Do you have the boldness to ask your doctor questions about your medications?
If you want to be informed, when your doctor prescribes a drug for you, ask him the following questions:
Why has your prescription been recommended? Is the drug prescribed a cure, or only a relief for discomfort?
When should you expect results? Finally, is your drug available generically, and if so, would he advise filling your prescription with a less costly generic drug?
I hope you'll feel free to ask us questions, too. Give us a call.
