

Cycle for Life Chairman named in Pembroke

The Leukemia Society of America, NC Chapter announced today that the 1982 Cycle for Life Chairman for Pembroke will be Mr. James F. Bell. The Leukemia Society of America is dedicated towards the conquering of leukemia. Proceeds from the Bike-A-Thon will be used in research and patient-aid. At the present time the Leukemia Society of America, NC Chapter has $459,935 in research projects granted in the state of North Carolina. These research projects are being conducted at Duke University and the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill. The Leukemia Society is also providing financial assistance to 310 patients in the state of North Carolina. In spite of remarkable medical advances in the last ten years, leukemia remains a Number 1 killer disease of children. Leukemia is no longer a hopeless disease. Years ago over 90% of everyone with Leukemia died within six months but today the picture is much brighter for children and adults due to the research that has helped in treatment and diagnosis. When a boy or girl comes by your home asking you to sponsor them in the upcoming Cycle for Life, please consider that the funds will be used right here in the state of North Carolina in research and patient-aid. Anyone wishing information or entry blanks can contact Mr. Bell at 521-4622 in Pembroke.

COUNTY LEADERS PREPARE FOR FUTURE

County leaders, who met in Chapel Hill July 13-14 to talk about local concerns for the future, found that they had a lot in common with each other.

"The issues that concern us most here in Robeson County are the same ones that are on the minds of people in other counties," said Tommy D. Swett, who is co-chairman of Robeson County's NC 2000 committee.

"We were all talking about education, employment, crime prevention and protection of citizens from crime, adequate housing, environment, cultural activities, fair system of taxes, health care, help for the needy and senior citizens," said Swett.

"Those of us in Southeastern NC, however, do appear to have a greater concern about education, employment and crime prevention than people in other parts of the state," he continued.

The meeting was sponsored by the Commission on the Future of North Carolina, the group appointed by Governor Hunt to direct the NC 2000 project, to conduct a study of the next 18 years in North Carolina and to recommend courses of action for the long-term future. The county leaders have worked with the Commission for the past eight months to ensure that their local citizens have a strong voice in the planning effort. During a question and answer session, Commission members responded to a number of concerns raised by local leaders:

What thought has been given to the people on the production lines who might be replaced by technological advances in the future?

"We will have to change our ways of preparing people for jobs. During a 15-year period, we may have to retrain a person four or five times to keep up with technology. And we must gear up our community colleges, high schools and colleges and universities to do this."

Richard Wynne, Asheville
What will happen to our environmental programs as federal policies change?

"North Carolina will have to attend to its own resources. That will mean taking a look at what we have here in this state and developing suitable protection laws."

Jim Dockery, Winston-Salem
How is the Commission addressing rural re-development?

"We believe North Carolina must look closely at the peculiar attributes of a county. We must go beyond a look at the Fortune 500 businesses. It may mean providing high risk capital or counties cooperating to attract industry."

Richard Wynne
The goals we are discussing are admirable. These are things we all want to happen. But will we have to create a massive bureaucracy to pursue them?

"In considering ways to implement these goals, we are looking first to the people themselves for solutions. What can individuals do? What can businesses do? Can the state provide them with supportive services? Only when other solutions cannot be found should we have a bureaucracy in place to do it."

Nathan Garrett, Durham
UNC President William C. Friday, who chairs the Commission, commended the county leaders for their intense concern about all the people in the state, and specifically about their concerns for the future of the family and the relationship of work, jobs and education. "You have taken seriously our role as trustee of what we have inherited in North Carolina and our obligation to pass it on," Friday said.

In the closing session, county leaders expressed concern about how the NC 2000 recommendations would be carried out. One suggestion was a "futures" study in the high school social studies curriculum. Another was for counties and cities to establish their own goals and objectives for the future.

Other proposals were made that follow-up should be done by chambers of commerce; local task forces working with city and county officials; and by involving the League of Municipalities, the Association of County Commissioners and Council of State Governments.

Consensus was reached that some form of state leadership would be necessary to assure action at the state as well as the local level. County concerns and recommendations will be presented to the Commission at its meetings on August 26-27.

Locklears hold Family Reunion

Scott Reunion

The family of Johnnie C. and Mary Cattle Barton Locklear held a family reunion on July 4, 1982 at the home of Mary Cattle Locklear on Route 1, Rowland. A covered dish dinner was prepared by the families.

There are twenty-nine grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

All the Locklear children live in Robeson County except for Juanita who flew in from Alexandria, Va.

Not shown is the mother, Mary Cattle Barton Locklear, who was involved in a car accident in route from church that Sunday morning.

The first Scott Reunion was held on July 3, 1982 at the Hestertown Church of God Fellowship Hall, from 1 until 5 p.m.

We had a good fellowship together. Our parents, Elizabeth J. and C.C. Scott, had 12 children, three of which are still living, James, and J.B. Scott, and Bessie Bullard.

The dining table decorated with flowers and Vicentia table cloth. Everyone had plenty to eat.

James was not able to attend this reunion, but J.B. led us in prayer. A talk was given by Bessie Bullard.

Eddie Lee Locklear read the scriptures. All the families were represented except one. Each family gave a talk. Out of town visitors were Mr. & Mrs. M.T. Morris and son from Charlotte, NC; and Earl Scott from Baltimore, Md.

There were about 140 present for this reunion. May we have many more.
