OPA Slaps Ceiling On Corn Products. Aids Price Control

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The Office of Price Administration has put a price ceiling on corn meal, corn flour, hominy, hominy grits and other products made by the dry corn milling process and used for human consumption it was announced this week.

This action by the OPA is a further step in the simplification of food price controls, and will be felt chiefly by consumers in the Southeastern states, where consumption of corn meal, hominy and hominy grits is heaviest. Corn flakes and canned hominy as well as corn products used principally for animal feeding do not come under the regulation, which is effective January 26.

The OPA states that there is not likely to be any material change in prices to the consumer. A shopper will still find prices on these corn products varying slightly according to the size and type of store at which she buys. Wholesale and retail prices for corn and flour continue under the coverage of Maximum Price Regulation 237 and Maximum Price Regulation 238. Wholesale and retail prices for hominy and hominy grits remain under the General Maximum Price Regulation which fixes prices at the highest level during March, 1942.

Differentials in price between white and yellow corn have been maintained by the new regulation. This formula for setting the price of corn products will generally reflect to farmers through out the country a price for corn which will be the higher of two prices (1) parity price, (2) the top price between January 1 and September 15, 1942, as provided in the Emergency Price Control act of 1942, as amended.

New Ration Cards To Be Issued To Small Consumers

WASHINGTON — Householders whose fuel oil heating ration is 200 gallons or less a year — an amount most common among those who heat by stoves — will receive ration coupons redeemable any time during the year rather than coupons segregated into "heating periods," the Office of Price Administration announced today. The new policy regarding the issuing of rations for 200 gallons or less means householders will receive class 3 coupons of definite gallonage value whose use is restricted by heating periods. Up to the present all heating allotments have been issued on either class 1 or class 2 sheet, with coupons divided between the five heating periods — that is, number 1, 2, 3, etc.

This modification, OPA pointed out, will relieve small users, who often buy less than 10 gallons at a time, of the need for applying at their boards to exchange their class 1 coupons for definite gallonage coupons of 1 or 5 gallons.

Those consumers who have received a heating allotment of 200 gallons or less on class 1 "indefinite" value coupons may exchange these at their local boards for the class 3 coupons. Local boards for the class 3 coupons, Local board, officials started, have been instructed to issue the 200 gallon or less allotments in coupon denominations which conform to the user's buying habits.

Officials warned that under the new procedure householders using 200 gallons or less of heating oil will have the entire responsibility of budgeting their consumption in line with the ration for the remainder of the heating year — that is, until September 30, 1943.

OPA stated that a relatively small percentage of the total heating oil consumption will be affected by this action. Therefore, the basic flexibility which the heating periods provide — making possible quick and efficient changes in the value of the heating coupons in line with supply and weather conditions — will not be decreased to any important extent.

In addition, OPA authorized religious practitioners to receive auxiliary rations for heating, space used primarily for treatments and to certify patients' needs for auxiliary rations in the same manner as medical practitioners.

These modifications contained in Amendment No. 28 to Ration Order No. 11 — Fuel Oil Rationing Regulations — are effective January 20, 1943.

LOCAL SCHOOLS TO ENTER WAR EXHIBIT IN STATE CONTEST

Every school in this country will have an opportunity to show what it is contributing toward the nation's war effort through exhibits to be held locally between now and February 19 according to Mrs. J. S. Blair of Elizabethown, president of the North Carolina Congress of Parents and Teachers, who is serving as State Education Chairman of the War Savings Staff of the Treasury Department. The exhibits will be in the form of scrapbooks which will include records of any sort showing war activities of the school. Among such records will be newspaper clippings, photographs and charts.

The local schools will have until February 19 to get the exhibits in the hands of superintendents of city or county schools, and March 1 has been set as the deadline for the superintendents to get the exhibits to the War Savings Staff at Greensboro of which Col. Charles H. Robertson is State Administrator.

The best scrapbooks from each county exhibit one from the and one from the Negro schools, will be selected for a State exhibit to be held in the spring, probably at the annual meeting of the North Carolina Education Association at Raleigh March 31-April 2.

The State exhibit will be presented as a part of the "Schools at War" program being conducted on a nation wide basis, and the best book at the State exhibit will be entered in a national exhibit to be held in the late spring or early summer. A "victory brick" one of 52 salvaged from Independence Hall, Philadelphia, during recent repair operations, will be presented by Governor J. M. Broughton to North Carolina schools at the State Exhibit in Raleigh, after which the souvenir will be sent on a tour of the schools of the State. Ultimately it will be placed in the archives of the State Museum.

Plans for the local and State exhibits were mapped at a meeting of the Advisory Committee of the Education Division of the War Savings Staff at Greensboro recently.

State Administrator Robertson and Mark Larkin of Washington, consulting expert of the Treasury's Education section, expressed appreciation of the fine record of war activities already achieved by the schools.

They outlined the principal objectives of the program as being to curtail luxury spending, stimulate the installment purchase of bonds by placing emphasis on the stamps as a partial payment, and to create

All Canned Goods Rationing in Feb

WASHINGTON—The government this week announced that rationing of all canned, dried and frozen fruits and vegetables will begin in February under a "point" system designed to insure equitable distribution of diminishing civilian supplies.

The rationing was ordered by Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard in his capacity as National Food Administrator, and Price Chief Leon Henderson announced immediately that he is taking steps to put the program into effect during February.

Wickard said military requirements now take one-third of the nation's supply of these foods, but will take one-half by next. While the remaining supply for civilians will insure the public a well rounded diet, he said more rationing is necessary to make sure every one gets his just share.

Make Appeal The Food Administrator and Director Elmer Davis of the Office of War Information, in a special radio program carried by the four major networks, appealed to the people to refrain from beginning a wave of buying and hoarding before the new program goes into effect.

Davis said the plan will best make sure that after the men in the armed forces have been taken care of the rest of us will go on getting three square meals a day.

At the same time, he warned that rationing will not be relaxed when Henderson's resignation as price chief becomes effective. Rationing, he said, must continue until the war is won or a better system is devised—and so far nobody has found a better method.

Wickard expressed confidence that the public "will have the common sense and patriotism not to hoard."

"If you want to help the Axis, one of the best ways is to hoard food," he said. OPA officials said sales of the foodstuffs will be frozen a week before the program starts. In the meantime they asked consumers not to begin a wave of buying or hoarding because all stocks on hand must be declared before they receive a copy of War Ration Book Number 2, now being prepared for distribution.

The new ration books will contain two types of coupons—blue one for canned goods, including soups, and red ones for meat, which also is scheduled to be rationed soon.

new revenue for war savings through student employment to be supervised in accordance with State labor laws.
