FASHION HINTS

(Continued from page seven) cannot have poise without comfort, and poise is the essence of style. Above all has the fabric been treated by the new process that make it resistant to dust, perspiration, crumpling, etc. If it washable? For summer wear, try to purchase as many washable dresses as possible.

For summer shoes I advise the ever popular brown leather and white buckskin spectator sport pumps. This shoe will go well with every type of summer clothes except the dressiest chiffons.

never made by trials and just in connection with medical society meetings. Such purposes will not stand up under the criticism of informed persons. The man who knows his subject throws the fake cure or discovery out the window. The importer dares not show his head among the men who know their subject. So, as his purpose in life is mere gain, merely to profit by the gullibility of those who know no better than to believe him, he goes directly to the public with his claims, and may sell many of his wares before he is exposed as a fraud. He will always claim that the medical profession refused to consider his evidence. He is required to make that claim to explain why the alleged treatment or cure has not been accepted and approved by the profession. But it is a false claim. It is easily proved to be false to any fair minded person who will stop to think that right here in Durham we are to have a meeting of those men throughout the state whose principal reason for coming here is to learn more about how to help sick people. It is obvious that no claim of discovery or improvement of methods could fail to get a hearing before such a gathering as this. The quack does not wish to come. He knows that his promises are false and his claims fictitious, and that evidence will be believed only by those who know less of the subject than he does.

Dr. Wilbur C. Davidson, Dean Duke University Medical School is conducting a two day symposium on Pediatrics (Diseases of children). The meeting here in Durham affords an unusual opportunity for Duke University Medical School and Hospital also Lincoln Hospital are always willing to help us in giving the last word in medical developments.
