

THERE are very few, who religiously live through "THE DAY,"—as though there were to be no MORROW;—and who at all times are PREPARED to quit the present stage of existence, to appear before the tribunal of their GOD:—And there are as few, who this day are PREPARING, for what to-morrow may produce. There are few, also, who are so happily constituted, by education and reflection, as to rise superior to the FROWNS of DISAPPOINTMENT, and the SMILES of FORTUNE and LUCK;—and who turn each varied scene of human life, of nature, and of art into MORAL usefulness.—Columbian Centinel.

TO-DAY AND TO-MORROW.

TO-day the Sun with cloudless ray,
Beams joy and happiness around;
To-morrow winds tempestuous play,
And sleet adorn the frozen ground.

Such is the doom to man assign'd;
Such are the changes of the mind.

To-day the genial zephyrs breathe,
The fragrance of the opening year;
To-morrow sees the barren heath,
And vegetation disappear.

Such is the fate of human kind,
Such are the changes of the mind.

To-day the sun of Pleasure smiles,
Youth Joy and Beauty, deck the scenes;
The magic wand of Hope beguiles,
And not a dark cloud intervenes;

Such is the view to youth assign'd;
Such the delusions of the mind.

To-morrow Disappointment lowers,
Cares canker gnaws the aching breast,
Regret each passing moment sours,
Or Sorrow rears her gorgon crest:

Such is the doom to man assign'd;
Such are the changes of the mind.

To-day deceitful Fortune wears,
The gladd'ning smile of Joy and Peace;
We seek not Sorrow's hidden snares,
That soon may bid our pleasures cease;

Our prospects fair, and unconfin'd,
Yield sweet contentment to the mind.

To-morrow wears another face;
And dark'ning clouds obscure the view;
In vain the past scenes we retrace,
Or strive the future to pursue:

But dreary are the thoughts assign'd,
To occupy the gloomy mind.

To-day then let us all prepare,
For what the morrow may produce:
To-morrow be our chiefest care,
To put each hour to proper use;

Move in the sphere by Heaven design'd,
And regulate the wandering mind.

We learn (says the Boston Gazette of the 10th instant,) that a British 14 gun-brig is now cruising within our Bay. A vessel arrived in Salem on Friday last, was boarded on the same day by this privateer, and had her letters and papers opened, and strictly examined. The commander of the brig informed the Salem captain, that he should keep a good look-out for a number of ships, (of which he said he had a list) homeward bound to this and the neighboring ports from distant places. A letter has been received at Russell's insurance office, which had been broken open and indorsed on the back "Examined by one of his Majesty's privateers, June 6, 1806."

MIRANDA'S EXPEDITION.

A letter from a respectable merchant at Caracas, to a gentleman in Boston, dated May 6, 1806, says—"Miranda's scheme of making a revolution on the Spanish Main, is entirely frustrated; and he only escaped by the superior sailing of his ship. Two of his tenders, laden with all kinds of ammunition, and 60 men of his troops, have fallen into the hands of the Spaniards; himself fought for a quarter of an hour with a Spanish armed brig, near Porto Cavello; but was obliged to cut his cables, and run. After touching at Jaquemel, to solicit assistance from the blacks, which he could not get, he came to Aruba ten days ago, gave $1000 for a pilot, and from thence to Bonaire, where he remained two days to prepare himself for action, and proceeded farther to the Spanish coast, in company with two schooners. He fell in with two Spanish armed brigs, near Lagaira, who engaged him, and captured the two tenders. Every individual there is under arms and well prepared to receive him. He fought without colors. This information was received by our government here; and it is since confirmed from every part of the Spanish Main."

A letter from the Marquis Casa Yajou, dated at Philadelphia the 5th February, with a postscript of the 11th of the same month, addressed to the Governor-General of Venezuela and Carracas, has been found on board a prize-vessel lately sent into Kingston (Jam.) from which the following relation is taken respecting Miranda, &c.

"That on his return from Washington, where he had been for a few weeks, he received information that the traitor Miranda sailed from New-York the day before, in the ship Leander, mounting 18 guns, and that she had merchandize and ammunition of all kinds, and warlike stores on board, such as lead in sheets, iron, muskets, and particularly a large quantity of pikes, the greater part without handles for the convenience of their being concealed, that a three-masted schooner went in company with him; previous to this, a capt. Lewis sailed with two schooners for Port-au-Prince, near which place there was a position occupied by 2000 Mulattoes, who on a former occasion had promised to ship themselves in a body, if he would procure a country for them to go to, as they were afraid of being massacred by the blacks; the mulattoes are under the command of one Pichon. Lewis had with him powder and ball, some hundred stand of arms, and 6600 pikes there were two vessels fitting out on the same expedition from Boston, one of which had sailed, but he could not tell her name; that the ship Louisiana had sailed, mounting 16 guns, with 20 field pieces and 13 mortars on board, a considerable quantity of arms and ammunition, and a complete equipage for mounting a regiment of cavalry; that the result of his enquiries is, the Indostan and Emperor had cleared and sailed for St. Marc's and Jaquemel. Leander, for Carracas. Louisiana, cleared for Port-au-Prince. Two vessels from Boston. Capt. Lewis with two Schooners. And a three-masted schooner that sailed in company with the Leander.

From the best information he could obtain, they carried about 12,000 men for disembarkation, taking as many as they could in each vessel, so as not to give rise to suspicion; that he had no doubt they are destined against Carracas, and therefore sends this account, that he may be prepared against any surprise from these pirates.

PROVIDENCE. (R. I.) June 7. More British Inult!!

The schooner Morning Star, Capt. Oldridge, of this port, failed from hence on the 10th ult. for Washington, N. Carolina. On the 15th, between the Capes of Virginia and Hatteras, she fell in with the British cruising ship, which either carelessly or wilfully, ran foul of her.—An officer boarded the sch'r and impressed one man, an American citizen, with a regular protection. Capt. Oldridge remonstrated against his taking the man, informing him that he was short handed, having in all but five men, officers included, one of them sick below, and a vessel of sixty-one tons to navigate; but his remonstrances are in vain. The ship parted from the sch'r and the people on board the latter discovered, that in consequence of the blow she had received from the ship, she leaked very badly. Having spent the night in pumping, she was found to have three feet of water in her hold, and being then off Occacock bar, and blowing a gale, it was thought most late to attempt going in, even without a pilot; but in attempting it, she struck on the bar, and immediately foundered. The officer from the ship refused to tell her name, or that of her commander, whose conduct reflects so much honor on the British navy.

Dr. J. J. Giraud, of this city, states, that he has discovered an infallible cure for the Yellow-Fever; Castile Soap, he says is the basis of his specific. His declaration is supported by the certificates of about 100 persons, who have, in the course of five years, been cured by his remedy.—Balt. Gaz.
