ENTHUSIASM ABOUND AS TICKET DRIVE BEGINS FOR FUND-RAISER

In what was probably the most enthusiastic meeting this correspondent has attended in our 14 years at PSU, the PSU Annual Giving Campaign Committee (which consists of 30 persons) met last Thursday, receiving their allotments of tickets, and prepared to go and knock on doors.

A list of last year's ticket purchasers was provided and as the committee went down the list, the members were volunteering eagerly to go and see various purchasers. It was like the stock market on Wall Street as the different members responded when a name was called out, saying: "I'll take him!"

This kind of esprit de corps will make for a great ticket drive—and a great University. The entire community needs to be as excited as that gathering of campaign workers were.

The list of ticket purchasers will be published in this column after the next campaign committee meeting Thursday, Oct. 7. Tickets are $50-a-plate.

The date of the fund-raising dinner is Tuesday, Nov. 9, at 6 p.m. in the Jones Physical Education Center. The speaker will be Jim Valvano N.C. State basketball coach who is supposed to be an excellent after-dinner speaker, very inspirational.

Following the banquet, those buying tickets will be special guests at a singing performance by blonde Saannah McCutchie at 8 p.m. in the PSU Performing Arts Center. Her show called, "The Hollywood Blondes," will be a tribute to the famous blondes of Hollywood history like Marilyn Monroe, Mae West, Jean Harlow, etc.

Remember tickets are tax deductible. You may order them by telephoning the PSU Office of Institutional Advancement: 521-4214, Ext. 252. Dr. Richard Fissano is in charge of the ticket drive this year.

LOWRY BARBER SHOP QUARTET OUTSTANDING

A highlight of the second annual N. C. Indian Senior Citizens Coalition held at PSU last Thursday was a performance by the Lowry Barber Shop Quartet of Pembroke. Dressed in their straw hats and red vests, they made an impressive picture on the stage of the PSU Performing Arts Center.

Members of the quartet are three brothers—Ira Pate Lowry, Theodore Lowry, and Jason Lowry—and Alvin Ray Lowry, son of Theodore. They put everything into their act and were warmly applauded.

The audience also was entertained by the 11 members of the women's Kitchen Band which used pots, pans, washboards etc. in providing accompaniment to their songs.

Having the 300 members of this elderly coalition on campus was a big plus for Pembroke State University. Nothing is as rewarding as looking after our senior citizens, who deserve every accolade paid them. After all, they paved the way for each and every one of us.

JOE SANDLIN TO BE GUEST ON CHANCELLOR'S RADIO PROGRAM

Joe Sandlin, co-director of this year's Annual Giving Campaign at PSU, will be the guest of Chancellor Paul Givens on the radio program, "From the Chancellor's Office," to be aired at 10:45 a.m. Sunday. This is the second straight year that Sandlin has co-chaired the event. He believes in keeping Robeson County's finest young people home, educating here, and thereby encouraging them to remain here to build our community.

DEEY GILLESPIE & BAND TO ENTERTAIN THURSDAY NIGHT

This Thursday night, Sept. 30, Deeey Gillespie and his jazz band will be the attraction at 8 p.m. at the PSU Performing Arts Center. The Washington Post calls him "the greatest trumpeter in any music." Tickets are $6.50 each for the best seats in the house. Others are in the $5.50 and $4.50 range. PSU students with I.D. cards are admitted free.

LOWRY BARBER SHOP QUARTET ENTERTAINS The Lowry Barber Shop Quartet of Pembroke did itself proud last week in entertaining at the second annual N.C. Indian Senior Citizens Coalition at PSU. Left to right, they are Ira Pate Lowry, Theodore Lowry, Jason Lowry and Alvin Ray Lowry. The first three mentioned are brothers, while Alvin Ray is the son of Theodore.

of Carter and McSwain in Fayetteville. Her daughter, a senior at Pine Forest High School in Fayetteville, is reportedly interested in also going to PSU.

DR. ELIZABETH ACHTEMEIER: TRULY AN OUTSTANDING SPEAKER

Dr. Elizabeth Achtemeier, visiting professor at Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, was one of the finest speakers PSU has had in its annual Staley Lecture Series. Married for over 30 years and the mother of two grown children, she emphasized the importance of total commitment to a marriage (making divorce unthinkable), talked about what love really is ("It's what you have gone through together"), said parenthood is a never-ending process of service, and said marriage and parenthood are worth every sacrifice. "Christian marriage is the abundant life of which Jesus spoke," she emphasized in a really great talk.

Locklear, Secretary; Pam Locklear, Treasurer; Virgil Oxendine, Reporter; Tina Lowery, Parliamentarian; Susan Brewer, Historian; and Nena Oxendine, Recreation Leader. Mrs. Mabel Cummings is advisor.

IT'S A FACT

That roaring fire in your living room fireplace could actually be cooling your house down instead of making it warmer. The fact is that fireplaces use a lot of air to keep a fire going. Fresh cold air seeps in around doors and windows to replace the air that goes up the flue. Many experts advise using an airtight wood stove for extra heat instead of a fireplace.

A new breakthrough in wood stove efficiency has created stoves that can keep your home as much as 20 percent warmer. The development is called a catalytic combustor. It's from Corning Glass and more than 100 stove manufacturers will soon have comparable-equipped stoves on the market. The combustor reduces creosote buildup as much as 60 percent, so the stove and chimney need less frequent cleaning. The combustor also reduces the amount of wood needed to heat a room.
