THE CAROLINA INDIAN VOICE AND SUPERIOR OFFICE SUPPLY MOVES TO NEW QUARTERS

We're Now Located at The Revels Motel Complex

The above picture is where the Carolina Indian Voice has been housed for the past seven years. The above is a reproduction of a painting done for us by Tara Lowry.

by Bruce Barton

Pembroke--Our official title is the Lumbee Publishing Co., Inc. That is the name of our corporation.

We are best known as The Carolina Indian Voice. That is the name of our weekly newspaper. We are the largest weekly (in terms of subscribers and circulation) in Robeson County. We believe we are an exciting newspaper too. Even those who do not agree with us like to read The Carolina Indian Voice to find out "What the Indians are up to."

Another thing we do is provide an office supply and office furniture outlet at reasonable prices. The name of this facet of our business operation is Superior Office Supply.

We did have a printing operation but we are in the process of phasing it out. It takes too many man hours to make a dollar and it interferes with the production of The Carolina Indian Voice.

Our brother, Garry, is planning to retain the press and accessories and continue to provide quality printing at reasonable prices after hours and on Saturday. He can be contacted, until other arrangements are made, at our offices here on Highway 711.

Our operation is quartered in what was "The Incredible You Disco." The building is known as Revels Motel and Restaurant Building, although the motel and restaurant part (the section of the building we are in) have long been closed down by Juddie Revels, Jr., the owner of the property.

A convenience store, a number of other businesses and a spate of LRDA offices use the office space now.

It's a good location and we believe it will afford us an opportunity to offer better service to our customers. Come and see us. We are still the same folks who were in the old Levi Hunt Hatchery Building. And we're still on Highway 711. We think maybe we might be a little closer to the action, I hope so.

Come and see us. Our business address (P.O. Box 1075) and our telephone number (521-2826) will remain the same.

Indians On War Path For Continued IEA Rights

by Lew Barton
Special Correspondent

Raleigh, NC-Jan. 4--Some 36 North Carolina Indians went on the verbal warpath here today, to continue their rights to IEA benefits as under the original IEA definition of an Indian, led by such seasoned warriors as Kenneth Ray Maynor, Janie Maynor Locklear and Carnell Locklear, they all presented testimony to show that the present board definition should not be narrowed.

Such pow-wows across the nation are mandatory, being written into the Indian Education Act itself. But certain Cherokees and a few others in Federal Government circles have seized the provision to exclude the Lumbee, if possible. "We need to extend the definition," declares Kenneth Ray Maynor, Executive Director of the Lumbee Regional Development Association, Inc. "not narrow it down."

Says Ms. Betty Oxendine Mangum: "The Indian Education Act allows any Indian child who meets the following definition to be served: 'Indian' means...any individual who (1) is a member of a tribe, band, or other organized group of Indians, including those tribes, bands, or terminated since 1940 and those recognized by the state in which they reside, or who is a descendant in the first degree (one of the parents is Indian) or second degree (one of the grandparents is Indian) or (2) is considered by the Secretary of the Interior to be an Indian for any purpose, or (3) is an Eskimo or Aleut or other Alaska Native." Ms. Mangum who is Director of the Division of Indian Education, says the purpose of the Indian hearing is "to provide Indian tribes, bands, organizations, groups and individuals an opportunity to offer input into the study."

Director Mangum asks: "Do you like the current definition? Or do you want it changed? If so, how?"

Apparently, the Cherokee of mountainous North Carolina and certain BIA officials want the definition narrowed while other North Carolina Indians

Bell Tower to be Constructed at PSU

by Gene Warren

Pembroke--A $45,000 Bell Tower, which will be seven stories high and feature computerized, electronic music that can be heard a quarter of a mile from the campus, will soon be constructed at Pembroke State University. The tower will be erected at the heart of the campus at the quadrangle, thus making it a campus landmark.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Pate Lowry of Pembroke, both retired professors at the University who are members of the Chancellor's Club, are giving $15,000 to pay for the carillon bells and chimes portion of the tower. Those mechanisms are expected to arrive this month from Sellersville, Pa., and Oklahoma City, Okla., where manufacturer Schulmerich Carillons, Inc. has offices.

"If the University can get the body (tower), we'll put the works (bells) in," smiled Lowry in making the gift to PSU.

The tower portion will cost $30,000 and Chancellor Paul R. Givens says, "We are challenging the alumni and friends of the University to raise this additional amount."

The bells and chimes portion of the tower will be heard for the first time at

ABOUT THIS "RECENTLY ORGANIZED COASTAL CAROLINAS SOCIETY OF PROFESSIONAL JOURNALISTS" BASED IN LUMBERTON

by Bruce Barton, Editor of The Carolina Indian Voice Newspaper

I continue to hear about this... "recently organized Coastal Carolinas Society of Professional Journalists, based in Lumberton..."

I am not a member of this purported organization which speaks so glibly of the First Amendment and, at the self same time, fosters a "privileged list" only. I have not been invited to attend, nor have I been involved in the development of this organization. Mostly what I know about it is what I have read in the Robesonian newspaper.

But the journalism workshop seems interesting. But it will have little meaning without my participation. I AM THE FIRST AMENDMENT!

The U.S. Bill of Rights consists of 10 amendments, guarding American citizen's right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." The bill of rights is the cornerstone of the United States Constitution.

The First Amendment reads:

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

I thank God He is not exclusive like the "recently organized Coastal Carolinas Society of Professional Journalists, based in Lumberton." seems to be. And the United States Constitution is not exclusive either. Where else but America could an Indian ex-convict and alcoholic and general mal content like myself recover and come home and start up a newspaper from scratch? Of course most of the credit goes to my brothers and sister who share and now own this venture with me.

Let them (them being the... "recently organized Coastal Carolinas Society of Professional Journalists, based in Lumberton") put that in their pipes and smoke it.

Anyway, here's a news release about their shindig.

I cannot speak well of an organization that attempts to exclude me... but this is America and we operate by the guts of the First Amendment in these quarters. Go if you want to.

PSU to host Journalism Workshop

PEMBROKE--Pembroke State University will host Saturday to a journalism workshop which is co-sponsored by PSU and the recently organized Coastal Carolinas Society of Professional Journalists, based in Lumberton.

Twenty-two lecturers, two from such points as Portland, Ore., and Washington, D.C., are on the program which begins with registration at 9:30 a.m. and concludes at 4:30 p.m. The workshop will take place in the PSU Business Administration Building.

The workshop will have 19 different topic sessions during the day. Each will last 45 minutes. Participants can attend any four. The workshop will be under the direction of professional journalists from area and state newspapers. Topics will include getting the news while it is happening, general and investigative reporting, feature writing, creative news photography, sports, column writing, and human interest.

Mini-sessions will be conducted on layout, headlines, and graphic arts.

The workshop is open to any student who is enrolled in a college, including technical and community colleges, or is a member of the junior or senior class of a high school.

Registration fee for the workshop is $5 which will cover an on-campus luncheon in the cafeteria, materials expense, and admittance to the seminar sessions. Registrations will be accepted in the B.A. Building lobby Saturday morning. There will be 200 places available for the workshop, including students and teachers.

Three of the featured lecturers will be: Howard Graves, Associated Press bureau chief in Portland, Ore.; Val Hymnes, chief of Group W, Television in Washington, D.C.; and Lt. Paul McMullen, Ft. Bragg command information officer.

Bonnie Jordan, reporter of The Robesonian in Lumberton who is president of the Coastal Carolinas Chapter of the Sigma Delta Chi Society for Professional Journalists, will welcome the workshop participants at 9:45 a.m. in Room 201 of the B.A. Building.

CORRECTION

In last week's issue of The Carolina Indian Voice, we carried a story about Rebecca Sampson and LRDA's attempt to start a fund for her. Beginning that fund was a donation from the Sunday School class of Mr. Grady Chavis and other members of Reedy Branch Baptist Church. We incorrectly identified that church as Piney Grove last week. Our apologies to the members of Reedy Branch Baptist Church.

CORRECTION

Last week the Cherokee Chapel News columnist, Dr. Jessie B. Chavis, was incorrectly identified as Dr. James B. Chavis. Our apologies to both Dr. Jessie B. Chavis and Dr. James B. Chavis.

NC HUMAN RELATIONS COUNCIL PLAN BANQUET

Citizens from all across North Carolina, including Robeson County, are expected to attend the N.C. Human Relations Council Annual Recognition Banquet and Workshops in Raleigh on February 8 and 9.

Georgia State Senator Julian Bond will deliver the key note address at a banquet on Friday evening.

On Saturday at a recognition luncheon, Governor Jim Hunt will present awards to businesses and individuals who have made outstanding contributions to the field of human relations in their communities and state.

Participants will attend workshops on employment, education, criminal justice, affirmative action, concerns of the elderly and community relations.

Registration will be limited. A fee of $17.00 per person covers one banquet, one luncheon and all sessions. For information or registration forms, contact the N.C. ATTEND THE TRADE SHOW FEBRUARY 20 AND 21

Plan to attend the Eleventh Annual Southeastern Farm and Home Trade Show at the Cooperative Warehouse in Lumberton, North Carolina, on Wednesday and Thursday, February 20 and 21. See the new and the old. The antique booth will feature farm items of yesterday and the commercial companies will show the newest in farm and home equipment, supplies, and services.

In addition to the educational aspects of the show, you will see beauty queens, folklore of old-time square dancing, hill-billy bands and dog shows. Get a brochure from the County Agricultural Extension Office, Post Office Box 392, Lumberton, North Carolina 28358. Telephone (919) 738-8111 for further details and time of the various events.

PEMBROKE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEETS TONIGHT

The Pembroke Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture will meet this coming Thursday, January 10th at 7:30 in the Town Hall. This is the time for our members of the Pembroke Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture to pay the annual membership fee for 1980.

Said Curt Locklear, President of the Chamber, "The Chamber can only be as active and effective as the members who come to the meetings and participate in the work of the Chamber. We could be so much more active in the community and helpful to the business of the area if there were more members, and present members were more active. So, bring a friend and more importantly, come to the meeting yourself."
