BROOKS, DIAL ANNOUNCE FOR PEMBROKE COUNCIL SEATS

Larry T. Brooks

Larry T. Brooks, counselor and coordinator of Pembroke State University's Upward Bound Project, has announced his candidacy for Town Councilman in Pembroke's upcoming municipal election.

Brooks is a 1971 graduate of Pembroke State University with a B.S. Degree in Mathematics and earned his Master's Degree in Administration from Appalachian State University.

Prior to accepting his present position at Pembroke State University in 1975, Brooks taught math in the public school system. He is also a veteran of the U.S. Army during the Viet Nam conflict.

He has been very active in civic affairs having held the offices of Director, Vice-President and President of the Pembroke Jaycees. He presently serves as Chairman of the Board of the Pembroke Jaycees; holds the office of District Director of District E for the North Carolina Jaycees; and serves on the North Carolina Jaycees' Executive Committee.

Besides his Jaycee activities, he is also a member of Pembroke Senior High School's Booster Club, a charter member of Pembroke State University's Braves Club, a member of PSU's Century Club, and a member of various other professional organizations.

Brooks was elected by the membership of the American Indian Student Association (a very viable club) on the PSU campus which is very active in the Pembroke community) to serve as their advisor for the year 1977-78. He also serves as advisor to PSU's Health Careers Club, another active organization.

In making his announcement, Brooks made the following statement:

"Pembroke is my home and the home of my family and other loved ones. I want to do my part in making it a better and safer place to live. I have no secret formulas or instant remedies for this except through hard work, dedication, and a deep commitment to the town and people I love.

"If elected to serve as your Town Councilman, I definitely want to work for even more and better recreation activities and facilities. Our children are the most precious and valuable resource we possess, but older adults and senior citizens need and deserve the advantage of wholesome recreation also.

"The recent curbing and paving in our town is great, but I don't want to see it stop after the November 8th election. There are many, many streets in our town in dire need of this service, and I want to work with you in getting it done.

"Annexation of additional properties into our corporate city limits is another area of concern with me. I want to take a closer look at this possibility and act for the betterment of the Town of Pembroke and not for the best interests of a selfish few.

"As an elected public servant, you have to go to the people and talk with them - find out what is important to them. You need to think 'people' and what is best for the people before you can find solutions to their problems.

"We have problems in our town and I want to help you with these problems. I want to be your voice on the Pembroke Town Council. I want to make a difference in town government!

"I make no promises except that I will listen to the 'people' and make my decisions on what is best for the Town of Pembroke and the majority of its citizens and not for a select few."

Brooks is the son of the late John J. Brooks, longtime educator in Robeson County, and Mrs. Lela H. Brooks of Cherokee Street. He is married to the former Elizabeth Bell and they reside on Cherokee Street along with their four children: Devy Lavine, 12; Lela Anne, 4; and John Avery and Larry Trent II, (twins), 2. They attend Harper's Ferry Baptist Church.

A. G. Dial

A life-long resident of the Town of Pembroke, a local farmer, businessman and educator, A.G. Dial has announced his candidacy for one of the 4 town council seats in the Nov. 8 election.

Mr. Dial has been active in civic affairs for many years, was one of the charter members of the Pembroke Chamber of Commerce, a charter member of the Pembroke Fireman's Association, and the Pembroke Development Corporation.

In announcing his candidacy, Mr. Dial stated that "I have the interest of the citizens of Pembroke at heart. While I recognize the value of new leadership, I believe we need a balance of both young and old in the management and administration of our town affairs. Change for change's sake does not necessarily benefit the whole community, however, some change should be effected for the benefit of the town and the community."

Mr. Dial indicated that the many issues confronting the town management at this point in time need the attention of some of the elders of the community as well as some of the young leaders for an effective balance. Having been retired for four years, Mr. Dial is willing to exert his time and energy to serving as a full-time town councilman and believes that he can bring to the office a great deal of experience as well as represent the general community at large.

Mr. Dial is supportive of necessary changes which will benefit the town and the community.

PSU Sociology Prof. contributes to Australian book

Dr. John Rimberg

PEMBROKE--An Australian book, "Conflict and Control in the Cinema," published by the McMillan Co. of Australia, is now out, including a chapter by Dr. John Rimberg, sociology professor at Pembroke State University.

The chapter is a reprint of an article by Rimberg initially published in 1960 in the "Bulletin," "Social Problems."

Editing the Australian book is Professor Robert Tulloch.

Dr. Rimberg, a Harvard graduate who has been a member of the PSU faculty since 1971, is also the author of two other research studies selected for reprint. His book-length research on the Soviet film industry under Stalin was originally published in 1959 by University Microfilms of Ann Arbor, Mich. and reprinted in 1973 by Arno Press of New York. Another article on effective communications was reprinted twice--by the New York Heart Association in 1968 and by Nursing Clinics of North America in 1969. This article first appeared in the "Bulletin" of the New York Academy of Medicine, published in 1968.

Dr. Rimberg credits professor Alex Inkeles, now professor of sociology and education at Stanford University, with introducing him to scholarly research in the late 1940's. Rimberg joined Inkeles, who earned a reputation as an expert on communist propaganda, in the analysis of Kremlin communications. However, while Inkeles specialized in print and electronic media, Rimberg made motion picture propaganda his specialty.

In graduate school at Columbia University, Rimberg was guided further in his research by the late Paul Lazarfeld, who once served as president of the American Sociological Assn., was also author of "Radio and the Printed Page," and other studies of the mass media.

Other professors who encouraged Rimberg's research included: Dr. John Hazard of Columbia University's Russian Institute, and R. Herbert Hyman, professor of sociology, also at Columbia University.

Dr. Rimberg is now working on his third book, a study of communist film propaganda during the era of Nikita Khrushchev (1953-1964).

Lumbees Subjects in N & O's Sunday Edition

The Lumbees were the subject of a special article in the Raleigh News and Observer Sunday, September 18, 1977. The article, written by David Zuchino, explored the mystique of the Lumbee experience. One young Indian fellow summed it up pretty well when he said, "He did not explore any new ground."

In the same issue, James A. Hunt, the young and aggressive Lumbee Indian president of the Lumbee Bank, was featured as "Tar Heel of the Week."

Means Says Sioux Will Sue For $30 Million

Russell Means announced to reporters that Sioux Indians plan to file a court claim for the return of the Dakotas, Nebraska and parts of Montana and Wyoming. He said they would accept $30 billion as an alternative. Elected Sioux Indian leaders in South Dakota, however, said they knew nothing of such a plan. Wayne Ducheneaux of the Cheyenne River Sioux Tribe said

"this is the first I've heard anything. Might be a heck of a deal, but I was unaware of any plans for a claim." Ed Driving Hawk of the Rosebud Sioux said, "We've never been approached about it." A spokesman for Al Trimble of the Oglala Sioux Tribe said that the tribal council had not discussed the idea.

Interior Supports Catawbas Land Claims

Another eastern tribal land claim is being supported by the Interior Department, which has recommended a Federal lawsuit to support a claim of the Catawba Indians of South Carolina to some 140,000 acres of land including the city of Rock Hill. The land is now held by private individuals and businesses. The Indians' claim, like that of the tribes in Maine, is based on violation of the 1790 Non-Intercourse Act. Efforts are being made to negotiate a settlement of the Catawbas' claim out of court.

More File For Pembroke Municipal Elections

More candidates have filed. Officially filing, in addition to Brooks and Dial, are Sam Dial, Incumbent (who announced in last week's issue of the Carolina Indian Voice), Milton Ray Hunt, incumbent, and James E. Bell.

All candidates are being extended the courtesy by the Carolina Indian Voice of making a statement concerning their candidacy.

Mayor Reggie Strickland announced his intentions to run for re-election in last week's issue of the Carolina Indian Voice although he had not, at press time, made it official by filing with the Robeson County Board of Elections.

Unofficially, Simeon Oxendine, presently serving on the Robeson County Board of Education, has indicated that he will oppose Mayor Strickland in the mayor's race. He had not filed with the board of elections at press time nor had he officially announced his intentions to run.

Milton Ray Hunt is one of the incumbent councilmen (in addition to Sam Dial) who has filed for re-election. Hunt, a sheet rock contractor, will be bidding for his second term on the council.

Bell is on the maintenance department at Pembroke State University. Monroe Lowry and Lee Neville, both incumbents, have not announced their intentions at this time, although both are expected to bid for another term. Rumor has it that Neville, a long time member of the council, and manager of the Student Stores at Pembroke State University, is considering running for mayor.

More next week.

ROBESON COUNTY INDIAN EDUCATION... A Report From the Pembroke Lions Club

A REPORT BY RUTH DIAL WOODS

On Tuesday, September 20th, all members of the Title IV-A Robeson County Compensatory Indian Education Project staff met in the Library of the Robeson County Board of Education for the first of several in-service staff orientation and training workshops.

Thirty-four of the thirty-seven staff members participated in a Workshop on Development of Positive Self-Concepts under the guidance and direction of Dr. Dudley Flood, Assistant State Superintendent of Human Relations of the North Carolina State Department of Public Instruction, Raleigh. Dr. Flood stressed to the staff the necessity for their individual development of positive attitudes and worthy self-concepts before they could assist students in the development of positive self-concepts. He also stressed the understanding of oneself as a preliminary step to understanding others in preparation for developing skills to motivate students. The objective of the work shop was to assist the Title IV-A staff in the development of skills and techniques in dealing with problems of poor self-concepts and lack of motivation which hamper the success of students in school.

The afternoon session was conducted by Project Director, Ms. Ruth Woods with the assistance of other administrative staff, Director of Education, Grady Locklear and Coordinator of Youth Development and Community Services, Donald Locklear. The staff was given an overview of the funding process for Title IV-A projects. The responsibilities of the Indian Education Parent Committee and the Local Educational Agency (LEA), and an interpretation of the Rules and Regulations governing Title IV-A projects.

The staff also reviewed the recently developed Administrative Manual for the Title IV-A Project and copies of the Title IV-A Curriculum Guide, UNITY (United Native Instruction to Youth) and discussed several aspects of administrative project control, including the organizational structure and administrative lines of communication between the LEA, the Parent Committee, and the Title IV-A Project Staff.
