rules and regulations of the University. They will be housed in the Dormitory of the School of Nursing and will be subject to the regulations governing nursing students in the dormitory.

The registration fee for the course is $30. Rent on the dormitory rooms is $20 per month. Meals may be had on the University campus at reasonable prices.

A dental assistant is defined as one who performs many of the non-professional duties in a dental office, thereby relieving the dentist of these responsibilities and permitting him to render a greater health service to more people.

A dental assistant may work in (1) a private practitioner's office; (2) a group practice, where several dentists have offices together; (3) a federal agency, such as the Veteran Administration or U. S. Public Health Service installations or hospitals; (4) and in the clinic or hospitals of the U. S. Armed Forces.

Local Lumber Co. Awarded Gov't Contract

Robert B. Horning, Manager of the North Carolina field office of the Small Business Administration, announced that during the most recent monthly reporting period small business firms in North Carolina received $318,958 in Government contracts.

These awards were made as a result of SBA's co-operative set-aside program with Government purchasing agencies. Under this program SBA representatives, in co-operation with purchasing officers of civilian and defense agencies, reserve proposed contracts for exclusive competitive award to small business firms.

Among North Carolina businesses receiving awards are: W. D. Townsend Lumber Co. of Murphy in amount of $7,453 for pallets.

CATHOLIC INFORMATION
"Artificial Birth Control"
By REV. JOSEPH DEAN

Catholic people accept the birth of a child as a gift direct from the hands of our Heavenly Father. Catholic people do not believe in what is called "planned parenthood" because of what the phrase implies, namely the use of artificial instruments to thwart the natural results of marriage. But Catholic people do believe in "responsible parenthood." This "responsible parenthood" takes on many phases. Here are just a few.

1. Young people are advised against "going steady" during high school and college. They are advised to begin working and to learn how to hold a job before plunging into the serious contract of Holy Matrimony. When the gift of God's infant does come, the parents are better prepared to face the responsibilities of a family.

2. Catholic people realize that marriage pleasures are similar to eating pleasures. Married people are not to gorge themselves. They are to use their rights to physical union very moderately, and in proportion to their spiritual, moral and psychological union of minds and wills with each other.

Catholic people are urged to rejoice in the gift of an infant from God's Providence, and to trust in that Providence to provide the means to take proper care of that infant. With billions of bushels of surplus food causing us headaches today and expert scientists eager and ready to increase our food supply manifold, we cannot claim food shortage.

4. However, if conditions of health or finances do make the prospect of another child a real problem to a couple two courses of action are open. One is complete abstinence, as is good and sometimes necessary of married life by mutual agreement between husband and wife. The other is the use of the non-fertile days of the month for marriage relations. This is called rhythm or natural method, used only under the trust and confidence in God's loving care of our lives.

In conclusion, the Catholic Church does not think that artificial birth control instruments or chemical preventatives are either the right nor the simple answer to a very complex problem because of these three reasons:

1. The use of such "preventatives" is an obex or block to psychological fulfillment of the marriage urge for complete union, or complete giving of two into one flesh. This "block" is the beginning of a series of barriers that come into people's married lives, one after another.

2. The use of such instruments is a deliberate and intentional perversion of God's work implanted in the nature of the marriage union. This is, therefore, a violation of God's natural law. Ghandi of India used the expression "mutual masturbation" when speaking of this sin.

3. Holy Scripture speaks of this waste of "seed of life" in Genesis, chapter 38, verse 10. When Onan had marriage relations with his dead brother's wife, he wasted his seed upon the ground. And Scripture says, "and the thing which he did displeased the Lord, therefore He slew him also."

Because of all these reasons, Catholics oppose what is called today "Planned Parenthood," and propose instead "Responsible Parenthood."

Western Style Is Theme For Banquet

Andrews — A Western Style theme was developed at the annual Sweet Heart banquet sponsored by the Intermediate and Young People's Department of the Training Union held Friday evening in the recreation room of the First Baptist Church.

The Rev. T. C. Christmas pastor, served as master of ceremonies and brought the special message. Clyde Rector, Training Union director gave the Invocation.

Group singing of Cowboys' favorite songs with Billy Christmas at the piano and a special skit by Miss Doris Raxter, dressed in Western Style featured the program. Others participating were: Mrs. Donald Hogan, and Miss Gladys Pullum.

The long tables were centered with arrangements of red roses in cowboy hats. Other decorations were covered wagons, red candles, and cacti.

Serving on the arrangements committee were: Mrs. Carl West, Mrs. Loy Seay, Mrs. Glenn McGuire, Mrs. Nellie Reid, Mrs. Gordon Butler, Mrs. T. C. Christmas, Mrs. Woodrow Cox, and Miss Trilby Glenn.

The English Houses of Parliament were designed by Sir Charles Barry.

Several factors affecting wheat producers who have wheat allotments of less than 15 acres for 1960 were called to the attention of farmers today by W. E. Matthews, Chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee.

The law that authorizes marketing quotas provides that as much as 15 acres of wheat may be produced on any farm without being subject to marketing quota penalties. This provision applies to farms with no wheat allotments as well as to farms with wheat acreage allotments of less than 15 acres.

However, wheat on such farms is subject to marketing quota penalties when more than 15 acres of wheat is produced. When the 15-acre limitation is exceeded, the excess bushelage of wheat is determined by multiplying the normal yield for the farm by the number of acres of wheat above the farm allotment.

Matthews cited the following as an example: A farmer with a wheat allotment of 12 acres for 1960 produces 20 acres of wheat. The difference between the allotment and the wheat acreage produced — 8 acres — would be considered excess acres. The 8 acres excess would be used in determining the amount of wheat subject to the marketing quota penalty. However, if the acreage over 15 is disposed of, the wheat would not be subject to marketing quotas.

Farmers who have applied for the feed wheat provision under which they may produce as much as 30 acres of wheat for use on the farm are not subject to marketing quota penalties unless they produce more than 30 acres.

The deadline for adjusting excess wheat acreage to comply with the farm wheat allotment in most cases is May 15, 1960.

May Emigrate

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Nationalist China's Interior Ministry is considering a proposal for emigration of 60,000 Chinese from Formosa to Brazil. The plan was submitted by eight businessmen, including two former governors of mainland provinces. Brazil long has accepted immigrants who will back out hinterland farms.

H'way Department Says Icy Roads Dangerous

By BILL CROWELL

RALEIGH — Going into winter's last round, Motor Vehicles Commissioner Ed Scheidt had this bit of advice for Tar Heel motorists this week: Death or an expensive skid wreck may be as close as a stretch of glare ice on the pavement just after a freezing rain.

"A safe speed before you get to the ice won't be a safe speed once you're on it," he declared. "It takes about 12 times as long to stop on ice as it does on dry pavement."

Even with the aid of reinforced tire chains, reliable tests have shown that speeds of 25 miles an hour on glare ice, and 35 mph on hard packed snow, give equivalent stopping distances to 50 mph on dry pavement, Scheidt said. In other words, he said, these speeds are merely the speeds on ice and snow that will produce approximately the same braking distance as that normally encountered from a speed of 50 miles an hour. Under extremely slippery conditions even these speeds are not safe, he emphasized.

Scheidt also came up with some helpful advice on tire chains. "Keep your chains tight," he said. "Snug fitting tire chains wear much longer than chains that are allowed to run loose. It's not the weight of the car or wear that results in premature breaking of chains, but the centrifugal force which slaps loose tire chains against the road surface with great force. This makes them snap from impact fatigue."

The vehicles chief said when necessary the best plan is to put chains on as snugly as possible, drive a short distance, and then tighten the side chain. Then you're all set to go with maximum stop and go traction.

"Many motorists will be surprised to learn they can usually take up one or two side links after putting chains on and driving a short distance," he said. "The chains have adjusted themselves to fit the tire after being driven, and this makes tightening easier."

This technique, he said, will more than double the life of tire chains. But even with well adjusted chains drivers should still reduce speed for safe winter operation.

The year 1965 will be the Chinese "Year of the Snake."
