E. C. Brooks, Jr. Has Outstanding Record

Indication this week point to E. C. Brooks, Jr. as the leading contender for the State Senator from the sixteenth senatorial district, comprised of Durham Orange, Alamance, and Caswell Counties.

Political observers contend that Brooks is far in the lead over his opponents. They contribute this strong lead to his experience in the role of a law-maker and his past record as Representative from Durham county.

During his outstanding career Mr. Brooks has served the Democratic party with untiring and unselfish efforts. As coordinator of the Democratic Executive Committee he headed the first Jackson Day Dinners held in the State of North Carolina. In 1931 he was appointed by O. Max Gardner to represent the State at the Yorktown Centennial.

Brooks, son of Dr. E. C. Brooks, president emeritus of N. C. State College, received his education at the Virginia Military Institute and Duke University. He received his law training at Duke, the University of North Carolina, and Harvard law school. He married a former Durham County school teacher and has two children, Eugene III and Susan Brooks. Mr. Brooks has always taken an active part in the civic affairs of Durham. He is well known throughout the District and has many friends and supporters in every county.

Mr. Brooks is deeply interested in public education. He feels that the State government should work hand in hand with the federal government towards solving our social and economic problems.

During his years of service as Durham county representative in the Durham House Mr. Brooks was noted for his policy of taking a forceful stand on every issue. He did not hide his views. Instead he always took an active part in fighting for what he believed to be right.

Observers have expressed the opinion that due to the increasing importance of the State Senate position it is becoming more and more necessary that a

This is Jesse's last year of barnstorming. He intends to return to Ohio State in the fall and get that degree, then attend to his business interests in and around Cleveland, and perhaps coach a little on the side.

Jesse holds the hundred meter world record, 10.2, 1/10 more than once tied the hundred yard record of 9.4, and other records. But all his records and all his heat, he is not "high hat" even when pestered by hundreds of autograph seekers, and "greater love has no man" for his public than this.
