Xmas Activities Begin At N.C. College

The Yuletide activities began at the college Saturday evening, December 10, when Doctor Frederick H. Koch of the Carolina Playmakers read Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" to the students and faculty and many friends of the college.

The large audience that heard the reading was quite fortunate as Doctor Koch has read to many outstanding audiences in all sections of the United States. For over an hour he held his listeners spellbound at his uncanny ability to read Dickens' "A Christmas Carol."

For 33 years, Doctor Koch, head of the noted dramatic group at the University of North Carolina, has been reading Dickens' immortal ghost story of Christmastide all over the United States.

Dr. Koch has read the story four times in Town Hall, New York City; twice at the Institute of Arts and Science of Columbia University, and in countless large cities and towns.

Three decades ago, as a young instructor in English at the University of North Dakota, Dr. Koch happened to re-read "A Christmas Carol" and was struck with the idea that every one ought to read the famous story at Christmas. At the suggestion of his friends, Dr. Koch read it aloud that first year to a small group around a crackling wood fire. His audiences grew at North Dakota until the large gymnasium there was filled to overflowing; then person in other towns asked to hear him.

When we went to the University of North Carolina, where he founded the Carolina Playmakers, he continued to read "The Carol" aloud.

Marie Downing BEAUTY AND ROMANCE

SPONSORED BY LARIEUSE BEAUTY FOUNDATION

The Larieuse Beauty Foundation was established by the Godfrey Manufacturing Company to study methods of preserving woman's natural beauty, and to make the results of this research available to the public.

Dame Fashion, who keeps us ever on the go trying to follow her slightest whim, has this season dictated that we should wear our hair in a "swept-up" manner, all the hair brushed up from the back of the neck and piled up in curls on top. This new culture is really very becoming to most of us and gives a youthful effect. It has, however, one minor drawback. Hair worn in such a new and startling manner attracts attention and unless the hair is in excellent condition, the attention will not necessarily be favorable. Therefore we must look at our tresses critically and decide what must be done.

Gleaming Hair an Asset Silky, gleaming hair does not appear overnight. It is the result of care. Daily brushing is necessary to keep the hair free from dust and stimulate the scalp. Frequent shampooing keeps it clean and shining. Hot oil treatments for dry hair remove that dull, stiff look. Patience is required, of course, to work out a satisfactory routine of hair care and keep with it.

Above all, we must avoid any trace of dinginess or streakiness to get the most out of the new off-the-face hair dress. There is really no excuse for streaked, discolored hair nowadays. There was once a time when only professional hairdressers could successfully touch up the hair but that day is long past. Today, truly, indeed, gray-streaked hair can be treated to look its original color, and better still, can be made silky.

What are your beauty problems? Write Marie Downing, Larieuse Beauty Foundation, Room 607—511 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo., and she will be glad to answer them. Be sure to enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.
