MISS MOZELL WILKERSON IS CROWNED 'MISS WHITTED'

The Parent Teachers' Association of the James A. Whitfield School under the direction of its official staff sponsored a "Popularity Contest" which closed May 10, 1937 with a Carnival and the crowning of "Miss Whitted."

The decoration, which began at the entrance and was carried out in the booths and assembly hall, added much to the Carnival spirit and exemplified the artistic ability of the sponsors.

Mozelle Wilkerson a member of the 4A-2 class was crowned "Miss Whitted." Daniel Martin a member of the 1A grade received first prize for selling the highest number of votes.

The interest of the parents and the spirit of the occasion were expressed financially in the raising of over $250. The proceeds will go for the purchase of playground facilities.

MRS. MARY BIDDLE PRESENTS BUST TO ANGLIER B. DUKE NURSES HOME

On Saturday morning May 8th, Mrs. Mary Biddle daughter of the late Benjamin Duke presented a Bust of the late Anglier B. Duke to the Angier B. Duke Nurses Home of Lincoln Hospital.

Dr. S. L. Warren acted as master of ceremonies and introduced the Hospital Glee Club. The Glee Club under the direction of Mrs. Harriet Busby, rendered the selections: "My Lord What a Morning, and Nobody Knows." Following this was the presentation of the Angier B. Duke Bust, by Mrs. Biddle, Dr. Warren then introduced C. C. Spaulding, who accepted the Bust on behalf of the Trustee Board of Lincoln Hospital and Negroes of Durham.

Be cool in Cotton every summer hour; and especially at the end of a busy day. When you're all tucked out don't a gaily colored housecoat, or a pair of pajamas, and you can still look and, also, feel alive and full of fun even when you're lounging in your laziest manner.

Both the pajamas and the flowered housecoat are of cool cotton. We say 'cool' cotton, because you not only look cool, but feel cool as well. Cotton is rapidly becoming more varied, more usable than ever before—you'll live in cotton this summer.

HEADS OHIO CLUB OF WOMEN

MRS. MARGARET E. BARNES, widely known woman leader and president of the Ohio State Federation of Colored Women's Clubs, Inc., who recently flayed the leadership of the National Association of Colored Women, declaring that false guidance is undermining and sapping the spirit of the National. She resides in Oberlin, Ohio.

DR. MARY F. WARING SPEAKS IN BIRMINGHAM

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 13. (AP)—Dr. Mary F. Waring, president National Association of Colored Women was the principal speaker last Sunday at Industrial High school, the occasion being the annual Camp Day of the Girls Service League. Mrs. Pauline Fletcher, president. While here Dr. Waring was the guest of Mrs. C. W. Brooks, president City Federation of Women's Clubs. The club leader motored to Montgomery Monday and left Tuesday for Tuskegee Institute, where she was the guest of President F. D. Patterson and Mrs. Patterson and the Women's Club of Tuskegee, Miss Susie Elliott, president.

WHAT TO READ

(By Alma L. Fitzgerald) For a change let's read a little non-fiction.

Try The Flowering of New England by Van Wyck Brooks. (You all know that he won the Pulitzer Prize for this historical work) This book was selected by the booksellers of America as the most distinguished general non-fiction book of 1936.

The period 1815-1816 is outstanding for its many famous writers. Mr. Brooks gives us a clear conception of everything literary and artistic that went on in this period. This book really reads as easy as fiction but one gets much more information and pleasure.

A book that has been talked about but not studied and read carefully is Dale Carnegie's "How To Win Friends and Influence People." The title is the index to the book. The most important things in this book, so I think, are the six ways he gives to make people like you. Perchance you might not be able to secure this book immediately here are the six ways: 1. Become genuinely interested in other people. 2. Smile. 3. Remember that a man's name is to him the sweetest and most important sound in the English language. 4. Be a good listener. Encourage others to talk about themselves. 5. Take in terms of the other man's interests. 6. Make the other person feel important. And do it sincerely. Why not give the six rules a try and see how successful you are.

Two new books out that parents should make their children read are: Manners for Boys—Ralph Barbour and Manners for Girls—Inez Irvin. These books are for the school girl or boy. At this time of year when the younger set are having garden parties, Junior senior Proms, etc. It is well that they brush up on manners. As Barbour says, "Manners may be likened to an attractive window—display which calls public attention to the wares inside, and so it can be said that we advertise ourselves by our manners."

All books, poems, etc. mentioned in this column may be secured from the Durham Colored Library.

COMMUNISTS HIT PRIZE FOR "GONE WITH THE WIND"

NEW YORK, May 13—(AP)—Termining the book "a deliberate insult to the Negro people," the Young Communist league in convention last week at Webster hall adopted a resolution protesting the Pulitzer prize award to Margaret Mitchell's novel, "Gone With the Wind."

The resolution read: "The eighth annual convention of the Young Communist league believes that the awarding of the Pulitzer prize to 1,037 pages of Southern slaveowner apologia is a deliberate insult to the Negro people, whom the novel vilifies, and to all progressive, socially minded people. We urge intensive protests against any attempt to make motion picture out of this book."

HERNDON DECISIONS

Human bias, prejudice and predilections vitiate any question into which they enter. The judges of the Supreme Court from no exception to this rule. All argument for a court free from political slant and bias is a pure waste of while. It is as impossible for a judge to free himself of his received and accepted political and economic philosophy as it would be for a Baptist to lay aside his denominational tenets in a religious controversy.

MANICURE MUST SUIT SHAPE OF THE HANDS

Some women have such perfect features that they cut their hair short and wear it plastered against their heads and still look strikingly beautiful. But if you and I tried it, the results would be pretty bad. In other words, the fact that a coiffure is very smart and stylish doesn't necessarily mean that it will look well on any person. Most women realize that, but then they turn right around and think that just because long, pointed fingernails look nice on someone else, they will be attractive on everybody. That's not right. Your nails must "fit" your hands just as your clothes must be suited to your age and figure.

Short Nails for Blunt Fingers

Look at your own hands. If you have a small, square hand with short, blunt fingers, it would be ridiculous for you to wear extremely pointed nails, which might look like artificial claws stuck on the ends of your fingers. Instead, wear your nails rather short and rounded, and don't let them extend any farther than the tips of your fingers. If your fingers are broad and somewhat square at the ends, but still long, the nail-shape should be about the same as the first case, but the curve of the nails can be longer so that the oval projects slightly beyond the tips of the fingers. The girl with slender hands and long, tapering fingers can wear her nails as long and as pointed as she wishes. Since her hands do not have any, in 1 point, she can wear
