UK Journalist Phillip Day Visits Charlotte June 5th to Discuss His New Books About Cancer & AIDS

Phillip Day, British author, lecturer and health reporter, will hold a press conference (open to the public) from 12 - 2 p.m. Monday, June 5th in the Assembly Room at the Cornelius Town Hall, 21445 Catawba Avenue. Day will discuss the politics of cancer & AIDS; conventional vs. natural ways of treatment; and how to protect yourself, your family, loved ones and friends - information from his two recently released books: CANCER: We're Still Dying to Know the Truth (February) and World Without AIDS (released May 10th).

Day will speak and answer questions Monday evening at 7 p.m. at the Sheraton Airport Plaza Hotel, I-85 @ Bill Graham Parkway, Charlotte. Admission is $5 at the door, $8 for couples. Doors open at 6 p.m. Day's visit is sponsored by North Carolina members of The Cancer Prevention Coalition, with proceeds going to The Cancer Prevention Coalition. These will be Day's only appearances in North Carolina.

Today, one in three people will die from cancer. Experts predict that cancer will soon surpass heart disease as the number one killer in the western world.

AIDS establishment figures are threatening to boycott an upcoming conference in South Africa, and an astonishing reaction was witnessed recently when President Clinton made AIDS a national security issue, bringing its handling under military control at the hands of the Central Intelligence Agency and National Security Agency.

Phillip Day's long-awaited books are the result of 10 years of diligent research which dismantle two of the world's greatest "diseases" -- laying bare the deceit, fraudulent science and needless fear-mongering that lie at the heart of these global epidemics.
