Speaking of Cards

THREE-HANDED BRIDGE A remarkable new three-hand form of Contract Bridge is being tried out in a number of card clubs. The usual "cutthroat" three-hand game of "bidding for the dummy" is largely a guessing contest. But the intriguing idea proposed by Mr. and Mrs. Enos Stanley of Hackensack, Minn. seems to remedy this weakness, while giving scope for a new strategy of play different from that of four-hand Bridge.

The three players bid as in the usual game, without sight of the fourth hand. The high bidder spreads this hand as his dummy, after an opening lead by his left-hand opponent. The two opponents then co-operate against him. There are two differences from regular Bridge. First, declarer's "book" is three tricks instead of six; that is, a bid of one offers to win four tricks, not seven. The game-going bids are still three notrumps, four spades or hearts, five diamonds or clubs, but these are contracts to win respectively six, seven and eight tricks.

Crowd Pleasing Menu— Golden Crisped Chicken Plus

In these servantless days feeding a crowd can be a problem unless the menu is simple. Here is one that feeds twelve with the greatest of ease.

Star of this party menu is the Golden Crisped Chicken, a crunchy-coated treat that has a greaseless "fried chicken" look and taste. Broiler-fryer pieces, dipped in evaporated milk, are rolled in corn flake crumbs seasoned with Accent to highlight their sweet succulence and emphasize the toasted richness of the crumbs. Then this no watch, no turn, no cover dish is baked on a shallow pan lined with heavy-duty aluminum foil.

Chicken, the National Broiler Council points out, is high in nutritive value and lower in calories than most other meats. In year round supply, it can be adapted to many different and delectable dishes, and is popular with everyone.

With the chicken, serve skillet potatoes. Both can be prepared in advance and reheated just before serving. The only last-minute tasks are making the salad and heating the French bread in aluminum foil in the oven. Add your favorite dessert, or ice cream, and your own smiling presence.

Golden Crisped Chicken
3 broiler-fryer chickens, cut in serving pieces
2 1/2 cups packaged corn flake crumbs
1 tablespoon salt
1 teaspoon Accent
Aluminum foil
1 cup evaporated milk

Combine corn flake crumbs with Accent, salt and pepper in pie plate or shallow baking dish. Line 2 shallow baking sheets or pans with aluminum foil. Dip chicken pieces in evaporated milk then roll immediately in seasoned corn flake crumbs. Place chicken pieces, skin side up, in foil-lined pan; do not crowd. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 1 1/2 hours, or until tender. At the end of one hour, exchange place of pans on the shelves; continue to bake. No need to cover or turn chicken while cooking. Yield: 12 servings.

Light Fixtures Add Decoration

The essence of good lighting is still good seeing. But in modern lighting, this is closely followed by use of lighting for decoration and the creation of moods. Add with the arrival of bolder, bigger accessories for the home have come dramatic new designs for lighting fixtures.

For overhead general lighting, you'll find brass sunburst chandeliers, rings of tiny low-wattage bulbs on circular metal tracts, hanging lamps in various geometric designs, and luminous ceilings. You'll also find strip lighting under window valances and cornices concealing lighting fixtures designed to give both general lighting and decorative effects.

In portable lamps, you'll still find period lamps that fit in with whatever furniture style you have. Here early American reigns over all, but you'll also find elegant lamp designs in oriental and other periods. And you'll find modern designs with crisp, clean lines and adjustable wall fixtures that dangle decorative shades. These wall lamps can be raised, lowered, or moved from side to side, making them as versatile as they are attractive.

Floor lamps may be traditional, period, or ultramodern. One of the modern design, for example, has a tripod stand of walnut supporting a tall cylinder shade of nylon woven over a metal frame. Another is a lighting "Missile," shaped as its name suggests, supported on a brass base.

A bulb fixture is available in strips for lighting work area under wall cabinets. It may also be used where the ceiling and wall join or attached to a beam for general illumination.

The glitter of the new fixture now in vogue adds drama to lighting, especially when used to shed light on a piece of sculpture or other decorative accessory. Many of them, however, give intense light and are not suitable for general lighting.

In planning your lighting, you'll still put eye comfort first. You can then make the decorative effects of your lighting as simple or dressy as you wish. The lighting fixtures and lamps are here for either.
