Walter White Attacks Green

NEW YORK — Chiding Wm. Green, president of the American Federation of Labor for failing to back up his pronouncements against racial intolerance with action, Walter White told several hundred delegates attending the fifteenth annual convention dinner of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters at Mecca Temple here Monday, Sept. 16 that "I will be more impressed by Mr. Green's speeches when he expresses himself against racial intolerance in deeds as well as in words."

The NAACP secretary was referring to a speech made by the AF of L president before the convention at Salem ME Church, 129th Street and Seventh Avenue early in the week, when Green said, "So long as I can express myself, I shall fight against racial intolerance and hatred in America."

"I listened with amusement yesterday to William Green," he said, "telling you that, 'So long as I can express myself I shall fight against racial intolerance and hatred in America, and his statement that the AF of L is leading the way against racial hatreds and prejudices here similar to those that have caused the European war."

"In Tampa, Florida, five hundred skilled Negro shipyard workers are walking the streets today because the Boilermakers and other AF of L unions which bar Negroes from membership by constitutional provisions, secured a closed shop contract with the Tampa Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company which is building ships for the United States Maritime Commission. We have appealed repeatedly to Mr. Green over a period of more than a year to act in this situation but, to date, completely without results. In Los Angeles trained Negro aviation mechanics have for many months been trying to get employment in airplane plants which are filling orders for the United States Army and Navy. Recently the Boeing plant agreed to accept Negroes if they were members of the mechanics union but this union, too, bars Negroes from membership, as the Boeing plant, I suspect, know. Thus the Negro worker has his life blood squeezed out between the upper and nether millstones of employer and labor union discrimination. As for myself I will be more impressed by Mr. Green's speeches when he expresses himself against racial intolerance in deeds as well as in words."

The NAACP secretary drew a searing picture of the discrimination against Negroes in National Defense industries and the Army and Navy, the six lynchings thus far in 1940, terrorizing Negroes who seek their Constitutional right to vote in Tennessee and Texas.

"These facts," he said, "make it increasingly difficult for Negroes to respond to pleas to 'Save Democracy.' That is my the deliberations of the Brotherhood at this time are tremendously important. We have got to continue the fight not only in our own behalf but to save America from its own blindness and bigotry."

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, and A. Philip Randolph were among the prominent persons who spoke at the dinner. Mr. Green was not present.

Langston Hughes On the Air

NEW YORK — Langston Hughes, famous Negro author, is to be Prof. John T. Frederick's guest on "Of Men and Books" over Columbia network Saturday, Sept. 28, when the CBS literary critics discuss "The Negro in American Literature" WABC-CBS, 1:00 EDT.

The broadcast is the first on the program's new time schedule. "Of Men and Books" has been heard Tuesdays from 4 to 4:15.

The Sept. 28 broadcast also marks the opening of the second year of the course in literature at Northwestern University which Prof. Frederick is giving in conjunction with his "Of Men and Books" series.

Students in this course assemble in the studios of WBEM, Columbia's station in Chicago, where Prof. Frederick's radio talks originate. Following each broadcast the CBS literary critic continues his discussion on the program topic and answers questions by the students based on remarks made during the program. The guest speaker also participates in this after broadcast discussion.

Prof. Frederick plans to review Hughes' recently published

Many young men have discovered latent talents in themselves they knew nothing of. Above is shown several music students learning the art of playing musical instruments. Many of them are now gainfully employed in orchestras, bands and other organizations throughout the country. Thus the CCC program begun during the depression days has become a permanent fixture in American youth development.

Durhamites Going To Winston Classic

All Durham is making plans to journey to Winston Salem next Saturday night, October 12th, to join the throngs from this and other states which will be on hand to see the North Carolina College Eagles open their CIAA schedule against the Big Blues of Bluefield. This game is being offered as a key inter-state classic and will give an exact index to who should be expected in the conference this year. The kickoff has been scheduled for 8:00 P. M. at Bowman Gray Memorial Stadium.

This will be the third time that Bluefield has been an attraction in Winston Salem and they have won all games played there, there by establishing themselves as favorites in the minds of fans in both states. North Carolina College will be playing there for the first time but their decisive victory over the Blues in Durham last year makes the attraction a natural.

To Give Information

The educational phase of the campaign, White said in the letter, includes a program of disseminating among church, civic, fraternal and youth groups concerning the federal government's operation of apprenticeship schools and courses in vocational training for the purpose of providing skilled workers the plants to which federal contracts have been given.

In order to get the maximum of support behind the program, NAACP branches have been urged to work closely with industrial service organizations, labor unions, and other bonafide organizations in their communities.

The association also called upon organizations interested in working in the job campaign to get in touch with the NAACP national headquarters at 69 5th Avenue, New York.

autobiography, "The Big Sea," in addition to interviewing the author on the general subject of Negro contributions to American literature. He also will review "Dusk of Dawn," biography by W. E. B. DuBois, another leading Negro author.

Hughes had led an interesting life. He was a cook and waiter in the night clubs of PARIS, was a seaman on a freighter which plied the waters to Europe and Africa, taught English in Mexico and was a busboy in a Washington hotel where Vachel Lindsay befriended him. Among his earlier works are two books of poems, "The Weary Blues" and a novel, "Not Without Laughter," when he returned to Washington.
