ship and Service; and Ms. Ruth Dial Woods, Outstanding Achievement in the Professions. (Elmer Hunt photo)

Week-long activities and observances were sponsored by the Pembroke Business and Professional Women's Club in keeping with the national and state programs celebrating National Business Women's Week of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc.

Beginning on Sunday, Club members attended Mount Olive Baptist Church worship services. On Monday, the annual Awards Banquet was held at Sheff's Seafood Restaurant in Pembroke where five area women were awarded special recognition for achievement, leadership and service in business and the professions. On Wednesday evening, club members visited the Extended Care Unit of Southeastern General Hospital. On Thursday club members visited the senior citizens meeting at Maynor Manor. Week long activities culminated in a Prayer breakfast on Saturday morning at Town and Country Restaurant with Ms. Josephine Locklear as guest speaker.

The Federation Objectives are: to elevate the standards for women in business and the professions. To promote the interests of business and professional women. To bring about a spirit of cooperation among business and professional women through education along lines of industrial, scientific and vocational activities.

If any business or professional woman is interested in joining the Pembroke BPW Club, please contact Ms. Sarah Bell, Membership Chairperson by calling 521-4622.

Teacher of the Year selected at Pembroke Elementary School

Mrs. Ruby D. Buchanan was recently selected as "Teacher of the Year" for Pembroke Elementary School. She represents a faculty of 54 teachers.

Mrs. Buchanan was honored at a tea in the school cafeteria given by the faculty and staff. She was presented a beautiful corsage of white carnations by Mrs. Earlene Locklear, chairperson of the teacher of the year committee. The tea began with opening remarks rendered by Mrs. Verdis Deese. Mrs. Deese compared Mrs. Buchanan to Julie Andrews because of the way she uses music to motivate and stimulate the processes of learning.

Mr. James C. Dial, Principal, presented Mrs. Buchanan with a plaque recognizing her as "Their Teacher of the Year." Mr. Dial expressed his appreciation of her numerous talents as well as an outstanding teacher.

Mrs. Buchanan is a native of Iredell County. She graduated with honors from Union Grove High School in Iredell County. She received her B.S. in Education from PSU in 1971 and her Master of Arts in Education in 1979.

After graduation she began her teaching career at Pembroke Elementary School working with the gifted and talented students.

The eleven years that followed her school employment afforded many opportunities for professional development and service. She attended an extended energy workshop in Raleigh one summer; was a consultant at a workshop for teachers of gifted and talented students in Columbus County; served on numerous committees in Robeson County, including the Social Studies Continuum Committee. She has remained active in the local NCAE, State NCAE and the National NEA, having served on many committees, and was president-elect and president of the local body. She has been state delegate several times and a national delegate once.

Students Learn About Health Career Awareness Project

by Marcia Locklear Hunt

The Health Career Awareness Project of the Robeson County Board of Education began the 1982 school year of exposing high school seniors to health careers. The staff held general sessions with seniors at all eight county high schools. The Health Career Awareness Project staff coordinating the sessions and year's activities consist of a coordinator, Ms. Rose Marie Lowry and two counselors, Ms. Marica Locklear Hunt and Ms. Harriet Mason.

During the sessions the seniors are exposed to the many activities and services offered by the HCAP program. The students view a multi-media slide presentation showing the various experiences the students receive as a participant in the project. The slide presentation includes pictures of Health Career participants on tour at medical and health schools all over North Carolina. The HCAP participants visit UNC Chapel Hill, Duke University and NC State Veterinary School. The slide presentation also give an idea of the kinds of services offered by the guidance counselors employed by HCAP. After the slide presentation the students were able to meet a health professional who grew up in Robeson County and was educated in the county school system. During the eight sessions, the students met and heard from Dr. Cheryl Locklear (first Indian female dentist), Dr. Curt Locklear Jr. (one of two Indian veterinarians in the U.S.), Ms. Debbie Hammonds Chavis, physical therapist, Dr. David Brooks (first Indian veterinarian), Mr. Leslie Sanderson (registered pharmacist), Ms. Jennie Lowry (health administrator). After the presentation the students were given a chance to enroll in the Health Career Awareness Project.

The Robeson County seniors are given a chance through the Health Career Awareness Project to learn about all the possible careers in health. Through their involvement with the project, they will have the opportunity to go to different health schools and learn which schools will best meet their needs.

The project will be guiding seniors toward health professions in all county high schools throughout the school year.

Our Wonderful Water Supply

What is our most vital utility? If you guessed the telephone, electricity or gas, you're wrong. It's water, and it happens to be the least expensive utility that Americans enjoy, too. It's within our power to keep it that way.

An average family of four uses upwards of 90,000 gallons of water a year—evidence of the reliability and ease with which clean, treated and trustworthy drinking water is received into a home or business. Not only that, the water is free. What you're paying for in water utility bills is processing—the gathering, treating, testing, pumping, storing and replacing that water facilities do for us 24 hours a day.

Our water supply is not endless, however. Much is displaced through evaporation, and the number one consumer of water is irrigated agriculture. According to the American Water Works Association, realistic pricing of water, and reasonable conservation measures, can help keep our water supply plentiful.

Appreciating how valuable our water supply is now may help us to have plenty of this vital resource for years to come.

IT'S A FACT!

Australia may be the world's smallest continent, but its trading relationship with America is doing big things for our economy. Australia buys much more from us than we buy from it—and the gap in our favor is widening.

According to recent statistics from the Australian Information Service, our two nations had $7.713 billion worth of bilateral trade in 1981. Over $5 billion of this was American exports to Australia, including machinery, aircraft, computers and motor vehicle parts. Australia sent more than $2 billion worth of goods to the United States, including alumina, bauxite, meat and sugar.
