Five Fundamentals of Safe Food Service

1. CLEAN HANDS—Dirty hands spread germs. Hands and fingernails should be washed thoroughly with soap and water before work, after using toilet and every time they are soiled.
2. CLEAN SERVICE—Handling utensils the wrong way may spread disease. Paper service is clean and should be handled carefully to keep it sanitary. After use, other utensils should be scraped, washed clean in hot water, sanitized as required by the health department, then carefully stored and handled.
3. CLEAN FOOD—Food may be infected by coughs, sneezes, handling dirty equipment, vermin, animals, and wastes. It should be protected during storage, preparation, display and service.

4. RIGHT TEMPERATURE—Cold stops germs from growing; heat kills them. Cold foods should be kept chilled; hot foods should be kept hot. Prepared food never should be left standing at room temperature one unnecessary minute.
5. HEALTHY WORKERS—Food workers must be healthy, for colds and other diseases may be passed to others. Germs from infected cuts, pimples or boils may cause food poisoning.

Regardless of what might be said for the 1961 Legislature, the record will indicate that it is for the little people. The basic issue is the conflict between the rights of little people as contrasted with privileges of big people. Nearly every tax bill proposed gives the big folks an edge. The same kind of cursory observation indicates that the little people stand to derive far greater relative benefits, when total tax payments and public services are compared. The yield last year from income taxes—paid chiefly by what might be termed the big folks, was almost double the yield from the general sales tax—paid largely by the little folks. All these receipts and receipts from other sources went into the common general fund to support the schools and the health and welfare programs—from which the little folks derived the major benefits.

To justify any sort of tax program, one must bear in mind what sources to tax the money would come from, and in any case the program would benefit the people of North Carolina. That would seem to justify extending the sales tax to items presently exempt so that every citizen would pay his rightful part of the total tax burden. Most everyone shuns tax paying, and most every citizen realizes that it is a necessary part of government.

The twelfth week of the 1961 session of the General Assembly may be the most significant of all weeks since the Legislature convened February 8. Substantial progress in areas of important legislation are beginning to be recognized. In the areas of congressional redistricting, improvements in courts, and small loan regulations, there seems to be progress shaping up for a final conclusion. Many folks in the Legislature are predicting that this legislation will create a greater fight in the legislature than the money items.

The highly controversial Court Reform Bill passed the house and the Senate on last Friday. As surprised move resulted from a compromised gesture made the bill acceptable and passed the Senate without a descending vote and only 2 or 3 Representatives voted against it in the House. The bill would have a unified Court system with 3 branches: 1. Supreme Court (Appellate Court). 2. Superior Court (Highest Trial Court). 3. District Court (Lower Trial Court). The Magistrate are an arm of the District Court. This Court Bill will be submitted to the vote of the people. The money bill is far from complete. However, it is traditional that the final draft of the finance committee bill is not presented until the latter part of the legislative session.

In a conference with Governor Terry Sanford on Friday morning he told me that he was going to make every effort to attend the Wagon Train celebration in Murphy, July 4th, but could not definitely assure us that he would be in Murphy. In any case, the Governor promised Chairman of the Highway Commission, District Commissioner and other Highway people would be present for the Wagon Train celebration.

VISITORS: E. J. Whitmire of Franklin was a visitor in Raleigh Tuesday of last week. SCHOOL CHILDREN: The eighth grade of the Murphy High School were welcome visitors to the Capitol Square along with the Grammar School Principal, Mr. John Jordan, and parents of the children, Joe Ray, Mrs. Paul Nave and Mrs. Mary Catherine Sneed. Those children were the first from the 33rd District to visit in Raleigh, and it was a real pleasure to have them on Capitol Square.
