Hill of the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company made a talk which was quite informational as well as inspiring. The club is sponsoring a series of lectures on the subject, "Vocational Education". Mr. Hill's address was on the topic "The Problem of Increasing Employment of Negroes." The three methods explained for solving this problem were first, to seek employment in white firms already established; second, to organize new Negro enterprises, and third to seek employment in Federal, state and local concerns.

"When Dr. McCrorey came to Charlotte, the University was in its infancy. A quiet, studious youth, he began to dream dreams, to formulate an enduring philosophy of life, which has sustained and strengthened him through these many years. Doubtless even then he had a vision of a great future for Smith.

from forty-two of North Carolina's one hundred counties. The youngest child, Barbara Milton, four years of age, is from Greensboro, N. C., and the oldest, Etta Mae Craig, twenty-one, is from Chapel Hill, N. C. There are one hundred nine boys and fifty-eight girls. The children are of all religious denominations. There are forty-four Methodists, thirty-two Baptists, three Seventh Day Adventists, one Holiness, three Sanctified, two Congregationalist, one Presbyterian, and fifty-eight who have no denominational preference.

The Orphanage is now controlled by a board of Trustees composed of five Negro members and five white citizens of Granville county, appointed by the Governor. The five white trustees recently re-appointed by Clyde R. Hoxey are: Hon. F. W. Hayswood, Jr., member of congress, Atty. Ben W. Parham, Dr. N. C. Daniel, Judge B. W. Lassiter, and Hon. J. W. Medford, executive vice-president of Oxford National Bank. The Negro members of the Board of Trustees are: Dr. E. E. Toney, chairman of the Board of Trustees, Dr. J. E. citizens so that they might take their places in society as useful men and women rather than become detriment to society.

The Orphanage is unique in its set up. It was founded by a group of interested Negro citizens, namely: Augustus Shepard, Joshua Perry, W. A. Pettito, M. C. Ransom, Henry Hester, O. P. Cheatham, Isaac Alston, Oscar Ethelock, A. B. Fleming, J. W. Levey, J. C. Pefferies, J. T. Reynolds, M. F. Thornton, and H. E. Long.

At first all the support came from Sunday Schools, churches, and interested white and colored citizens. In 1909 in recognition of the good work of Rev. Augustus Shepard, the Orphanage was made a State subsidiary, and its appropriations have increased from $1,000 in 1909 to $26,500 in 1937. Last year the Duke Foundation gave $3,600 to the institution from its Orphan section which has been making similar donations each year. In addition to this, many donations and gifts are made by associations, churches, Sunday Schools, and interested white and colored citizens.

These and other gifts and donations are solicited and accepted. Here we have a farm of four hundred acres on which food is raised by the children under the supervision of a farmer.

Under the Hon. H. P. Cheatham, one of North Carolina's outstanding citizens and Negro Congressmen, eleven brick buildings were constructed. The bricks were made by the orphans of the institution. Two of these structures are gifts of the late Hon. J. B. Duke's family. One, the Anger Duke Memorial School, is a beautiful ten moor, two-story building, which was given by Mrs. Duke in honor of her son. The other building is the Baby Cottage, an imposing three-story structure, given by Mr. J. B. Duke before his death. This building is occupied by the boys under ten years of age.

The Orphanage serves the dependent children of the State of North Carolina. The one hundred fifty-four children come not Henry Armstrong, the California Buz Saw, can whip Pedro Mantanez, the Puerto Rican lightweight champ. After watching both men fight, our selection is Armstrong. Armstrong kayoed Benny Bass in the fourth round of a scheduled ten rounds in Philadelphia last week, and in California the same week Montanez knocked out Wesley Ramey in the first round. Don't be surprised if Lou Ambers ekes out a fifteen round decision over Montanez when they meet in New York, September 17, for the lightweight crown.

Lorenzo Pack, former Chicago Golden Gloves champion, stopped Leroy Hapnes of Philadelphia in the second round of their bout on the Bass-Armstrong card. Incidentally, Primo Carnero, who aided Haynes by virtue of two kayoes on his way to the top, has announced his intention of returning to the wars. Orville Brouillard, Canadian lightweight, held Kid Chocolate, the Cuban Bon Bon, to a draw in their bout in Jersey City last week. Since starting his comeback, the Keed has lost only one bout and that was to Phil Baker.

Because they discovered, after the race had been run, that the track was several feet short, Long John Woodruff's mark of 1:49.6 which he hung up in the 800 meters race at the Pan American meet held in Dallas, Texas, on July 23, will be discounted. The fact that he clipped two full seconds off the established world's record and breasted the tape at least 12 yards ahead of his nearest competitor will count for naught.

LUMBERTON Pays Higher Prices

The Tobacco Grower Watches Sales on Various Markets Closely, and he is Hard to Fool When It Comes To Prices. When He Realizes One Market Is Selling Tobacco Higher Than Another He Begins to Patronize The High Market. In other words, a Growing Tobacco Market Is A High Tobacco Market. Lumberton Is A Growing Market . . . Paying Higher Prices, and Here Is Absolute Proof . . . Proof of The Lumberton Market's Popularity With The Growers; Proof of The Higher Prices . . .

Lumberton's Sales in 1934, 13,272,358 Lbs.
Lumberton's Sales in 1935, 17,250,454 Lbs.
Lumberton's Sales in 1936, 19,575,658 Lbs.

NOW JUST WHY DOES LUMBERTON PAY HIGHER PRICES, AND AS A RESULT GROW LARGER EACH YEAR. THIS QUESTION IS EASY TO ANSWER. SEVERAL YEARS AGO THE POSSIBILITIES OF LUMBERTON AS A TOBACCO MARKET BEGAN TO ATTRACT OUTSTANDING WAREHOUSEMEN. THESE MEN BEGAN TO LOCATE ON THE LUMBERTON MARKET . . . MORE CAME EACH YEAR, AND RIGHT NOW THE MOST PROGRESSIVE, EFFICIENT SET OF WAREHOUSEMEN IN THE TOBACCO WORLD OPERATE LUMBERTON'S SEVEN WAREHOUSES. THEY ARE WITHOUT EQUALS. WE WILL NAME THEM
