First Air Express Shipment Carried Thirty Years Ago

Today (November 7) marks the thirtieth anniversary of the first air express shipment in the history of transportation, according to local Railway Express officials.

The first package to be transported by air consisted of five bolts of silk weighing fifty lbs and valued at $1,000. It was carried in a skeleton-frame Wright bi-plane from Dayton to Columbus, Ohio, sixty-five miles, in seventy-one minutes.

Phil O. Parmelee, pilot, had his course marked part of the way by a large white streamer waved from the back of a Big Four train. The shipment had arrived in Dayton by rail express from Rogers and Thompson, New York City, and was consigned to the Mrehouse-Martens Dry Goods Co., Columbus.

Orville Wright was in the crowd at the Wright Aerodrome to witness the take-off, and the package was delivered to a representative of the consignee at Driving Park, Columbus, one hour and eleven minutes later.

With a brisk tail wind a modern transport plane carrying passengers, mail and express recently flew over the Dayton-Columbus route at a six-mile-a-minute speed, agency men said.

Official Vote In County Set At 17,301

The Durham County Board of Elections today found that the official vote in the Presidential race in the county totaled 17,301 as it began tabulation of the various National, State and local results of Tuesday's general election. The board recessed shortly after noon until two o'clock this afternoon, at which time it was to complete checking of ballots.

The first woman professor at North Carolina State College is Miss Gertrude Cox, teacher of experimental statistics. For the last seven years she has been on the faculty at Iowa State College.

The 1940-41 world's cotton crop is placed tentatively at 30,500,000 bales as compared with 28,900,000 bales last season, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture.
