

SINNERS! ELMER GANTRY IS COMING!

CHURCH NEWS

"Remodeling our old barn with concrete was the best investment I ever made!"

You hear comments like this everywhere today—for sound reasons! Naturally, with a well-planned concrete remodeling job, you get a building that's good as new at a fraction of the cost of new construction. That's real economy.

But that's not the half of it. Remodeling with concrete gives you unequalled fire safety, solid durability and low upkeep. And concrete floors cut chore labor, make possible the efficient installation and use of modern labor-saving equipment.

Concrete floors boost sanitation, too—easy to clean, won't trap filth, disease germs, parasites—bar rats and mice. Concrete masonry walls keep livestock warm and dry in winter—keep you free from weather worries. Write for fact booklet!

Mrs. Hall, presided in the absence of Mrs. Herman Edwards, chairman. The meeting was opened by prayer by Mrs. Ralph Rhodes. Community missions were discussed and plans made for taking a Thanksgiving basket to a needy family. Also, plans were made for the annual Christmas party which is to include the husbands of the circle members.

After the business session, Mrs. Robert Minor gave a portion of the mission study book, "Across the Bridge" to the Circle members who were present.

There were several members of the Elizabeth Hale Circle as guests of Mrs. Hall's and sat in on the mission Minor.

Refreshments were served to all present.

Africa, a rich source of gold, diamonds, copper, chrome, cobalt, and uranium, now has uncovered a wealth of iron. One of the richest strikes lies in Liberia's Bomi Hills, some of which are virtually solid iron ore.

Of all mammals, only elephants occasionally outlive man. The longest-lived elephant was reported to be 85 years old. Many elephants survive for 50 to 75 years.

China's centuries-old, incredibly complex linguistic system may be simplified by the elimination of complicated strokes or even replaced by the Latin alphabet. Written Chinese has about 40,000 word symbols, some requiring more than 20 brush strokes. Every character carries the same meaning anywhere in China, but provincial dialect determines pronunciation.

Soil Conservation News

A recent bulletin distributed by the State Office of the Soil Conservation Service points up the fact that wildlife is a product of the land, just as are corn, cotton, or livestock. The amount of wildlife or fish that can be produced on a particular piece of land will depend on the fertility of the soil just as surely as the number of bushels of corn that can be produced will depend on the soil fertility.

Good soil and water conservation are just as important to wildlife production as they are to good crop production. Poor hunting and fishing are as characteristic of poor land as are low yields of corn, cotton, pasture, or any other crop.

Wild animals have as good an idea of good land as a cow or a horse. Left to their own initiative, the wild animals will leave a poor, eroded farm and go to a better kept farm where they can find more to eat. All of us know that a horse or a cow which is kept in a poor pasture, usually by a poor run-down fence, will sooner or later find a weak place in the fence and break through to the greener grass on the other side of the fence. Rabbits, squirrels, quail, and other wild animals, not being confined by fences will leave areas where feed is scarce or non-existent and go to the neighboring farms where food is more plentiful.

The cover available on a poor, run-down farm is usually light and affords little protection to wildlife from natural enemies. Quail are found, for instance, only where they have good cover from hawks, cats, and foxes.

In the past twenty years, many farmers have devoted a good deal of time and effort to improving the wildlife habitat on their farms. They are aided in this effort, not only by the Soil Conservation Service, but also by the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission and by local wildlife clubs and other conservation agencies.

Plants which furnish food for the smaller wildlife animals are available to any farmer who desires to make better hunting on his own property. These plants are Multiflora Rose and Shrub Lespedeza, both of which can be obtained free of charge from the NC Wildlife Resources Commission. You can obtain application blanks for these plants at the local Soil Conservation Service office or from the County Agricultural Agents' office.

To GIVE THANKS

Danny and Tess took part in the Thanksgiving tableau at school last week, and they did a good job. As I looked at them, I thought of the real Pilgrim children and that first Thanksgiving.

Our forefathers weren't inoculated against childhood illnesses. They didn't have miracle drugs and warm clothes. They certainly didn't have more than they could eat. They faced incredible hardships, with no bright toys for special rewards, no candy bars. But they knelt down in the cold with their parents and gave thanks to God just for being alive.

Can we do less today? Can we possibly do less, this Thanksgiving, than go to Church and humbly give thanks to our Creator for His wonderful gift of life?
