At Boy's State Learned About Gov't

Boys state is sponsored by the American Legion with the cooperation of the Institute of Government of North Carolina. It is held annually at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. This was the twentieth session of Boys State.

Upon registering, each delegate was assigned to a political party, a city, and a county. We were also organized into recreational groups for soft-ball and basketball. There was table tennis, tennis and horseshoe pitching. There was swimming each day in the college pool.

The 350 boys lived in one of the college dormitories and ate in the college cafeteria. After breakfast each morning we went to the Institute of Government's Auditorium. There we heard lectures of representatives from the state departments in Raleigh, such as Thad Eure, Secretary of State, L. Y. Ballentine, Commissioner of Agriculture; Dr. Charles F. Carroll, State Superintendent of Public Instruction; Ed Kirk of the department of Conservation and Development. We also heard lectures by several professors at the University, making a total of 22 speakers. We took notes on each lecture and at the end of the week in order to receive a certificate stating we had completed the course we were given a test.

As the week progressed we learned the fundamentals of government and put our knowledge into practice. First we had a city elections we held nominating contests. For the county and state elections we held nominating conventions. The climax of the week was the election of our governor. The boy whom we elected, Bill Witherspoon of Durham, will be a delegate to Boys Nation held in Washington, D. C. in July.

The Boys State Program is designed to train the future citizens of our country to better understand our government and to be better leaders in their community.

I am very grateful to the American Legion for electing me and making it possible for me to attend Boys State.
