LONG TIME PEMBROKE RESIDENTS WIN $20,000 SWEEPSTAKES

According to Mrs. Carl Stubbs, "people really do win sweepstakes" as she recently recounted her good fortune in winning a $20,000 sweepstakes sponsored by "Progressive Farmer," "Southern Living" and "Creative Ideas for Living" magazines. Mrs. Stubbs like many of us do, sent in the entry form that was part of the "Super Scoop" Sweepstakes and then promptly forgot about it until she received a certified letter on October 16, 1985 informing her that she and her husband (she sent in the entry in the name of she and her husband) had won $20,000.

Upon opening the letter Mrs. Stubbs recalls, "I couldn't believe it." She remembers her son, Carl Stubbs Jr. saying, "I'll believe it when the money is in your hands."

He and the rest of the family were eventually convinced, and the Stubbs were invited to Birmingham, Ala. to receive the check from company officials. Mrs. Stubbs, accompanied by her son and daughter, and her husband, was surprised upon arrival at the Sheraton, to find their names on the marquee out front of the hotel where they were put up and an accompanying "congratulations."

The Stubbs family combined the trip to attend the wedding of a grandson in Eufaula, Alabama at the same time. It was a double bonus as they received their check and also were present as their grandson, T.E. Maness, was wed.

Mrs. Stubbs had kind words for the hospitality of the magazine officials. They were treated to a lavish reception, given a grand tour of the Progressive Farmer building, and the grand finale when they were presented their check during a special presentation.

Mr. and Mrs. Stubbs spent many years in Pembroke where both worked at Pembroke Implement Company in various capacities before eventual retirement. They moved to a new home fronting Highway 711 (about half way between Lumberton and Pembroke) in 1977. Carl Stubbs, a long time member of the Pembroke Kiwanis Club, and a former town councilman, is ailing but was able to make the trip to Alabama.

Indian Business Trade Fair To Be Held At Unity Conference

By: Ben Jacobs

An Indian Business Trade Fair is planned for March 14, at the Four Seasons Holiday Inn in Greensboro in conjunction with the North Carolina Indian Unity Conference.

According to Ben Jacobs, Economic Development Specialist with the Commission of Indian Affairs, the trade fair will give the Indian business people an opportunity to meet business representatives of major industries and companies who have an interest in purchasing the products or services of the Indian business.

Jacobs said the Indian Business Trade Fair will be the first of its kind in the state. "It will give Indian business people an opportunity to get to know one another better. We will learn more about the kinds of products and services that Indian businesses are providing," he said.

Jacobs said the trade fair will be open to any person who pays the registration fee, but will be targeted to Indian businesses in the areas of construction, manufacturing, distribution, or trucking. A flyer is being developed on the trade fair and will be mailed to Indian businesses about the state.

The trade fair will feature business displays and a luncheon with remarks from business leaders of the state.

Business people who are interested in attending should contact their local Indian organization or contact Ben Jacobs at the Commission's office in Raleigh at (919)738-5998.

Sheriff Stone Announces Re-election Bid

Sheriff Hubert Stone
Lumberton-Robeson County

Sheriff Hubert Stone, on the opening day of filing for county offices, January 6, 1986, filed with the elections board seeking a third term as sheriff.

In filing and announcing the opening of his campaign for office, Stone said, "the people of Robeson County continue to show me their support of my positions as Sheriff of this county and I will continue to serve their interests as long as they are satisfied."

Sheriff Stone, a native of Rowland and a career law enforcement officer for 32 years said, "My intentions during another term are the same as since I took office, to gradually implement the changes necessary to make law enforcement better in Robeson County and to cause my department to better serve the citizens here."

The Sheriff said he would soon be announcing long term plans he felt should be accomplished during an additional term. Stone said the plans involve the co-operative effort of all branches of county government and services and are aimed at combating an increasing crime rate being experienced by law enforcement.

Local Students Winners In Essay Contest

Kimberly Decarlo, an eighth grader, and Dori Brooks, a ninth grader, were both winners in an essay contest sponsored by the Science Department at Pembroke Junior High School. The competition was created by the school in order to promote and progress student writing competency skills. Topics and background information were provided by science teachers, and students were required to write a first draft. Later, grammar and punctuation in the papers were reviewed and corrected in the English Department. Students then wrote two final copies of the assignment. One was returned to the science teacher and graded primarily on overall content and structure, and the other was given to the English teacher to be scored primarily on grammar and structure. Final winners were selected by the Science Department.

Kimberly, a student in Ms. Sandra Locklear's science class, and Dori, a student in Mr. Robert Leggett's science class, will receive free passes to the next school dance and a certificate from the school.

R.L. DAVIS ANNOUNCES FOR THE HOUSE

R.L. Davis, a Republican, announces that he is now running for the N.C. House of Representatives for the 16th Legislative District.

Davis is seeking this office for the fact that North Carolina is headed for the year 2000 and in view of that, he said, "I wish to arouse the conscious of the members of the General Assembly to several factors that would be very important to North Carolina."

"Subsequently these factors will determine the status of our state when we arrive at the year 2000.

"Some of these factors are the tax package which was proposed to the General Assembly, calling for the repeal of food taxes, inventory taxes, intangible taxes, and non prescription drug tax."

Mr. Davis stated that the repeal of these taxes would not hamper the on going program of the state educational institutions. He stated his reason: "The repeal of all the taxes would offset any losses by the establishment of industries in our state."

Mr. Davis continued, "The people of North Carolina should answer the question which involves the important fact of the governor veto power through a referendum.

"There is no question in my mind that the Governor would be held more accountable for the type of law that passed the General Assembly should that office be granted veto power."

Some of Mr. Davis' experiences, he says, would help him be a good candidate. He has a bachelor and master's degree in art. He is a government and economics teacher in the Robeson County School System.

His traveling is extensive, having visited the Soviet Union, Finland, Germany, Great Britain, Pakistan, Turkey and other countries.

Mr. Davis' wife is a teacher in the Lumberton City School System. He is the father of three children, one son and two daughters. He has served as Chairman of the Lumberton Human Relations Commission and is the immediate past president of the Lumberton Middle School PTA.

Mr. Davis stated that he is proud to be supported by Governor Jim Martin.

INDIAN STUDENTS TO ATTEND YEAR OF THE INDIAN KICKOFF IN RALEIGH TODAY

Students representing PSU's Native American Student Organization will be in Raleigh Thursday (today) to help launch North Carolina's year-long observance in 1986 of "The Year of the Indian."

The Thursday events will include a "fun run" at noon by Billy Mills, an Oglala-Stouox Indian from South Dakota who was an Olympic gold medal winner in the 1964 Olympics in the 10,000-meter run. That run is tentatively set for the N.C. State University track. Indian students from other schools as well as Pembroke State will take part in running with Mills.

On Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Raleigh Civic Center, a dinner will take place at which the key note speaker will be Mills. Attending the dinner will be the governor, lieutenant governor and other notables.

Mills provided the subject matter for a movie "Running Brave," which starred Robby Benson and detailed Mills' Olympic story.

Linda Oxendine, director of PSU's Native American Resource Center, will put up a display of Indian art at the Thursday night dinner. It will include works of Gene Locklear, Craig Locklear, Gloria Lowery, Delora Cummings and Robert Locklear, all natives of the Pembroke area. Gene Locklear now resides in San Diego, Calif., and Craig Locklear in Santa Fe, NM.
