WHITEVILLE — The auspicious opening of the Whiteville Tobacco Market on August 10th was the signal for the beginning of the best season of all the many good seasons in the history of the Whiteville Market. Farmers who came the first day have returned many times with larger loads that have sold for the highest prices obtainable and which have been highly satisfactory to all tobacco growers. Whiteville has been patronized by farmers from all of the bright leaf areas who are bringing vast quantities of tobacco from far distances. Indication are that this weeks sales will be the highest on record. Since prices are high, satisfactory, and profitable it is a great risk to hold back, thinking that prices will be paid later. It is reasonable to suppose that the market price will decline; when is unknown. However, it is not advisable to be careless in grading and rush the golden weed to market in poor condition. Cure well, Grade well, and then it will Sell Well. Patrons of the Whiteville market are requested not to listen false reports regarding the Whiteville market. The supervisor advises that there is no one employed in any town, filling station, or elsewhere, who tell
