Clyde Shreve endorses TERRY SANFORD

Those of us who in all good conscience supported other candidates for Governor in the First Primary cannot now honorably take a walk. We cannot and we must not shirk our duty as responsible citizens of the State to choose a candidate for Governor on June 25th.

I have reached a decision to vote for Terry Sanford only after careful analysis, evaluation and consideration of the several candidates and the issues involved.

For more than fourteen years I have fought to establish better schools and better educational opportunities for our children.

I am now convinced in my own mind that the public schools of North Carolina are the stake in this Second Primary and that this is one of the great issues of the hour.

I was a member of the General Assembly throughout the Session of 1955 and the Special Session of 1956. I know first hand the tremendous effort which has been expended on the part of many citizens of North Carolina to build and to devise a system whereby the public schools under the law could be successfully maintained and operated. I know that many public spirited and dedicated men and women made rich and enduring contributions to the development of the North Carolina plan.

That plan is at stake now. I am thoroughly convinced that unless the North Carolina way is sustained then we shall lose our public schools system.

Our State has pursued intelligently the one course which has led to successful maintenance and operation of our public school system without a single adverse Court decision.

I want to make crystal clear another important thing: no one man or any group of men can honorably claim authorship of the North Carolina Plan. Only the Legislature could write a law. Only the people could approve and ninety per cent of the people did approve the North Carolina way in dealing with this matter.

Furthermore, those citizens who would foment strife and discord among our people render to our State a distinct disservice. We must remain intelligent, thinking people. We must not be moved by mass hysteria. There is no problem which we cannot solve through the proper exercise of restraint and the application of common sense and sound reason.

I, therefore, urge the responsible citizenship of North Carolina to go to the polls and vote on June 25th and vote for Terry Sanford for Governor.

Cherokee County 4-H'ers Attend Resource Meeting

Better understanding and appreciation of the natural and human resource of the Tennessee Valley area was gained by 2 Cherokee County senior 4-H Club members as a result of four fun and work-filled days at a famous mountain resort in western North Carolina. Brenda Quinn and T. L. McNabb represented Cherokee County.

They were among the 300 outstanding rural youths to attend the fifth annual 4-H Regional Resource Development Conference at Fontana Village, North Carolina, recently. Club members from seven states served by the Tennessee Valley Authority, plus adult volunteer leaders, Extension workers, and TVA personnel, attended the work conference.

The theme for the conference was "Exploring Our Resources and Opportunities." The program was designed to supplement the work of the various states of the TVA regional in the development of leadership and to help young people recognize and understand the physical and human resources and the opportunities for their development.

In addition to the 47 member North Carolina delegation, 4-H'ers from Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, Tennessee, and Virginia were in attendance.

The heart of the Conference program was in morning and afternoon sessions of resource study groups, which included the study of atmosphere, soils, minerals, wildlife, forestry, water, and human resources. Each state was in charge of one of these study groups, but delegates from all the states participated in all groups. Club member representatives of the seven groups reported their findings at a general-session panel moderated by Dr. Fred R. Robertson, Alabama Assistant Director of Extension.

A trip to the huge Fontana Dam and powerhouse aroused keen interest among the group. Other recreational activities enjoyed by the boys and girls included square dancing, hikes, swimming, horseback riding, games, and miniature golf. One feature of the program was that the general sessions were handled by the 4-H'ers themselves. Several of the main addresses were by 4-H delegates. These were: "Young Persons are People," by Verl Ann Owens of Virginia; "You Are Your Own Limit," by Susan Berry of Alabama; and "Pay Dirt for Young Person," by Rebecca Passmore of Virginia.

Prominent agricultural leaders who addressed the conference were W. M. Landess, formerly agriculturist of the TVA, who presented "parables in pictures" dealing with the natural and human resources of the region; A. R. Jones, of the Board of Directors of TVA who discussed "You and Your Resources"; and Lloyd Rutledge of the U. S. Department of Agriculture who presented an evaluation and summary of the conference.

Chairman of the Regional conference was E. J. Nesia, Associate Director of the Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service. Vice Chairman, who filled in during the absence of the Chairman for part of the conference, was H. W. Whittenburg, District Extension Leader from Kentucky. The Kentucky delegation served as hosts for the conference.
