

Pictorial REVIEW

1 9 4 0 Interesting Events And Interesting People Who Figured In Last Year's News Parade

Possibly the largest number of men to attend Sunday School at one time at St. Joseph A. M. E. Church was when the Moore Bible Class of White Rock visited the Berean Sunday School Class. The picture shows the two classes immediately after they had left the church.

Governor Clyde R. Hoey is shown talking with Marion Anderson, America's top-most singer, after Miss Anderson had rendered a recital in the Raleigh Memorial Auditorium to a capacity audience.

The above photo shows officers of the Mechanics — Farmers Bank in attendance at the Institute of Bankers held at the University of North Carolina. In picture at rear-right is Honorable Gurney P. Hoey, Commissioner of Bankers of North Carolina at the rear-left is William A. Irwin of New York.

After more than 50 years as principal of Hillside High School, Professor W. G. Pearson was retired and was succeeded by Prof. William McElrath. Above is shown a farewell party given by members of the Hillside faculty in honor of Prof. Pearson.

The North Carolina Ushers Association, which was held in Raleigh was the largest in the history of the convention. Sunday's meeting climaxed the entire session with an address delivered by Dr. Charlotte Hawkins Brown, shown delivering the principal address in the afternoon. More than 1,500 ushers were in attendance at last year's session.

The opening of the new colored library on Fayetteville Street which is reputed to be one of the finest in the south was an epoch-making event of last year. Dr. Shephard, president of the North Carolina College for Negroes is shown delivering the principal address. Seated on the platform with him at the left is the late Professor E. D. Mickle who was at that time chairman of the Board of Trustees. Seated at Prof. Mickle's right is Mayor W. F. Carr.

A group of students from Elizabeth City State Teachers College attended an interracial Institute held at the University of North Carolina. The group was headed by Professor H. L. Trigg, president of the college. The photo was taken in Durham while the party was enroute to the University.

The North Carolina College Football eleven reached its peak this year when it tied the strong Florida Alligators from Tallahassee. Between the halves freshmen girls and the North Carolina College band performed for the spectators. The above photo shows the freshmen girls forming the letters 'N. C. C.'