Learn, Live, Serve Through 4-H

Agricultural Agent

National 4-H Club Week will be observed from March 5-12 using the theme "Learn, Live, Serve Through 4-H."
Cherokee County's 25 4-H clubs with 1150 members will be observing this week in several ways. Some of the ways are:

- (1) each school will have a bulletin board on some phase of 4-H club work;
  - (2) all day radio program on station WKRC on Wednesday, March 9;
  - (3) window display on clothing in Candler's, Murphy;
  - (4) posters will be placed in stores in Murphy and Andrews;
  - (5) a short program at all 4-H clubs during the month of March on 4-H week.
- These clubs are governed policy-wise by the County 4-H Council which is made up of all the club officers of each club. The council meets once a month. The officers in the clubs are as follows: president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, songleader and reporter.
- The 4-H work is a volunteer organization with a program based on the needs of its members and the agricultural and homemaking needs of the county. Its objectives are to give boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 21 training in better practices in agriculture and homemaking, in the broader phases of community organization, and the finer and more significant things of life.
- Each club member is required to conduct a project in agriculture or home-making under the supervision of the Assistant County Agricultural and Home Economics Agents of the Agricultural Extension Service.

Some of the projects they have to choose from are: livestock, poultry, swine, timber stand improvement, entomology, electric, clothing, food, home management and home improvement. Work accomplished in these projects help to make more comfortable homes and a higher standard of living in Cherokee County and North Carolina.

For the boys and girls to receive the most out of 4-H, there must be adult leaders to guide them. This is one of the greatest needs in our country is far more adult leaders.

The aim of every club member is "To Make the Best Better" and should be used as a guide for his daily living.

Grange Meeting Held Yesterday

A Workshop for Grange members was held at Ranger School on March 2, according to an announcement from Grange Headquarters.

While the Workshop was expressly for Grange officers, any Grange member was welcome.

Robert W. Scott, recently appointed Assistant to the State Grange Master, was in charge of the meeting. Scott is a son of the late U.S. Senator W. Kerr Scott.

Grange programs and procedures for 1960 will be outlined for Grange leaders. Participants in the meeting were requested to bring a "bag lunch" which was served around 6 p.m. The host Grange provided the drinks.

SPARKING & CARDS

Most people find card games are fun and relaxing. But an unfortunate few seem to forget their manners once they sit down at the card table.

See if you can recognize anyone in this cast of card characters:

Take the "Impatient type," for example, who sighs audibly when you're a little bit slow in playing your hands. Sometimes this card character is also known as the "drummer boy" for his habit of nervously tapping the table with his fingers while you're trying to concentrate on the next play.

Then there's the "I-can't-wait-to-get-started" character who has the annoying habit of arranging his hand, card by card, as each is dealt. He apparently never learned it's considered good manners to wait until every player has been dealt his cards before he picks up his hand.

Or how about the "dreamer," the original absent-minded Bridge player, who has to ask for a complete review of the bidding simply because he has allowed his mind to wander and hasn't been paying attention to the game? His popularity at the card table is always on the doubtful side.

But perhaps the worst card character of them all is the "critic." He's the one who can't refrain from making a caustic comment, arguing over a card that should or should not have been played, and showing his annoyance when a partner makes a poor play or when an opponent makes a good one. To top it off, the "critic" is usually the first one to gloat if he's dealt a particularly good hand.

Maybe you are not listed among this cast of card characters but you might still be guilty of another serious breach of card etiquette if you expect your guests to play with old, dog-eared "prehistoric" playing cards. It's much pleasanter to play with crisp clean cards and it makes shuffling and dealing easier too.

A number of ingenious ways for you to use up those old decks as party decorations and playthings for the children are illustrated in a new free leaflet called "New Uses for Old Cards." For your copy, send a card or letter to Playing Cards, Dept. NU, 429 Lexington Avenue, New York, 17, N. Y.

Coveted Golden Hat Awards now crown the heads of seven of America's most stunning women!

Mrs. Clare Booth Luce, Joan Crawford, Doris Day, Betsy Palmer, Jessica Tandy, Celeste Holm, and Mrs. Eleanor Searle Whitney were the winners chosen by the votes of hundreds of women's page fashion editors.

Comments from the newly crowned queens clearly summed up seven reasons why the hat has become the outstanding symbol of the well-dressed woman.

Mrs. Luce, elected the lady in Government with the decided knack for wearing the right hat at the right time, declared: "The Golden Hat will certainly go to my head!"

Joan Crawford, whose new role as a major corporate executive qualified her for the Business and Industry Award, said: "I love hats so much, I almost wish I had two heads!"

Doris Day was the winner for Motion Pictures. Grateful for the acknowledgement of her choice of hats as glamorous accents, she called the Award a "wonderful honor."

"When I change my hat, I change my personality," commented Betsy Palmer, and this versatility earned her the Award in the Television category.

Stage star voted a best-hatted with Jessica Tandy. "I consider my hats as important as good reviews," said Miss Tandy.

Singer Celeste Holm stated: "I never realized how important hats were to my wardrobe until I counted them today — thirty-four new hats!"

In the field of International Society Mrs. Eleanor Searle Whitney commented she "might go to a luncheon without my lipstick but certainly not without my hat!"

Records Show Deacs, UNC Comparable

GREENSBORO (AP)—If North Carolina and Wake Forest manage to make the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament finals as expected, don't look to ACC team performance charts to indicate the likely winner.

With regular-season action now completed, the Tar Heels and Deacons both offer remarkable team efficiency records, two of basketball team. And they are so closely parallel, neither team can claim a statistical edge.

ACC Service Bureau compilations through all games show the Tar Heels No. 1 in the conference in offense-defense balance. North Carolina has averaged 72.8 points a game while holding the opposition to an average of 61.8—an average advantage of 11 points a game. In comparison, Wake has a 73.3-63.2 matchup for a difference of 10.1.

In field goal shooting, Wake Forest leads the ACC at 46.2 per cent, a record pace by 0.2 of a percentage point. North Carolina has hit a creditable 41.6 per cent.

In free throw shooting, the Tar Heels top the conference at 75.8 per cent, likewise a record pace by .2 of a percentage point. The Deacons have made 71.8 per cent from the foul line.

In rebounding, Wake Forest has averaged 45.2 recoveries a game, North Carolina has averaged 45.1.

South Carolina, which finished strong in the conference race, still leads team offense by a slim margin, averaging 73.8 points a game to Wake Forest's 73.3. N. C. State tops defense with an average yield of 59.8 points. But the opposition has outscored the Gamecocks by 5.5 points a game and the Wolfpack by 0.3 of a point a game.

South Carolina also has the No. 1 team rebound average, 49.8 recoveries a game.
